QUESTION 12.—WHO HAVE DIED THIS YEAR?

OHIO CONFERENCE.

1. FREDERICK B. BUTLER was born of pious parents, July 22, 1803, in Prince George county, Va. In the twenty-second year of his age, under the ministry of Rev. Russel Bigelow, he was awakened to a sense of his lost condition as a sinner, and seeking earnestly for redemption in Christ's blood, was shortly after happily converted to God. Filled with love to God, and moved by the Holy Ghost, he gave himself wholly to the work of the ministry, and was admitted on trial by the Ohio conference, at its session in 1827, and appointed to London circuit; in 1828 he was appointed to Straight Creek; in 1829 he was admitted into full connection, and having been signally successful the past year in winning souls to Christ, was reappointed to the same field of labour. At the close of this year, his health failing, he retired from the work, with a view of recruiting it. It pleased God to raise him up, and he returned in 1834, and was gladly received by his brethren. Wilmington and West Chester circuits, and Lebanon station, were severally filled by him with great acceptability and usefulness. In all these places the divine Being crowned his labours with success. At length he was attacked by a pulmonary affection, which slowly wasted his energies, and terminated both his labours and his life. As his end drew near, his sufferings, though severe, were borne with great meekness and patience. To a friend, who asked him how he was, he replied, "As it respects my body, you see that it is fast sinking, and will soon be housed in the tomb; but as it respects the state of my mind, all seems to be about right. My faith is the same—my hope is the same—my love is the same—my prospect is clear; and whether you see me die or not, when I am gone you may know all is well." In this happy frame he continued until he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus.

As a Christian and as a minister our beloved brother was conspicuous. In his deportment, dignity and humility, fervour and gentleness, plainness and brotherly kindness, with uniform conformity to the divine will, were exemplified. Holiness was a theme on which he delighted to dwell, and shone forth brilliantly in his life. In the pulpit his soul kindled with the burden of his theme; and the divine unction that rested upon him, and the evangelical energy of his sermons, gave a success to his labours that has been exceeded by few. His whole aim was "to show himself approved unto God, a workman that needed not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." He died March 5, 1839, in the thirty-sixth year of his life.

2. The Rev. DUDLEY WOODBRIDGE, son of D. Woodbridge, was born at Marietta, Washington county, Ohio, in the year 1814. Favoured by Providence with pious and wealthy parents, every means were employed for his intellectual and moral improvement. Before he experienced religion he was distinguished for the correctness of his life, his amiability of disposition, and a regard for the interests and happiness of his associates. During a course of collegiate education at the Ohio University, in the ever-memorable revival with which the church was favoured in Athens, under the labours of the Rev. H. S. Fernandes and Rev. R. O. Spencer, in August, 1827, brother Woodbridge was made a subject of the regenerating grace of God. Influenced by pure motives, and from a deliberate conviction of duty, although his parents and friends were members of a sister church, he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. As a private member, his course was marked with consistency, fidelity in the discharge of duty, and a conscientious adherence to every distinctive feature of Methodism. Shortly after his conversion he had impressions on the subject of the ministry; but it was not until he had graduated, and with honour withdrew from the bosom of his Alma Mater, that he gave himself to the work of preaching the gospel. In the fall of 1834 he joined the Ohio annual conference, and received his first appointment for Norwich circuit. In 1835 he was appointed to Athens circuit, and in 1836 to Belpre circuit, where his health failed. At the Xenia conference, 1837, he obtained a superannuated relation, and continued thus until his decease. The leading features of brother Woodbridge's character, as a minister, were gravity, soundness of speech, and uncorruptness of manners. His walk and conversation were a striking exemplification of the excellence of our holy religion; and in whatever circle he moved, the impression was made, that in him the graces of God's Spirit richly dwelt. Possessing a mind patient in investigation, and persevering in the pursuit of truth, and every qualification essential to the perfection of ministerial character, he was a workman that needed not to be ashamed, and commended himself to the confidence and affections of all men. But pure as his spirit was, and qualified as he might have been for the work of the ministry, the great Head of the church dismissed him from labour, and called him to reward. After a short illness, which he bore as became a Christian minister, he left the field of labour and suffering for the land of rest and enjoyment, January 3, 1839. God grant that his associates, and all Israel, may meet him again.

3. The Rev. William D. Barrett was born in the state of Virginia, July 19, A. D. 1797. He was blessed with a pious mother, who was among the first that embraced religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in that part of the country. She taught her children early to fear God. Brother Barrett from his childhood was impressed with the necessity of a change of heart, but did not seek it fully until in his nineteenth year, at a camp meeting, God, for Christ's sake, pardoned all his sins. He soon felt it his duty to call sinners to repentance, and commenced exhorting them to flee the wrath to come. He was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher at the Virginia conference in 1817, in which he laboured four years with great success, when his health failed, and he was brought near the gates of death. He then located, and moved with his family to the state of Ohio, and continued to preach as a local minister until he so far recovered his health as to justify his travelling again. He was readmitted into the Ohio annual conference in the year 1830, where he continued to prosecute his heavenly calling until his work was done, and he fell with triumph at his post on the 22d day of February, A. D. 1839.

As a man, he was open and frank, and incapable of guile or hypocrisy; as a friend, he was confident and unwavering: he was the Christian gentleman: as a husband, he was kind and affectionate; as a Christian, his piety ws deep and uniform; as a minister, he was indefatigable and successful, and his talents were above mediocrity. He did not study to make his sermons flowery or eloquent, but urged the great truths of his mission on the sinner's heart. His great and constant aim was to win souls, and God was with him. Many will praise God in eternity for his faithful labours; and although deeply afflicted, he filled several appointments the week in which he died. On the day previous to his death he made ready to start to his work, when he was arrested by an attack which lasted several hours; and when his fever came on, he sunk under it into the grave. His last moments were peaceful and tranquil. His prospects were a full assurance of a crown of righteousness; and in this state of mind, and with these prospects, he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. It may literally be said of brother Barrett, he fell at his post, and that he at once ceased to work and live. May we imitate his example, and meet him in heaven.

4. Rev. Moses Crume. The place of his birth we have not, at present, the means of ascertaining. He was awakened and brought to the knowledge of the truth in Shenandoah county, Va., under the preaching of old father Hathaway, who travelled Berkley circuit in 1785. The time when he emigrated to Kentucky we have not been able to find out; but his first license to preach as a preacher in the Methodist Episcopal Church bears date April 12, 1793, at Ferguson's chapel, Nelson county, Kentucky. He sustained the relation of a local preacher until the year 1808, when he was recommended to the Western annual conference, at Liberty Hill, Tenn., as a proper person to be received on trial in the travelling connection. He was accordingly received, and appointed that conference year to travel on Whitewater circuit; 1810, Cincinnati circuit; 1811, Whitewater; 1812, Mad River and Xenia connected; 1813, Oxford; 1814, Lawrenceburg; 1815, Union; 1816, Mad River; 1817–18, presiding elder on the Miami district; 1819, presiding elder on the Lebanon district; 1820, superannuated; 1821, Oxford; 1822, supernumerary on Greenville; 1823, superannuated again, in which relation he remained until the day of his death.

Our beloved brother Crume had not the advantage of much education, but he possessed a strong mind and a sound judgment. He was retiring in his manners. His piety was never doubted, and in many respects he was a useful preacher and an ornament to the church of God. In his superannuated relation he laboured, when able, in the vineyard of his Lord, and was universally respected in his neighbourhood. He was suddenly called from his labours and sufferings to his reward. He died in great peace at his residence in the neighbourhood of Oxford University, Butler county, state of Ohio, in 1839.* Notwithstanding the earthly house of his tabernacle is dissolved, he has a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens, "where the wicked cease from troubling, and where the weary are at rest." May we imitate his virtues, and meet him in a better world. Amen.

5. GEORGE FATE was born in Perry county, Ohio, about the year 1808, and departed this life in the town of Marion, Marion county, Ohio, August 28, A. D. 1839. Of the early history of brother Fate we have the means of ascertaining but little. In the year 1827 he became Scripturally convinced "of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment to come." He sought the Lord by deep repentance and humble faith in the merits of the Lord Jesus Christ; and at a camp meeting on Lancaster circuit, in the fall of that year, he obtained the testimony of the Spirit of God, bearing witness with his spirit, that he was adopted into the family of God. He immediately united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which, while a private member, his light shone as a true Christian. In the beginning of the year 1835 he was licensed as an exhorter; in the latter part of the same year he was licensed to preach as a local preacher; in the year 1836 he was recommended to the Ohio annual conference, as a suitable person to enter the travelling connection; and at the conference in Chilicothe, in that year, he was received and appointed to labour on Norwich circuit. In 1837 he was appointed to London circuit; where, under his labours and those of his colleague, the Lord very powerfully revived the work of his grace, and many souls were added to the church. In the year 1838 he was appointed to Marion circuit with brother John Blampied; where, like a true soldier of his great Master, he fell in the field of conflict, and laid down his charge only with his life.

Brother Fate was a man of ordinary education, and of, perhaps, no more than ordinary native mind; but by diligence in improving every opportunity of acquiring knowledge, he was rising to be "a workman that needed not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." His zeal for the cause of God was ardent and lively, while his whole deportment said he gloried only in the cross of Christ. He was plain in his dress, earnest in his manner, and fearless in the discharge of his duty. His end was peace; while some of his last words were, "O there is a great fulness in Christ!" He has left a widow and three small children to join with the church in mourning the early departure of one so dear. But his spirit has gone up on high to reap the fruits of his labours, leaving an example with us that long will live in the memory of numerous friends.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

6. PAXTON CUMMING was born in Rockingham county, Va., February 12, 1801. He experienced religion at sixteen years of age. In 1824 he was licensed to preach, and received on trial in the Holston conference as a travelling preacher, and appointed to Wythe circuit. In 1825 he travelled the Newport circuit, East Tennessee. In 1826 he was elected and ordained deacon, and appointed to Pigeon circuit, North Carolina, where he travelled two years. In 1828 he located for want of health, and subsequently moved to Illinois. He was readmitted into the travelling connection in the Illinois conference in 1837, and appointed to the Marion circuit. His health having again failed, in 1838 he was superannuated; and on the 21st of August, 1839, he died in peace, and the hope of eternal life at God's right hand.

It was said of brother Cumming, by those who knew him best, that he was a remarkable instance of the fulness and freeness of perfect love and entire sanctification. His life was a living comment upon the gospel he preached; and at his death, while he was enabled to shout victory and triumph, the room was filled with the power of God, and all who were present felt that he had conquered as he fell.

7. JAMES HARSHA, the subject of this brief memoir, was born in Kentucky, on the 26th of May, 1805. At the age of fifteen he embraced religion, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He subsequently removed to Indiana, and married. His mind was for some time seriously exercised on the subject of a call to the holy ministry, until the fall of the year 1832, when (his wife having previously died) he was licensed to preach, and received on trial into the Illinois annual conference, and appointed to Paris circuit, on which his labours were owned and blessed of God in the awakening and conversion of many souls. In 1833 he was appointed to the Shawneetown circuit, and was useful. In the fall of 1834 he was received into full connection, and elected and ordained deacon, and appointed to travel on the Salem mission. During this year he was again married. He was next appointed to travel on the Eugene circuit, where he laboured with success. In the fall of 1836 he was elected to elders' orders, and received ordination, and was appointed to the Danville circuit, where he travelled two years. In the beginning of the year 1838 a most remarkable and powerful revival of religion commenced in the circuit, in which he laboured incessantly and with great success in the salvation of souls. During this revival it is thought brother Harsha injured his constitution, and laid the foundation for the disease of which he died. In the fall of 1838 he took a superannuated relation to the conference, and continued to grow worse until the 20th of March, 1839, when he fell asleep in the arms of Jesus, in the full prospect of a blissful immortality beyond the grave, aged thirty-three years and ten months. His disease was pulmonary.

Brother Harsha was remarkable for his fidelity and promptness in the various duties of a Methodist preacher. He was plain and pointed in his address; consistent and uncompromising in his course; yet he was agreeable and popular in his various fields of labour. His peculiar gifts were those of the awakening kind, while his life was that of true piety and enlightened devotion.

8. Spencer W. Hunter was born of Baptist parents, Samuel and Elizabeth Hunter, in Shelby county, Ky., Dec. 21, 1801. In the fall of 1823 he was converted to God, and in 1827 was licensed to preach the gospel. In 1828–29 he travelled under the presiding elder. He was admitted on trial in the Illinois conference in the fall of 1830, and appointed to the Quincy circuit. In 1831 he was reappointed to the Quincy circuit. In 1832 he was transferred to the Indiana conference, and appointed to the Rushville circuit. In 1833 he was appointed to the Columbus circuit. In 1834 he was sent to the Pendleton circuit. In 1835 he was without an appointment, at his own request. In 1836 he was transferred back to the Illinois conference, and again placed on the Quincy circuit. In 1837 he was appointed to the Pittsfield circuit, and in the fall of 1838 he was reappointed to the Pittsfield circuit; but before he could reach his place of abode he was arrested by a summons from the chief Shepherd, and appointed to his everlasting rest. He had scarcely travelled one day's journey from Alton, where the conference sat, before he was attacked with chill and fever. He continued to travel by short stages, until the disease changed to an incorrigible dysentery, which terminated his travel within eighteen miles of his family. He was visited by his affectionate companion and kind physicians. But kind and skilful attention proved unavailing. In twenty-eight days after the first attack, on the 18th day of October, 1838, he fell asleep in Jesus. For some days previous to his departure his mind was troubled; but on the day of his departure the Sun of righteousness dispelled the cloud, and shone divinely clear upon his rejoicing soul. The prospect before him was glorious; and with his latest breath he shouted "victory." A widow and only son are left to mourn their loss.

Brother Hunter was a good and useful minister of the gospel. In him was blended a discriminating mind, with a good delivery. The graces which ornament the man united in him with the gifts of a sound Christian minister. In the pulpit he was plain and energetic; in the social circle, a man of God;—and as he visited from house to house, his agreeable manners, and the holiness of his life, made him both a welcome and a useful guest. He lived much beloved, and died greatly lamented.

9. William Cundiff. Where this brother was born is not known to his friends in this part of Illinois. He was, however, for some time known to reside in Muhlenburg county, Ky., and was converted to God, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1824; was licensed to exhort in the fall of 1825. In 1826 he was licensed to preach, and travelled under the presiding elder. At an early age he professed sanctification, and was very useful in all the appointments he filled. He was received on trial in the Kentucky conference in the fall of 1826. In the fall of 1830 he was married, and subsequently removed to Illinois. In 1837 he was readmitted into the Illinois conference.

Brother Cundiff, though not a man of superior talents, was one of the most useful men in the ranks of the itinerancy, always breathing the spirit of devotion and holiness. During his last illness, and just before his departure, his sight failed him, and when visited by his friends, recognised them by their voices, and declared, that though he could not see them, yet by faith he could see a world of joy and peace awaiting him in the skies, and closed his eyes in death, to open them on scenes of life and eternal bliss at God's right hand. The precise age of this brother is not known, but is supposed to be between thirty-five and forty years.

10. Peter R. Borein, the subject of this brief memoir, was born in East Tennessee, in the year 1810, and was converted to God when about twelve years of age. He remained in Tennessee until the year 1827, during which time he received the elements of an English education. He then moved to Illinois, and in 1830 commenced a partial course of studies in Illinois College, at Jacksonville. While at college, such was the piety of his life, the development of genius in his mind, and his rapid advance in his studies, that he soon won for himself the attention and affection of both his teachers and fellows. On leaving school he was immediately licensed to preach, and received on trial in the Illinois annual conference, and appointed to travel the Canton circuit in the fall of 1833. In 1834 he was appointed to the Rushville circuit; and in the fall of 1835 he was appointed to fill the Quincy station, where he remained two years. In this station he was eminently useful, and distinguished himself as an able and eloquent minister of the gospel, and was very successful in building up both the spiritual and temporal interests of the church. In the fall of 1837 he was appointed to the Chicago station, and immediately entered upon the duties of his charge. Here, also, though he had much to contend with and discourage him, he entered the field in the name of his Master, "nothing doubting;" and, like a young hero of the cross, proclaimed unceasingly the unsearchable riches of Christ; and God crowned his labours with success, and gave him souls by scores for his reward. During the last year of brother Borein's labours in Chicago, a most powerful and extensive revival of religion commenced in his congregation, which continued for several months, and in which there were large accessions to the church of which he was pastor, and extended into all the evangelical denominations of the city. His useful career was, however, soon arrested. He was suddenly taken sick, lingered a few days, and died in the triumphs of victorious faith.

In the person, manners, and public exercises of brother Borein, there was every thing engaging and delightful. To his naturally placid and urbane temperament he added all the graces and ornaments of Christianity, which at once endeared him to every lover of virtue and intellectual worth. As a public speaker he held the highest rank; and by all who knew him he was admired as a scholar, a gentleman, and a Christian. And, above all, though in the vigour of youth, and liable to be intoxicated by the unmeasured praises poured upon him from all ranks and denominations, yet it was his delight to seek out the poor of his flock, and by prayers, and teaching, and example, lead them to the Fountain of living waters. Such was the estimation in which our deceased brother was held by the poor, that at his funeral, when the house was filled to overflowing, they would gather in groups around the house, and follow his remains as long as he was detained from his last retreat on earth. His funeral rites were performed by the various denominations of the city.

Thus died a valiant and youthful herald of the cross, in the twenty-ninth year of his age, leaving an affectionate wife and infant child to mourn their loss.

11. George Smith, the subject of this brief notice, was a stranger in the Illinois conference, and consequently but little can be said of him. He was admitted on trial among us in 1836, and appointed to Maquoquata mission; in 1837 to Mercer mission; and in 1838 was admitted into full connection, and appointed to travel on the Princeton circuit, where he laboured with acceptability until his last round upon his circuit, when he was taken sick, and died in great peace.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

12. Absalom D. Fox was born in the state of Pennsylvania, but raised chiefly in Ohio. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in the city of Cincinnati in the year 1816. He laboured five years as a local preacher, and was then admitted on trial into the Ohio annual conference, where he travelled ten years. In the fall of 1835 he was transferred to the Kentucky conference, and appointed to travel upon the Jefferson circuit. At the conference of 1836 he was reappointed to the Jefferson circuit, where he travelled with great acceptability, much beloved by the people within the bounds of his charge. At the conference of 1837 he requested and obtained a location, in order to recruit his health and means of temporal support. At the session of the Kentucky conference, held in Danville, October, 1838, he was readmitted, and appointed to the Frankfort station; but his work was done. After a severe and protracted illness, on the 2d of November, 1838, he fell asleep in Jesus.

Brother Fox has been pronounced, by those who knew him best, to have been a most amiable, modest, and meek man—well qualified to do good—of engaging manners out of the pulpit—a most excellent pastor in ministering from time to time to the same people. "Take him all in all," said a leading member of the Ohio conference,

"in his intellect and morals, his sincerity of heart and purity of life, and in the whole contour of his character as a man, a Christian, and a minister, we do not hope to find, in our whole lives, a more lovely example of the union and harmony of all the Christian graces."

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

13. Simon Carlisle was born January 15, 1773; converted to God in 1789; admitted on trial as a travelling preacher, and appointed to Caswell circuit in 1790; Lincoln circuit in 1791. He was ordained deacon, and appointed to Salisbury circuit in 1792; and to Tar River in 1793.

At the conference held for 1794 he was dropped, as it is stated in the Minutes, "for improper conduct." The charge for which he was dropped, however, proved to be false. The young man who contrived the plot confessed on his death-bed the whole affair to be a plot or scheme of his own. Brother Carlisle sustained the disgrace with a degree of patience and Christian fortitude more than common. He constantly attended meeting, and after the sermon was over, would take his seat out of doors by himself, and weep during the time of class meeting; and he always said he believed God would vindicate his character. During this time of trial and distress he had frequent solicitations to join other churches, but his uniform reply was that he could be nothing but a Methodist. Indeed, he never lost the confidence of those intimately acquainted with him, and his conduct gave him a stronger hold on the affections of his brethren. It is considered but justice to his character to give the foregoing statement, as his name stands on the old printed Minutes with this mark of disgrace. He first settled in Guilford circuit, North Carolina, and in 1804 removed to the west, and settled on Cumberland River, where he maintained an unblemished character, and laboured extensively and successfully as a local preacher for about thirty years. In the fall of 1834 he again entered the travelling connection, and rode Smith's Fork, Goose Creek, and Cumberland circuits. At the Huntsville conference, 1838, he was appointed to the Lebanon African mission, but his Master said, "It is enough." On the fourth day after his arrival at home he was taken sick, and was confined four weeks with high and continued fever, during which time he suffered much; but his Christian patience and fortitude never failed. His confidence in God was firm and unshaken. He died on the 24th of November, in the sixty-sixth year of his age, surrounded by a loving family and affectionate friends, to whom he bid triumphant adieu, and we have no doubt entered into his eternal rest.

Brother Carlisle was a plain, zealous, experimental, and practical preacher; sound in doctrine and discipline, and in manner and matter exhibited a sample of Asbury's days. He was punctual and laborious in his work. When an appointment was published for him to preach, the people had no fears of a disappointment; and he never considered his work done until he met the class. He was greatly beloved and highly esteemed by all who knew him; and he still lives in the affections of the people among whom he lived, laboured, and died. He lived and died like a Christian, and as a Methodist preacher. May his example be followed, and may our last end be like his.

HOLSTON CONFERENCE.

14. John Henninger. He was a native of Washington county, Va. He embraced religion in his youth, and shortly afterward commenced his labours, by praying in public, and exhorting his youthful comrades and acquaintances to flee the wrath to come. He was admitted on trial in the travelling connection by the Western conference, at its session in Chilicothe, September, 1807. (The Western conference, so called at that time, embraced all that vast tract of country lying west of the Alleghany as far as was settled by the whites, with the exception of the Monongahela district, which then belonged to the Baltimore conference.) Brother Henninger's first appointment was to Carter's Valley, in Tennessee. In October, 1808, he was appointed to Danville circuit, in Kentucky; in 1809 to the Appelousas, in Louisiana; in November, 1810, to Claiborne circuit, in Mississippi; in October, 1811, to Carter's Valley again. In November, 1812, to Clench circuit, in Virginia; and about this time he was married to Miss Jane Anderson, a young lady every way worthy of such a minister and such a husband. In October, 1813, to Nashville, Tennessee. In October, 1814, to French-Broad, Tennessee. In October, 1815, to Knoxville, Tennessee. In October, 1816, he was appointed presiding elder of French-Broad district, which he travelled two years; and at the conference in October, 1818, he took a location. He continued to labour as a local preacher six or seven years; but he could not be satisfied with a sphere of ministerial action so limited. Accordingly he returned to the itinerant field in the bounds of the Holston conference, at its session in Jonesborough, in October, 1825. From this time until the day of his death he filled the office of presiding elder, with the exception of two years; one of which he sustained an ineffective relation to the conference, and the other he was agent for Holston College.

As a man, brother Henninger was naturally of a lively and cheerful disposition, yet occasionally subject to depression of spirits. As a husband and parent, he was surpassed by no man for tenderness, fidelity, and affection. These were relations in which he was endeared to his own family circle; and it was around his own fireside that his virtues as a husband and parent shone with peculiar lustre.

As a Christian, he was consistent, devout, and faithful; beloved and respected by all who knew him. Even the irreligious and profane paid a willing tribute to the excellence of his character as a Christian.

As a Christian minister, he was deservedly popular. He understood and loved our doctrines and discipline; and he well knew how to bring out of the treasury things new and old, and to give to saint and sinner each his portion in due season. He was not only popular—a skilful workman that needed not to be ashamed—but he was successful. His name will furnish occasion for melancholy, yet pleasing reminiscences of bygone years to thousands who sat under his ministry, or enjoyed the pleasure of an acquaintance with him. But he is gone; and his brethren of the Holston conference, with his family, are left to mourn the departure of so much sanctified ministerial talent and moral worth. They are not left, however, to mourn as those who have no hope. Perhaps a brighter exhibition of the triumphs of divine grace was never given, aside from the martyr's stake and the martyr's flame, than that which appeared in the last illness and death of our beloved brother Henninger. For more than a year before his death his health was seriously impaired, if we mistake not, by an attack of bilious intermittent fever, accompanied occasionally with chills. Sometimes he was quite prostrated, insomuch that his friends almost despaired of his recovery; and although human nature shrunk back from the lonesome stillness of the grave, in his severest afflictions he triumphed in the prospect of immortality.

In his last illness he was deprived of the kind attentions of his beloved wife, who was herself confined in her bed in an adjoining room. And when called to witness her final struggle, (for she departed this life some four or five days before him,) he summoned all his strength, and, with the assistance of his friends, went into the room where the companion of his joys and sorrows was entering into conflict with her last enemy. He told her he had thought he should go first; "but," said he, "you will go before me, and get the crown; but I shall not be long after you." After her happy spirit had fled, he spoke in the most feeling manner to his bereaved and disconsolate children concerning the happiness of their departed mother—of his sure prospect of a speedy dissolution—and his confidence that he would soon regain her in that happy world, where

> "Sickness and sorrow, pain and death,
> Are felt and fear'd no more."

And either at that time, or after he had returned to his own room, he gave particular directions concerning the burial of his wife; and requested that a place should be left by her side for himself. After this he spoke but little, but seemed to be taken up with the things of another world too much to notice the transient objects of time; and on the 23d of December, 1839, he took his leave of all below.

His remains were deposited by the side of his wife, according to his instructions; where, after having been united in life, and undivided in death, they will quietly slumber till Gabriel's trump shall awake the sleeping dead; and,

> "O, what a joyful meeting there,
> In robes of white array'd;
> Palms in their hands they both shall bear,
> And crowns upon their heads."

They have left a family of seven or eight children to mourn their loss. May they also follow in the footsteps of the pious dead, till they too shall find that the name of Jesus can soften the bed of death, and perfume the silent grave!

15. Arnold Patton.—No memoir furnished.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

16. William V. Douglass, a native of the north of England, of whose early history we are not informed. In 1825 we find him entering the itinerant ministry as a probationer, and receiving his first appointment to the Nashville circuit, of the Tennessee conference. The year following he was transferred to the Mississippi conference, and appointed to the Wilkinson circuit. The two following years he laboured on the Rapide circuit. In 1829 he was placed upon the Feliciana circuit, and in 1830 travelled the Wilkinson circuit. In 1831 he was stationed in New-Orleans, and the year following in Port Gibson. His health now gave way, and from this time till his death he sustained the relation of one worn out in the service of the church. His affliction was of the most trying character; but it is believed that he passed through the protracted trial without suffering loss.

He was a man of respectable talents, of firm purpose, and of honest piety. To the last his confidence in the divine favour supported and comforted him; and he was enabled, by that confidence, to meet death not only with composure, but triumph. The exact date of his release from his long course of suffering is matter of little public interest, and cannot be supplied by the committee, whose painful duty it is thus to record the loss sustained by the church, and by an affectionate wife and three infant children. But his record is with the Most High; and we trust the brightness of his manifestation, by the Judge of all, in the morning of the resurrection, will be to honour and glory.

17. The Rev. Isaac L. G. Strickland. This estimable young minister died near West Columbia, in the Republic of Texas, on the 2d of July, 1839, in the thirtieth year of his age, and the sixth of his ministerial life.

He had been an acceptable and useful itinerant in the Tennessee conference four years prior to its session in October, 1838, at which time he was transferred to the Texas mission. He was appointed preacher in charge of Montgomery circuit, and entered upon his work, animated by a spirit of unwavering and self-sacrificing devotion to the cause of his Redeemer, which was brightly manifested in his entire conduct, until he was called from his arduous toil to his endless rest. He faithfully discharged his responsible and laborious duties for the space of two months, on Montgomery circuit; and on the 1st of March, 1839, he was removed to Brazoria circuit. He had just commenced his pious labours here when he fell the victim of congestive fever. When he was fully convinced that his final hour was at hand, he exclaimed, with joyful surprise, "Can this be death!" He gave those who wept around his death-bed the comfortable assurance that he met the "last enemy" without fear; saying, with all the confidence of a soul full of victorious faith and all-conquering love, "I shall soon be in heaven."

In his last moments he expressed his gratitude to the kind family who afforded him the necessary attentions in his final distress; and desired to be affectionately remembered to his aged parents, his friends, and brethren in Christ. He suffered his "mortal pang" with the unflinching firmness and unmurmuring resignation of a meek, patient, and dauntless Christian soldier; and with his expiring breath, in the language of the first martyrs, he fervently prayed, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit."

His work was short, but it was well performed, and gloriously ended. We mourn our loss, but our sorrow is assuaged by the hope that it is our brother's infinite gain. Like his homeless, pennyless, itinerant Lord, he looked upon "the world" as "the field." At his call he cheerfully went forth to the harvest, and fell there, only to rise and receive from his Father's hand a martyr's crown and everlasting repose.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

18. Rev. Ralph G. Christopher, the subject of this memoir, was born in Halifax county, Virginia, on the 10th of October, 1787. In 1809 he was converted to God, and was licensed to preach in 1810, and admitted on trial in the South Carolina conference. In January, 1814, he was ordained a deacon, and an elder in December, 1815. He filled several important stations in said conference with acceptability. About the year 1820 he located, and turned his attention to the practice of medicine. In 1823 he emigrated to Alabama, and followed his profession until 1831, when he re-entered the travelling connection, in the Alabama conference. In 1832 he travelled Greene circuit; in 1833, New-River; in 1834 and 1835, Coosa district; in 1836, Tuscaloosa district; in 1837, superannuated; in 1838, Livingston station; and in 1839, supernumerary on Winchester circuit, where he closed his labours on the 13th of October of the same year.

Perhaps few men have passed through a greater variety of scenes, or contended with more severe sufferings. For several years poverty and disease were his constant companions; still he seemed resolutely bent on the duties of the ministry. While discharging the duties of a pastor and a physician he fell a victim to the prevailing fever. In his last hours, though the claims of a family pressing on him caused him to express some desire to remain, yet he was resigned to the will of God, and his end was peaceful. Thus, after buffeting the waves of life's stormy ocean, in the fifty-second year of his age he resigned his breath, and went to his reward.

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

19. Jeremiah Norman.—Memoir not received.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

20. George Mahood, 21. Simeon Norman, 22. Henning W. Kelly.—No memoirs received.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

23. James Pavnter.—Memoir not received.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

24. Rev. Joseph Rusling, the subject of this memoir, was born of pious parents, May 12, 1788, about twelve miles from Epworth, in Lincolnshire, England. When about seven years of age his parents removed to America, and settled first in New-York, and afterward in the eastern part of New-Jersey. They belonged to the Wesleyan Society in England, and on their arrival in this country united themselves with the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which they remained worthy members till they were removed to the church triumphant. We may be sure, therefore, that the early training of their son was not neglected. On the 14th of September, 1808, he experienced regenerating grace, the reality of which his whole subsequent conduct amply evidenced. In the year 1812 he commenced preaching the gospel, and in 1814 he was received by the Philadelphia annual conference on trial, and was at the proper time elected to deacons' and elders' orders. He subsequently filled various places of difficulty and responsibility in New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware, with honour to himself and profit to the people, till in the spring of 1836, after long affliction, he yielded to increasing infirmities, and retired from an effective relation, and was associated as supernumerary with the Fifth-street station, Philadelphia, in which relation he continued till death. He loved to preach, and according to his strength he continued to do so, to the great satisfaction of his numerous friends in that station, which a few years before he had assisted to establish. But in the spring of 1839 he began evidently to sink, and was conscious that his end was rapidly approaching; yet he was calm, peaceful, and often joyous. To him death had no terror. His bodily sufferings were protracted and severe, but he murmured not. As his final hour drew near, and his weakness increased, he slept the more frequently, but would occupy the intervals with conversation with his friends, singing, and prayer. On the last night of his mortal life he slept about two hours in this way, during which he became exceeding joyful. When asked if his way was clear, he replied, "All is clear, all is clear! but I am not dying." Again he fell asleep, and never spoke afterward. He died July 6, 1839.

Brother Rusling was one of the kindest of husbands and parents; an ardent friend, devoted Christian, and an able and successful minister. His style was very plain and simple, yet chaste; his matter chiefly experimental and practical; his illustrations were generally simple, but clear, and often very forcible. He was always heard with pleasure, and seldom, if ever, without profit. He wrote much in prose and verse; and after he ceased to travel and preach, he prepared for the press various poetic effusions, in three small volumes; of the first and principal of which a celebrated literary friend says, "I am satisfied the collection is well calculated to awaken and sustain the devotion of the Christian's heart." To him we may apply the lines which a few years ago he addressed to a beloved brother deceased:—

"'Tis done:—his toils and sufferings close
Nor heaves his tranquil heart a sigh;
His dust lies slumbering in repose,—
His spirit has gone up on high:—
The good, the faithful, and the blest,
Has enter'd his eternal rest."

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

25. Rev. Hiram Wing.—Brother Wing was born in the town of Clinton, in the county of Dutchess, and state of New-York, January, 1804. He experienced religion when about sixteen years of age, and soon after united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was received as a travelling preacher in the year 1827, was admitted to deacons' orders in 1829, and to elders' orders in 1831. In the year 1835 he located, and in 1836 was readmitted into the travelling connection.

Brother Wing was deeply pious; a man of much prayer, and consequently of much communion with God. As a preacher, he was diligent, acceptable, and useful. He was much in love with the doctrine and discipline of the church, and endeavoured to enforce them both by example and precept. As a pastor, he was diligent: he was much beloved in the different circuits where he laboured, and his name will be held in grateful remembrance by all who were acquainted with him. In the year 1839 he was appointed to Danbury, in Connecticut. He went to his appointment, and laboured much to the acceptance of the people for about six weeks, when his health failed him, and he was obliged to desist from all labour. His disease was ■ pulmonary consumption. At the advice of his friends he was removed to Stamford, in his native county, where every attention was paid him both by physician and friends; but, alas! his disease baffled all their skill, and rapidly preyed on his mortal frame. He met his afflictions with calm resignation to the will of God, and patiently suffered in confident hope of eternal life. When asked the state of his mind by one of his brethren in the ministry a few days before his death, his reply was,

> "Not a cloud doth arise to darken my skies,
> Or hide for a moment my Lord from my eyes."

In this frame of mind he continued till his spirit triumphantly left the tenement of clay, and soared to realms of bliss and glory, on the 18th day of February, 1840. Brother Wing left a wife and four children to mourn their loss, one of which has since joined the father in that better world.

26. Albert G. Wickware was born at St. Albans, Vermont, on the 17th of March, 1807. At an early age he was left an orphan, but not until a pious mother had sown in his young heart that seed of the kingdom which was destined to spring up and bear fruit unto eternal life. That fruit, however, did not appear until he reached the age of nineteen. At that time his native village was visited by a gracious revival of religion, and under the labours of the Rev. Lorin Clarke he was awakened and converted to God. This, according to his journal, was on the 17th of March, 1826, the day he was nineteen years of age. "Happy day!" he exclaims; "the happiest birth-day I ever experienced." He was soon persuaded that God required him to call sinners to repentance; and under this impression left his native village in pursuit of that knowledge and those requirements which he deemed important in a calling so high and holy. He repaired to the Wilbraham Seminary, then under the care of the Rev. Dr. Fisk, and engaged with diligence in the prosecution of his studies. After continuing some time in Wilbraham, he received license to preach, and was admitted on trial in the New-York conference. He served an acceptable probation, and was in due time admitted to membership, being elected and ordained deacon in 1834, and elder in 1836.

The labours of our departed brother were owned of God. He was a principal instrument in gathering and establishing a church in Bristol circuit; and in Kingston station, New-York, more than one hundred professed conversion under his ministry. At the conference in 1839 he was appointed in charge of the Richmond circuit. He entered upon his labours with his usual zeal and acceptance, and with much promise of success. But scarcely had he begun his work when he was arrested by a sudden and violent disease. It commenced on the 10th of August, and on the 21st he resigned his spirit to God. When having expressed a desire to recover, his companion, whom he tenderly loved, inquired, "Is it for my sake?" He replied, "No; but that I may yet preach Jesus to sinners." At another time he exclaimed, "If I die, there is not a doubt upon my mind but that all is safe;—my confidence is strong in the Lord;—these light afflictions, which are but for a moment, will work out for me a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." In conclusion we may say, that in the death of our brother the church has lost a firm friend and a promising minister; and we may add, that the children and youth of the sabbath schools have lost one who ceased not to pray and labour for their best interests.

27. Zalmon Lyon was born in the town of Weston, in the state of Connecticut. We have but little information respecting him until his entrance into the ministry, at which time he was somewhat advanced in years. He joined the travelling connection in the year of our Lord 1804, and in 1818 he became superannuated. In this relation, or that of supernumerary, he remained till his death, which took place the 13th of August, 1839. From the last conference he went to Connecticut, and from thence to Long Island, to visit his friends. On his return home to Sugar Loaf he complained of great weariness and loss of appetite; expressed much satisfaction in being permitted to meet once more with his friends in that place; said that he had come home to die with them; that he desired to lay his bones by the side of his companion, (who had gone to rest about three years before.) From this time, without any particular disease, he gradually sunk under the infirmities of age; but while the outward man was perishing, the inward man was renewed day by day:—his soul was calm and peaceful;—patience had its perfect work, and not a murmur escaped his lips.

Brother Lyon lived in Sugar Loaf about twenty years. So highly was he respected by all classes of the community, that they resorted to him for counsel in all matters of difficulty. In fact, such was his influence among the people in his neighbourhood, that his very presence would quell any disturbance that might arise in the streets, or in the house of public entertainment; and no one was found sufficiently hardy to give him a disrespectful word. Brother Lyon, in an eminent sense, might be styled a peace-maker. He had gained the affections of the people, who manifested their kind regard for him, not in word only, but also in deed and in truth. For a number of years they were in the habit of paying him an annual visit, at the same time contributing liberally to his support.

Brother Lyon, in his public ministrations in the pulpit, confined himself almost exclusively to experimental and practical godliness; and though not endowed with talents of the highest order, yet he was owned of God in the use of his humbler gifts, which were well calculated to nurse the lambs of the flock, and to build up believers in their most holy faith. As a Christian, he possessed a character unblemished;—saint and sinner had the utmost confidence in his integrity;—they both loved him;—and when in a good old age he gathered up his feet to go to his fathers, they both embalmed him with their tears. Hail, venerated saint! thy work is done, and thou hast gone to thy reward.

LIBERIA MISSION CONFERENCE.

28. John B. Barton was born in Savannah on the 27th of August, 1806; embraced the religion of Christ in July, 1831; was admitted on trial in the Georgia annual conference in 1834, and appointed by Bishop Andrew a missionary to Africa, where he arrived in August, 1835, having been ordained deacon and elder in view of that appointment.

His first charge was at Edina and Bassa Cove, where he laboured till June, 1837. He then visited the United States; was married to Miss Eleanor Gilbert, of Charleston, S. C., and with his companion and aged mother sailed again for Africa, and arrived on the 12th of January, 1838. He was appointed that year to the Monrovia station, which was cause of much disappointment to him, having a great desire to return to Bassa. The choice of exchanging with the preacher appointed there was given him; but he preferred to abide by the appointment made at the conference.

At the last session of the Liberia annual conference he was appointed again to Monrovia, and entered upon the duties of the year with much zeal and faithfulness. His general health being poor, a visit to Palmas was proposed, and Mrs. Barton and himself accordingly went down to that place in January; but the sea trip seemed to render neither of them any essential service.

On Saturday night, soon after retiring, he was seized with a violent ague, followed by hot fever; and in defiance of the best medical skill, rapidly sunk under the violence of his disease, until Tuesday morning, a few minutes past eight, when his spirit took its everlasting flight, March 19, 1839.

Our departed brother was a man much beloved; and among the repeated evidences of this, given by the people of Monrovia, none appeared so conspicuous as the unwearied attention paid to him during his illness, and the vast concourse of friends who attended his remains to the silent grave.

29. William Stocker* was admitted on trial in the New-York conference in 1838, and was elected and ordained deacon and elder for the African mission the same year at the Oneida conference. He left his native land for Liberia in December, and was appointed at the ensuing conference to labour at Cape Palmas and Mount Emory.

He was seized with a violent ague July 16, which was succeeded by a fever that did not entirely intermit until his decease. Every thing was done which possibly could be to relieve his sufferings, and to avert the final consequences; but to no other purpose than to show the utter futility of all human aid where God has determined otherwise in the courts of heaven. He was a great sufferer during much of his sickness, but he endured it with remarkable patience and fortitude; and, what is still a great comfort to his friends, he possessed throughout the clear and almost uninterrupted exercise of his mental faculties; and from the beginning to the end of his sickness he seemed perfectly and uniformly resigned to the will of his heavenly Father. He seemed to be much favoured in the views of eternal glory which were constantly presented to his mind, and often said that "exceeding and eternal weight of glory" would be too much for him so long as he tabernacled in the flesh. On one occasion he burst forth into a most solemn and interesting soliloquy, by saying, "O my soul, where wouldst thou have been without the interposing blood of Jesus Christ!" On many occasions he could sooth the anguish of his dear wife when no one else could. He frequently said to her, "My dear wife, your loss is my gain." A few hours before he died he exclaimed, "O Africa, Africa!" and upon inquiring why he said so, he replied, "I am so glad I came here." About five minutes before the breath left him he exclaimed, in a loud and audible tone, "O the power of faith!" After this he attempted to say more, but his powers of speech failed; and while we were kneeling around his bedside, and commending him to God, he breathed out his spirit into the hands of his Saviour. Brother Stocker closed his labours and sufferings July 25, 1839.

30. Solomon Bayley, the subject of the following brief memoir, was a superannuated preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a member of the Liberia mission annual conference. According to "Mott's Sketches of Persons of Colour," he was born a slave in the state of Delaware; and after a series of cruel harships, stripes, and imprisonments, he at last effected his freedom. He appears from his youth to have had the fear of God before his eyes, and a grateful sense of those particular providences which often cleared his way before him, and wrought out deliverances when no human arm could save. The particular year of his emigration to Liberia is not known to the writer of this account, who found him here in 1834, when he arrived. At the organization of the conference be was returned as supernumerary, and preached occasionally at Caldwell and at the places within the conference.

Father Bayley was a good preacher. His language was good, and his doctrines sound: his manner very forcible; though, like men of his age, he was sometimes apt to be tedious. For the last two years he was entirely superannuated, and could not preach. He felt he was falling away, but was prepared to meet his God.

The house in which he lived in Caldwell a few months ago fell down while the family were in it, and he sick in bed. Most providentially no one was seriously injured, and not a hair of his own head touched. He was after this taken down to Monrovia, a room and a nurse provided for him by the superintendent of the Liberia mission, and instead of his usual stipend, which for three or four years he had been receiving, he was now furnished with every necessary and comfort that was required. He was exceedingly happy in God during the last four months of his life. To talk of heaven with him, to pray with him, always raised his hopes to such a pitch, that "Glory, glory to God," continually burst from his lips. And to sit down and converse with this old veteran of the cross about the deep things of God was indeed a great privilege. He retained his senses to the last, and died on Thursday, October 3, 1839, in the full assurance of a blissful immortality. May my last end be like his!

* Brother Stocker had not yet graduated to membership in the Liberia conference; but as his name is returned upon the minutes among deceased preachers, we have inserted this brief notice of him, taken principally from "Africa's Luminary."—Ed.

OBITUARY.

Question 12. Who have died this year?

TROY CONFERENCE.

1. Philetus Green was born in the state of New-York, 1809, and converted to God in the city of Troy, 1831. Soon after this happy change brother Green adopted rules for the regulation of his conduct, by the strict observance of which he grew in grace rapidly, and increased in the knowledge of divine things. By the faithful improvement of his gifts and graces, God increased them so that in less than two years after his conversion he entered the travelling connection in the New-England conference, where he laboured for four successive years. He was subsequently transferred to the Troy conference, and stationed in Waterford; where he laboured one year with success, and was greatly beloved by the people. The year following he was on the Greenbush and Castleton mission, where, also, God made him a blessing to the people. At the close of this year brother Green's health began to fail. During the session of the Troy conference he was taken with an alarming hemorrhage from the lungs, and almost bled to death. He, however, lingered upon the shores of time until Sunday the 10th of February last, when he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, leaving behind a wife and one child.

Though brother Green was not a learned man, yet his talent was respectable, which made him an acceptable and useful preacher. He was zealous beyond his strength, so much so that he, doubtless, fell a martyr to his own imprudence; but he was a good man. He erred, it is true, in exerting himself beyond his physical energies; but for it God did not forsake him in the trying hour. He was perfectly resigned and happy in the prospect of a better world; and when dying his weeping companion said, "My dear, you are going home to Jesus;" to which he replied, "Yes, I am, I am going to my home in heaven"—bid her adieu, kissed his little daughter, looked up, smiled, and ceased at once to work and live.

NEW-ENGLAND CONFERENCE.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

3. Rev. James M'Caine was born in Bedford, New-Hampshire, A. D. 1809. He experienced religion in 1828 in Manchester, where he then resided, under the labours of Rev. J. Brodhead and Rev. Caleb Lamb. Soon after his conversion he was convinced that it was his duty to call sinners to repentance, and in 1834 he gave himself wholly to this work, and joined the New-Hampshire conference, of which he remained a worthy and useful member until his death. During his ministry he received the following appointments, viz.: at Kingston, Derry, and Newington, New-Hampshire; at Haverhill and Methuen, Massachusetts. While at Methuen, in the providence of God, he was visited with deep affliction; first in the loss of an only and beloved child, and afterward by a long and severe sickness, suffered by his companion in life; during which, for a long time, she apparently hung in the balance between life and death, but from which she finally recovered. Previous to her recovery, brother M., worn down by fatigue and anxiety, arising from the weight of labour and affliction resting upon him, was thrown upon a bed of languishing, which he left only for the grave and the world of spirits. Brother M. was unassuming and devoted as a Christian, and much beloved where he was known. As a preacher and pastor, he was humble, zealous, and successful—his work was owned of God, and a healthful savour was left behind him where he laboured. While he was wasting under the raging fever of which he died, he manifested the resignation of the Christian, and expressed unshaken confidence in God, to whom he had committed his all; and believing him too wise to err, and too good to be unkind, he waited with patience the results of his will, in life or death. He departed in peace, without a struggle or a groan, November 15, 1839, aged 30 years, leaving his companion and the Church to mourn his early and unexpected departure, while he rests from his labours and receives in unfading glory the rewards of that gospel which is the power of God to the present and eternal "salvation of every one that believeth."

MAINE CONFERENCE.

4. William D. Sewell was born in Chesterville, Maine, July 15th, 1813; converted to God at Skowhegan, in the autumn of 1831, and soon united with the Methodist Episcopal Church; commenced his itinerancy, on Sidney circuit, September, 1836, under the presiding elder of Augusta district. In 1837 he was admitted on trial by the conference, and served the term of his probation on Kilmarnock and Harmony circuits, with acceptance and usefulness. In 1839 he was received into full connection, admitted to deacons' orders, and appointed to Vassalboro' circuit. Here he pursued his labours with increasing zeal, diligence, and success, for about half the year, when his health declined, and he was soon compelled, by a pulmonary disease, to desist from his labours. He died on the 24th of April, 1840, in great peace, and the full assurance of hope.

Brother Sewell possessed a good mind, and gave all diligence, according to his opportunities, to cultivate and improve it. His attachment to the doctrines and institutions of the Church was strong and unwavering; his piety deep, fervent, and uniform; and the last sentence he was heard to utter, was an expression of his love to the ministry and the work.

5. Rev. Caleb Fogg was born in Epping, Rockingham county, N. H., March 17, 1761, and "born again" in Monmouth, district of Maine, January 12, 1795, to which place he had removed in September, 1786; where his widow, the companion of his youth, now resides. He, no doubt, soon joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, a branch of which was gathered in that place, a year or two before, by the indefatigable and laborious Lee; for in 1797 he was appointed class-leader. He was authorized, in 1798, to exercise his gifts as an exhorter, and received license to preach in 1800. At the New-England conference, held in Buxton, district of Maine, July, 1804, he was ordained a local deacon, by Bishop Asbury, and June, 1806, at the conference in Canaan, N. H., he was received on trial, and appointed to Falmouth circuit, district of Maine. His next field of labour, in 1807, was Hallowell circuit, and at the conference held in New-London, Conn., he was admitted into full connection, ordained an elder by Bishop Asbury, April 21, 1808, and appointed to Norridgewock circuit. He travelled, the four following years, Bathbay. Readfield, Georgetown, and Bristol circuits; and at the conference in Colchester, Conn., June, 1813, received a location.

After a location of four years, in which time he faithfully attended to the labours of a local sphere, he was readmitted into the conference held at Concord, N. H., May, 1817, and appointed to Livermore and Vienna circuit. He performed effective service on the following circuits up to 1828: Livermore, Poland, Scarborough, Gray, Gray, Readfield, Durham, Readfield, Pittston, and Durham. At the Maine conference, (which was set off from the New-England conference, in 1824,) held at Vienna, August 14, 1828, he asked for and obtained a supernumerary relation, and was appointed to Gray and Readfield circuits, the two succeeding years; when, at the conference held in Portland, in 1830, on account of the infirmities of age and past faithful services, his brethren most cheerfully granted him a superannuated relation; which was continued to him until his death, September 6, 1839, in the seventy-eighth year of his age. Although superannuated, his last years were filled up with usefulness; for he continued to travel, visit the societies, and preach, as far as his health would permit, until within a few months of his death.

Caleb Fogg was no common man. He was a perfect original—himself in and out of the pulpit; for he copied no man in matter or manner. His Bible was always about him. As a preacher he was plain, faithful, and unvarnished in the delineation of truth. As a labourer he stood high in the estimation of his brethren, and his piety was of no ordinary cast. Two of his brethren in the ministry called on him a few weeks before his death, to whom he said, with holy animation, "I have peace with God;—all is well." Thus lived and died our much beloved and never to be forgotten brother Fogg, and we have no doubt he rests where "none shall say, I am sick."

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

6. James Kelsey was born in Tyringham, Massachusetts, October 18, 1782. In 1796 "it pleased God," to use his own language, "to show me my undone situation by nature, and after about six weeks earnestly seeking pardoning mercy, to manifest his love to me in the pardoning of my sins, and giving me an evidence of my acceptance through Christ Jesus." In 1806, after having been a local preacher about two years, he was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia conference, and appointed to Ontario circuit. We need not, however, enumerate his subsequent appointments, (all of which he filled with a good degree of success,) as they may be seen in the general Minutes; but for the relief of any who may be tempted to complain in these times of their large circuits, and the abundance of labour required of them, we will just transcribe the account of his first circuit, as given by himself. "In the fall of 1804," he says, "I was sent by the Rev. Joseph Jewell to Cayuga circuit, which embraced all the tract of country within the following points: Spencer Court House, Seneca Lake, Saltpoint, and Caroline, a territory of equal extent with one of our largest districts." This, he tells us, was a four weeks' circuit, taking in about forty appointments, scattered up and down a variety of small lakes—a circumstance which greatly increased the amount of his travels. But as it is far less important where a man lived than how he lived, or where he died than how he died, it should be remarked that he lived a pious life, and died a peaceful death. It is true that the fore part of his life, and indeed of his public ministry, he was, as he himself acknowledged, addicted to a sort of levity too common among professors of religion; which, while it ill comported with the character of a Christian minister, tending, as it does, to circumscribe his usefulness, invariably hurts the confidence and comfort of any Christian, public or private, as many have felt to their sorrow. But some ten or twelve years ago he was brought, through the ministry of that holy man, Benjamin Sabin, to experience the witness of perfect love; after which, there was a marked change in his deportment; for, though he was still cheerful and buoyant, this being his constitutional make, yet his cheerfulness was happily tempered with solemnity; and his buoyancy of disposition, being sanctified by grace, contributed to bear him up amidst the trials of life, and to increase his usefulness by rendering him more accessible and pleasant in his social intercourse.

As a minister of the gospel he was generally successful among the people of his charge; not so much, perhaps, on account of any brilliancy he possessed as from the uncommon pathos which seldom failed to accompany his ministrations. He was emphatically a man of peace; and if at any time his warm opposition to error became an occasion of offence to his opponents, still, he had none of that obstinacy which impels one onward in a wrong course against the convictions of his own mind, but was ever ready to conciliate the offended by those Christian courtesies which were the spontaneous effusion of his heart. As he had little of this world's goods, so it was but little he desired. His cares were chiefly of a spiritual nature—he sought to "save himself and them that heard him," as the great business of his life; nor did he seek in vain, for there is no doubt that both he himself has entered into rest, and many others, through his ministry.

A year ago last winter it became apparent that brother Kelsey's constitution had yielded to a sort of general debility from which it was not likely he would ever recover. At this time he gave up his regular work and retired from his charge, though he continued to preach occasionally until within a short time of his death. His voice, which had formerly been that of a lion, became feeble and tremulous—his memory almost entirely failed him, and the whole man, intellectual and physical, became the subject of great prostration. In this manner he seemed gradually descending to the tomb, when a paralytic stroke, affecting the whole of one side, was permitted to hasten his downward course, bringing him, in the space of one short week, to "the house appointed for all living!" The fatal disease which terminated his life affecting the mind as well as the body, his words were few and somewhat confused. But while it pleased

God to favour his servant in his last moments, by drawing the veil of insensibility over the terrors of death, he was also pleased, for the consolation of his sorrowing friends, to allow him a lucid interval or two for the purpose of telling them that "all was well." "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours, and their works do follow them!" Thus died, in great peace, the venerable Kelsey, one of the fathers of our infant conference, saying unto us, his bereaved sons in the Gospel, "Follow me, as I followed Christ."

NORTH OHIO CONFERENCE.

7. Rev. George Elliott was born December 15th, 1809, in Jefferson county, Ohio. His parents were members of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and taught him carefully in the principles of Christianity in his childhood. When he was thirteen years of age, his father moved into Holmes county, and in the neighbourhood of a Methodist society. Young George frequently attended, and was often deeply impressed on the subject of his soul's salvation. When about sixteen years of age, under the influence of a fireside exhortation from a pious cousin, he was powerfully convicted, and the next day, while praying in a field, he obtained a clear evidence of pardon. Unhappily he did not immediately unite himself with the church, and in a great degree, in some months after, lost his spiritual comfort, though he did not give up religion, nor cease to pray. He at length perceived his error in this matter, and joined himself with the small Methodist class in his neighbourhood, where he soon began to exercise his gifts as an exhorter, with great acceptability and usefulness, and, by the unanimous recommendation of his brethren, was licensed to preach. He laboured one year as a local preacher in the same vicinity, and had not a few seals to his ministry. He was then admitted on trial in the Ohio annual conference, and appointed his first year to Elyria circuit, with Rev. Wm. Runnells. He commenced his work on the circuit with great diffidence, and sometimes much depression of spirits; but in the April following, while praying in secret, he was powerfully blessed, and clearly convinced that God had called him to the work. From this time he went on his way with confidence and much peace. His second year was on Dalton circuit, where his labours were abundantly blessed; his third, Medina; fourth and fifth, Brunswick; sixth, Dalton; seventh and eighth, Mt. Vernon station; and his ninth appointment was to Frederick circuit, where he was not able to perform two full rounds on his circuit, before he was confined with a pulmonary affection, which, in its incipient stages, had been preying on his system for four or five years, and on the 4th of April, 1840, put a period to his sufferings and toils. He has left a widow and child to mourn, but not without comfort. His whole ministerial life was marked with holiness and peace; but the close of it was peculiarly triumphant. His joy was full, and frequently overflowing in tears, and exclamations of gratitude to God for his great love, which he experienced to be stronger than death. Brother Elliott's preaching talents were of a superior order, marked with peculiar sprightliness and originality, and though his career was comparatively short, he has many seals to his ministry. His social virtues were such as to make him an interesting companion, and he was consequently a special favourite in his conference. In a word, he magnified his ministry, and the religion he preached to others sustained him to the last. Among his last words, within a few minutes of his last breath, he exclaimed, "My confidence in God is firm." His sufferings in his last illness were great, but his patience most exemplary. May the Church be blessed with many such ministers.

8. Rev. Jeremiah Hill was born in the city of Providence, Rhode Island, October 2d, 1816. When he was but about four years of age his father died, and his mother was left with scanty means to provide for two children. She taught them, however, that religion was of paramount importance, and succeeded in giving the deceased an academic education. At the age of thirteen he sought and obtained evidence that he was a child of God, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. When only sixteen years old, he commenced holding prayer meetings and exhorting in the factories of his native city. In the spring of 1834 he emigrated to Ohio, and shortly after was licensed as a local preacher; in which capacity he laboured acceptably for two years—teaching school during the week, and preaching on the sabbath. In the winter of 1835-6 he was employed by the presiding elder to fill a vacancy on Malta circuit, Ohio conference. At the ensuing annual conference he was admitted on trial, and appointed to Newark circuit, where he was successful in his labours, and many were added to the church. In 1837 he was appointed to Cambridge circuit, and at the close of the year was married to Miss Mary Ann Thaley, his now bereaved and sorrowing widow. At the next conference he was admitted into full connection, ordained a deacon, and appointed to Franklinton circuit, where he laboured acceptably and usefully. In 1839 he was appointed, with Rev. J. G. Bruce, to Marion circuit; which, by the division made at the last General Conference, has fallen into the North Ohio conference. Here he entered upon his work promptly, and laboured zealously during the winter. On sabbath, the 17th of May, 1840, he was attacked by bilious fever; he however rode three miles, and preached twice, with unusual pathos and effect. He returned quite sick, and on Monday called a physician. His disease at first appeared to yield to the common remedies; but took a sudden reverse, and on the 26th it was announced that he must die. He calmly said, "Well, I am prepared," and earnestly exhorted all around him to prepare for death and judgment, told his colleague to preach his funeral sermon from Rev. xiv, 13, and exclaimed, "Blessed be God for his unspeakable gift! Glory, glory!" After this his mind wandered, and it was seldom he could recognise those about him; but his words, even in his wildest reveries, were those of a Christian. At half past 5 o'clock he gently breathed his last. His funeral sermon was preached on the 27th, agreeably to his request, and "dust was committed to dust," to await the resurrection of the just.

Brother Hill had a respectable English education, possessed a mind of more than ordinary strength, was a very good preacher, though not strictly methodical in the arrangement, nor peculiarly pleasant in the delivery of his sermons. His labours were much blessed, and his thoughts were often noble, and clothed in pure words.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

9. The Rev. Charles R. Baldwin, the subject of the following memior, was the youngest child of Clarke and Rhedina Baldwin, and was born on March 17th, 1803, in Stockbridge, Massachusetts. His parents were members of the Episcopal Church, and his mother was deeply pious; but he was not long permitted to enjoy the benefit of her prayers and instructions; for before he had finished his third year, she was called to receive her eternal reward. He was sent to school young, and possessing a strong and vigorous mind, with a thirst for knowledge, he pursued his studies with diligence, and became a good scholar; though not a graduate, he was well acquainted with the Latin, Greek, Hebrew, and French languages. While a youth, his father emigrated to the state of Ohio; but he visited a brother in eastern Virginia, where he studied law; after which he came to western Virginia, and finally located himself in Charleston, where he became a successful practitioner at the bar. During his juvenile years the Holy Spirit strove with him powerfully and frequently; but he resisted his gracious influences, and remained a stranger to God until shortly after his first marriage, when he became a true penitent and earnest seeker of salvation, and shortly after, on the 14th day of February, 1833, he obtained the pearl of great price, and on the 6th day of May following he professed to obtain the blessing of perfect love. After his conversion he first united with the Presbyterian Church; but after a few months, believing it to be his duty, he withdrew and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He now felt it to be his duty to warn his fellow men to flee the wrath to come. The church of his choice took him by the hand, and led him into the field of labour. Shortly after his admission into the church he was licensed to exhort, and appointed a circuit steward, and a few months after was employed by his presiding elder to travel on Gallipolis circuit; and being recommended, he was admitted on trial in the Ohio conference, in the fall of 1834, and appointed to Guyandotte circuit, Virginia. Here he laboured with zeal and success. His next appointment was Charleston, Virginia. During this year his labours were much blessed, and souls were added to the Lord. At the conference of 1836 he was admitted into full connection, ordained a deacon, and appointed to Parkersburg station. Here his labours were well received, and he occupied an elevated seat in the affections of the people of his charge. His next appointment was Lancaster circuit, where he was useful. At the conference of 1838 he was ordained an elder, and again appointed to Parkersburg station. During this year he laboured with his accustomed zeal, and the Lord was with him. In addition to the labours of the pulpit, at the earnest request of his friends, he took charge of the Methodist Male and Female Seminary, and exerted himself to the utmost of his ability to establish the school on a broad and firm basis. In this he was not disappointed; but he sunk under his accumulated labours. About the time of our last conference, he was seized with a hemorrhage of the lungs, and seemed to be nigh unto death, but was unspeakably happy in the love of God. After a few days, hopes were entertained of his recovery; but they were disappointed. Brother Austin, his successor, visited him frequently after he reached the station, and always found him happy in God. For six years he professed sanctification; and this perfect love sustained him resigned and happy under all his affliction; and while gasping for breath, said he, "Tell the preachers of the Ohio conference, that the blessing of sanctification, which I have enjoyed and preached to others, now sustains me in death." No gloomy fears shrouded his mind. All was peace and joy within. The time of his departure now drew nigh. He called his affectionate wife to his bedside, blessed her, and gave her up to God, blessed his children, and gave them up to his heavenly Father, and then prayed for all present. The scene was solemn and affecting. A few hours after, his redeemed spirit took its flight, on the 9th of November, to share in the glories of the Lamb. Brother Baldwin was a devoted Christian, a warm and systematic preacher, a kind and affectionate husband and parent, and a firm and constant friend.

Jeremiah Hill.—He is the same whose memoir is given under North Ohio conference.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

10. The Rev. John Dew, the subject of the following memoir, was born on the 19th day of July, 1789, in the state of Virginia. In early life he embraced religion, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church; of which church he remained a consistent member through life. Feeling it to be his duty to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ, he was received on trial in the Ohio conference, and, as appears from the Minutes, was stationed as follows:—1813, Salt River circuit; 1814, Jefferson circuit; 1815, Madison; 1816, Guyandotte circuit. He then located; and in 1824 was readmitted into the travelling connection, in the Missouri conference, and appointed as follows:—1824, Illinois circuit; 1825, the same; 1826, Missouri district; 1827, St. Louis station; 1828, conference missionary; 1829, Galena mission; 1830, Lebanon circuit; 1831, Shoal Creek circuit; 1832, Lebanon circuit; 1833, Kaskaskia circuit; 1834, the same; 1835, he located; 1836, he remained local; 1837, readmitted, and appointed president of M'Kendree College; 1838, Lebanon district; 1839, the same; 1840, the same. As a minister brother Dew was able and useful; as a circuit preacher, stationed minister, and presiding elder, his services will be long remembered by those who enjoyed the benefits of his ministry; as a man he was honest; as a citizen he was public spirited; in the domestic circle he was kind and affectionate; as a Christian his walk and conversation recommended the religion of the meek and lowly Redeemer.

After an illness of about two weeks, brother Dew, on the 5th of September, 1840, relying confidently upon the goodness and mercy of God for his salvation, departed this life. An amiable wife and seven children, the Illinois conference, and an extensive circle of friends lament his death; yet they "sorrow not as those who have no hope." The resurrection cheers them in the hour of gloom. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

11. Joshua Barnes was born in the year 1775, in Frederick county, Maryland; embraced religion while young, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Shortly afterward he removed to the state of Kentucky, and settled in Ohio county. In 1804 he was licensed to exhort, and was very useful in that office. In 1805 he was admitted into the travelling connection on trial, and after travelling one or two years he went to merchandising, which proved extremely detrimental to his spiritual interests, so much so that he quit preaching, left off praying in his family, and remained in this state until 1812, when, being roused to a sight of his condition by means of an earthquake, he was powerfully reclaimed, and shortly afterward began again to warn sinners to flee the wrath to come. He was then again licensed to preach the gospel. In 1816 he removed to Illinois, and settled in St. Clair county, and was industrious and useful as a local preacher until 1834; after which, he was employed by the presiding elder until 1836, when he was received on trial in the travelling connection in the Illinois conference, and appointed to Hillsborough circuit. In 1837 he was sent to Carlyle circuit; in 1838 Golconda circuit, and in 1839 to Stanton circuit, where he died.

He was a zealous and useful preacher—an affectionate husband and kind father, and died in great peace, on the 19th day of November, 1839, leaving a large train of friends and connections to lament his loss.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE.

14. Dixon C. M'Leod, the subject of this memoir, was a native of Anson county, North Carolina—was born March 13, 1802. His early history is not known to your committee, nor is it a matter of much public importance. Suffice it to say, that when about nineteen years of age he embraced the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. Soon after he obtained license to preach; and after exercising his gifts for some time as a local preacher, he was admitted upon trial as a travelling preacher in the Tennessee conference in the year 1825, and was appointed to the Dixon circuit. In 1826 he was sent to the Nashville circuit. In 1827 he was sent as a missionary to the Cherokee nation, where he continued to remain for five years, the last two of which he filled the office of superintendent of the whole Cherokee nation. His field of labour was a difficult one, stretching over a considerable territory, rough and mountainous. His might will be called missionary labour—his rides were long and dreary—his accommodations often poor, and his whole life, so far as civilized society was concerned, was a life of desertion; but none of these things moved him. Upon one occasion, because of his attachment to his work, and his devotion to the interests of the people whom he served, he was arrested by the pretended officers of justice, deprived of his own horse, and dragged on foot the distance of seventy or eighty miles, as a prisoner; but he whose crime was only that of doing good was soon released, that he might quietly return to his work again. Although beaten, worn down, and exhausted, we still find him at his post; where, by his godly zeal, he won his way to the heart of the native sons of the forest, and for himself honours as imperishable as were the souls he laboured to save. These were labours and sufferings of which few of the present race of ministers can boast. In 1832 he was stationed in Columbia and Pulaski; in 1833 in Murfreesborough; in 1834, Nashville circuit; in 1835, on Hatchie circuit; in 1836, Wesley circuit; in 1837 he was appointed presiding elder of the Memphis district, where he was continued until his death, which took place on the 10th day of April, 1840. His death was occasioned by the formation of an abscess, which reduced him to a skeleton, and in many instances was the source of most exquisite pain, all of which was borne with almost unexampled fortitude and Christian resignation. His death was peaceful, triumphant, and happy.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

18. William M'Gee Kennedy—who, though of the second race of Methodist preachers of the southern states in respect of time, yet for his purity and weight of character, ardent and well-sustained zeal, and abundant and long-continued labours, deserves to be classed among the fathers of our church. The first race of Methodist ministers were yet in their strength when he began his labours; and having imbibed their spirit, he followed in their footsteps with unfaltering constancy till the close of life:—a man of one book, and one work, whose motto was, "All for Christ and the souls of men;"—an evangelist, whose whole life was according to the gospel which he preached;—a pastor of most exemplary fidelity and tenderness;—a Methodist minister weighty in conference, fervent in worship, and holding a first rank among his brethren for wisdom, and the unction of the Holy One.

He was born January 13, 1783; born again July, 1803; admitted into the itinerancy, in the South Carolina conference, December, 1805; travelled the Broad River circuit, Ga., 1806; Enoree, S. C., 1807; Santee, 1808; stationed in the city of Charleston, 1809, 1810; presiding elder of Charleston (then called Edisto) district, 1811, 1812, and 1813; and of Pee Dee district, 1814, 1815, 1816, and 1817; stationed in Camden, 1818; Wilmington, N. C., 1819; Charleston, S. C., 1820, 1821; presiding elder of Pee Dee district, 1822, 1823, 1824, and 1825; stationed in Augusta, Ga., 1826, 1827; Columbia, S. C., 1828, 1829; presiding elder of Columbia district, 1830, 1831, 1832, and 1833; stationed in Charleston, 1834, 1835; Columbia, 1836, 1837; agent for the conference school at Cokesbury, S. C., 1838, 1839. He died February 22, 1840.

Possessing a strong constitution, our brother was effective during all this time; and until 1839 was one of the most efficient of effective labourers. Indeed, though others have laboured for a longer time, we doubt if there has been another in the southern conferences whose labours for life have exceeded those of brother Kennedy. During the year 1839, however, his iron constitution suddenly gave way, and he was threatened with paralysis. Still he maintained his spirits, his zeal, his joy in the Holy Ghost, and travelled and preached perhaps more than he was able. It was the year of the centenary of Methodism, and he felt its inspiring influence, and exerted himself to promote its charities. It was his last. At the conference, January, 1840, he reluctantly yielded to the opinion of his brethren, that he was not able to take an appointment, and was superannuated. But though his spirit failed not, his work was done; and on a journey shortly after conference, and when his health was not thought worse than usual, he was taken, in a moment, to his rest in heaven. He was at the house of a valued friend, (Dr. Moon, of Newberry district, S. C.,) where he passed the night, rose at his usual early hour in the morning, and after his devotions at his bedside, walked into the yard, when he fell, probably by a stroke of apoplexy, and instantly expired.

19. Christian G. Hill. The subject of this brief memoir was born in Charleston, S. C., April 10, 1791, and early in life was brought to the knowledge of salvation by the remission of sins through faith in Christ, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. In December, 1811, he was admitted into the travelling connection, in which he laboured with usefulness and acceptability for many years. His health failing, he received a superannuated relation, and for several years declined gradually, being a man of much disease, and occasionally of severe suffering. In his last illness, which was long and painful, his soul reposed, in much meekness and patience, upon the atoning sacrifice of Christ, and the precious promises of the gospel. On one occasion he remarked, "I think my work is done: in other afflictions I have dreamed of preaching, and being at meetings in God's service; but in this sickness my mind does not dwell at all upon the subject, even in sleep. If my work is finished, the will of the Lord be done!" At another time he said, "'God manifested in the flesh'—'Christ crucified,' is my only ground of confidence. Here is something which seems tangible to my faith, and upon which my soul can rest." He died of dropsy, in the city of Charleston, August 11, 1841, in the fiftieth year of his age.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

20. John Lattimore was born, it is believed, in Eastern Virginia, (county not known,) about the year 1782. It appears by the Minutes that he was received on trial in the Baltimore conference in 1804. At that conference he was assigned to the Botetourt circuit; in 1805, to Montgomery; in 1806, to Suffolk circuit, Virginia conference; in 1807, to Edenton; in 1808, to Sussex; in 1809, to Bertie; in 1810, to Salisbury; in 1811, to Mecklenburg; in 1812, to Orange; in 1813, to Rocky Mount. In the year 1814 brother Lattimore located. He again appears as a member of the Virginia conference in 1817, and was appointed to Columbia circuit; in 1818 to Amelia; in 1819, to Caswell; in 1820, to Roanoke; and in 1821 he is reported on the superannuated list. From that date to the time of his death, in August, 1840, comprising a period of nineteen years, he sustained a superannuated relation to this body. The whole space of his ministry numbered nearly thirty-six years. Of these fourteen were spent as a travelling preacher, and twenty-two as a local and superannuated minister.

As far as our information guides us in forming a just estimate of the personal and ministerial character of brother Lattimore, we are warranted by this brief memorial to transmit his name to posterity as a Methodist preacher of the old régime—a clear-headed, sound-hearted, fervent Wesleyan divine. While, by his pious zeal, his simplicity of manners, and his unusual knowledge of the peculiar doctrines of our church, he doubtless did much good through a long succession of years; there is no abatement to be taken upon his reputation in all that time on account of delinquency of principle or conduct. He died in peace, of a painful illness, at the house of Richard F. Pritchard, Esq., in the county of Brunswick, in August, 1840, leaving to his family, and the church of God, the savour of a godly example, and the blessing of a spotless reputation.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

25. James Paynter.* The following is a brief sketch of his life and labours, as drawn up by himself, and found among his papers at the time of his death:—

"I was born on the first day of September, A. D. 1764, in Sussex county, near Lewistown, state of Delaware. I joined the Methodist Church in 1787, in the before-mentioned county, being nearly three weeks under pungent conviction. The Lord blessed me with peace and joy in believing.

"In 1792 I was employed by the Rev. Joseph Everett, presiding elder, to travel in Talbot circuit, Philadelphia conference; in 1793 was admitted on trial, and appointed to Dorchester circuit. The same year I was transferred to the Baltimore conference, to travel Bath circuit; in 1794 appointed to Northumberland circuit; at the end of about six months was transferred to Tioga circuit, Philadelphia conference; in 1795, Wyoming and Chester circuits. Not being at conference this year, I was eligible to deacon's orders, and was made deacon elect; in 1796 was ordained deacon at the conference, and appointed to Northampton circuit. In 1797 was transferred to the Baltimore conference, and that year travelled Berkley and Fairfax circuits; in 1798 ordained elder, and travelled Greenfield and Clarksburg circuits; in 1799, Redstone circuit; in 1800, Rockingham circuit; in 1801, Pendleton circuit; in 1802, Stafford circuit; in 1803 and 1804, Alleghany circuit; in 1805, Wyoming circuit; in 1806, Carlisle circuit; in 1807, Harford circuit; in 1808, Great Falls circuit; in 1809, Severn circuit; in 1810, Hagerstown and Berkley circuits; in 1811, Randolph circuit; in 1812, New-River circuit; in 1813, Rockingham circuit; in 1814, Frederick and Chambersburg circuits; in 1815, Great Falls circuit; in 1816, Rockingham circuit; in 1817, Prince George circuit; in 1818, Botetourt circuit; in 1819, Chambersburg circuit; in 1820, Berkley circuit; in 1821, Great Falls circuit; in 1822, Monongahela district; in 1823, Montgomery circuit; in 1824, Connellsville circuit; in 1825, Westmoreland circuit; in 1826, Baltimore city; in 1827, Jefferson circuit; in 1828, Baltimore circuit; in 1829, Fairfax circuit; and in 1830 took a superannuated relation in the Baltimore conference."

From this period until his death he found an agreeable home, and congenial society, at the residence of his much loved and most worthy brother, Benjamin Lyon, and his estimable and kind family, in Montgomery county, Md., near the Goshen meeting house. But still this truly apostolic minister and servant of Christ could not be idle; but exerting himself to the utmost of his remaining strength, he frequently undertook extensive journeys through the neighbouring circuits and appointments of his junior brethren, and would preach and labour with a zeal and energy worthy the emulation of all. Nor was even this the only service in which he exhibited a laudable zeal in the cause of his Master. The old Goshen meeting house (sacred in the reminiscences of early Methodism in that portion of Maryland) having greatly fallen into decay, brother Paynter charged himself with the labour of procuring and collecting the necessary subscriptions, and of superintending, in conjunction with the building committee, the erection of a new and substantial brick church, and pressed the matter with such untiring ardour, that he lived to see the new house completed, paid for, and nobly consecrated to God by the conversion of many precious souls.

* This memoir should have been inserted in the Minutes for last year, but was not received.

He died in great peace, at the house of brother Benjamin Lyon, March 2, 1840, aged seventy-six years, six months, and one day, and lies interred, by his own request, in the rear of the pulpit of the new church, which stands as a monument of the zeal and energy of his character, and of the pious purposes of his saintly spirit. As a preacher, he was always plain and practical; yet such was his profound experience in the great and precious things of the Spirit of God, and so deeply and thoroughly was his mind imbued with the sacred truths of the divinely inspired word, that he was universally considered a most profitable preacher, especially to the believer in Christ. As a man, he was affable and kind, modest and unobtrusive, steadfast in his friendships, and highly amiable in his social intercourse. When we survey the vastness of the labours of this holy man through the lapse of thirty-eight successive years, (the period of his more active ministerial life,) and reflect upon that constancy of mind which sustained and buoyed him up amid the privations, hardships, and sufferings incident to such extensive travel in new, uncultivated, and thinly populated districts, (and such were a great majority of his circuits when he first travelled them,) was it not to be expected that such a man, and under such circumstances, should in his last hours be enabled to say, in holy triumph, "I am not afraid to die; I know in whom I have put my trust: my trust is in the blood and righteousness of Christ." These are believed to be the last words he ever uttered with sufficient distinctness to be understood.

"Servant of God, well done:—
Cease from thy loved employ;
Thy work is done, thy race is run,—
Enter thy Master's joy."

26. Rev. Nelson Reed. This aged and venerable servant of Jesus Christ is numbered with the dead. Full of years and honour, and cheered by the hope of a blissful immortality, he closed his career of protracted usefulness in the eighty-ninth year of his age, on the 20th of October, 1840, at his residence in the precincts of Baltimore city.

Father Reed was born in Ann Arundel county, Maryland, on the 27th of November, 1751. The period of his conversion to God is not distinctly ascertained. His name as an itinerant preacher first appears on the records of the church in 1779, though it appears from the best sources of information that he commenced his public ministry in the summer of 1775. Formidable were the difficulties with which he had to contend in the prosecution of his glorious work. Neither deterred by danger, nor intimidated by the threats of an infuriated mob, he pursued the "even tenor of his way," testifying the gospel of the grace of God. After forty-five years of effective service he took a superannuated relation, and at the time of his decease was the oldest Methodist preacher in Europe or America, having for sixty-five years preached the unsearchable riches of Christ. During the long period of his ministry he never was the subject of an official charge. His reputation was perfectly unblemished, no shade of suspicion ever having darkened its steady and sunlike splendour. In all the varied relations which he sustained to the church and the world, he evinced a firmness of purpose, an integrity of heart, and a fervency of zeal which beautifully illustrated the excellence of the Christian character. He discharged with fidelity the duties connected with many of the most important and responsible stations in that department of the household of faith to which he was attached. The salutary influence which he exerted in society, and the high estimation in which he was deservedly held, are not so much attributable to those extraordinary endowments of brilliant genius, which too often dazzle only to deceive, as to those more solid and substantial qualities of the heart which mark the man who is "full of faith and of the Holy Ghost."

The consistency of his profession, the dignity of his deportment, and the depth of his piety, secured to him while living that good name which is more precious than ointment, and far above rubies, and which embalm his virtues, though now he be dead, in the affectionate remembrance of the discerning and the wise. His silent and unobtrusive course, so fruitful in lessons of piety, resembled not the mountain torrent that startles the ear with the noise of its babbling and attracts the eye with the gorgeousness of its spray. Even as the placid lake that slumbers amid the hills and reflects from its clear bosom the brightness and the beauty of the summer sky; so his calm and sanctified temper, unruffled by the provocations of insult, or the aspersions of calumny, demonstrated the power, the divinity, and the preservative influence of the religion of the cross.

In regard to all the elements which combine to form the character of an humble and an evangelical minister of the New Testament, he may safely be proposed as a model for universal imitation.

Having maintained his integrity unimpaired throughout his long and eventful history, he experienced in his latest moments the blessed consolations of that religion which sweetens the sorrows of life, extracts the sting of death, and confounds the conquests of the grave. "He held fast the beginning of his confidence firm until the end." His trust in his Redeemer gathered fresh strength amid the tottering decrepitude of increasing years, and the flame of his devotion to the cause of God grew only the more ardent and intense amid the snows which whitened the locks of age. When the "lip, pale, quivering, and the beamless eye," denoted the approach of death, the last intelligible accents of his faltering tongue were, "My dependance is not on my own works; it is on the rock, Christ Jesus crucified." Having given this testimony to the power of divine grace, his peaceful spirit passed away to its heavenly inheritance.

"His soul to Him who gave it, rose;
God led it to its long repose,
Its glorious rest!
And tho' the patriarch's sun has set,
Its light shall linger round us yet,
Bright, radiant, blest."

27. Rev. Isaac T. Stratten. Our worthy and beloved brother is no more. He died at the house of his father-in-law, John Smith, Williamsport, Lycoming county, Pennsylvania, on the 20th of April, 1840. He was born September 4th, 1807, in Centre county, Pennsylvania, and converted to God September 1st, 1829. In the spring of 1836 he was admitted as a probationer into the Baltimore annual conference, and continued in the regular work until the spring of 1840, when, in consequence of the inroads of the pulmonary consumption, he received at the hands of the conference a superannuated relation.

Brother Stratten was a Christian of exemplary piety, and a preacher of respectable talents. He was tenderly loved by all among whom he laboured, and was very successful in his ministerial toil. The closing scene of his life was one of great triumph and joy, and gave to the countless evidences already on record, additional testimony to the truth and power of religion. Among the last words which escaped his lips, was the following victorious exclamation, "I have a bright and glorious hope of immortality beyond the grave."

NEW-JERSEY CONFERENCE.

28. Rev. James Campbell. This venerable servant of God died of apoplexy, in the eightieth year of his age. He was a native of Ireland, and but little of his early life is known. The Minutes show that he entered the itinerant connection of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1789, and continued to labour as an effective minister until 1805. During this time he travelled and preached in most of the states then in the Union; after which he ceased to travel, and permanently located in the borough of Pemberton, N. J., where he maintained an honourable standing in society up to the 31st of December, 1840, the day of his death. The Bible was emphatically brother Campbell's book; the sabbath to him was peculiarly sacred: no words seemed dearer to him than, "Remember the sabbath day to keep it holy." His attendance at church was remarkable; indeed he was always there; and for three or four months previous to his death all observed in him greater ardour and higher enjoyments of divine grace. His prayers were powerful: he was frequently almost overwhelmed with a sense of the divine presence. Thus brother Campbell lived to fulness of years, and thus he died in sure prospect of a glorious immortality. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them."

29. Benjamin Benson died in October, 1840, in Cambridge, Dorchester county, Md. His afflictions were protracted and painful: he endured them with fortitude and resignation; and while death carried on with slow but unerring strokes the dissolution of his earthly tabernacle, his soul rose superior to his afflictions, and triumphed in prospect of immortality and eternal life. He was born December 6, 1807; embraced religion in 1827; in 1828 was licensed to exhort; joined the Philadelphia conference in 1830, and was appointed to Salisbury circuit. He filled various appointments up to 1836, when a pulmonary disease induced him to visit the south. But this was unavailing, and he returned to die among his friends, who are consoled with the assurance that his end was peace.

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

30. The Rev. Eli B. Kirkum was born in the town of Guilford, Dec. 13, 1813. At the age of eighteen years he was brought to a saving knowledge of the truth through the ministry of the Rev. N. Levings, at that time stationed in the city of New-Haven.

Under the influence of remarkably clear and deep convictions that it was his duty to call sinners to repentance, he applied for and received a license as a local preacher in 1836, the latter half of which year he was employed by the presiding elder of the district, and laboured in the town of Haddam. At the following session of the New-York annual conference he was received on trial, and stationed in the town in which he had previously laboured. In 1838 he was stationed in Essex, where he laboured with fidelity, usefulness, and acceptance, until the winter of 1840, when he was attacked and prostrated by pulmonary consumption. At the conference of 1840 he received a supernumerary relation, and was appointed to Guilford, the residence of his parents, where his short but honourable career was closed on May 14, 1841.

During his long illness brother Kirkum experienced the saving and sustaining efficiency of that gospel which he had preached to others. His sense of acceptance with God was clear and unclouded. His acquiescence in the divine will was exemplary. At no period during his protracted sufferings was any expression of impatience or complaint heard from his lips. In the exhibition of the passive graces of the Christian character, he manifested to all who saw him the practical efficiency of the grace of God to sustain the mind, even when enshrined in a feeble and suffering body. When actually contending with "the last enemy"—when the prospects of future ministerial usefulness were passing away, and the ties of social relationship were about to be severed, he turned to one of his weeping friends, and in a faint whisper, beyond which his strength permitted him not to speak, remarked, "I am dying; but it is all right;" repeating, emphatically, "it is all right." A few minutes after, in the most perfect serenity of body and mind, he fell asleep in Jesus.

As a minister, brother Kirkum was warmly attached to the church of his choice, and ardently desirous to extend the Redeemer's kingdom. He was well acquainted with the theology of the Bible, and with the way of salvation by faith in Jesus Christ; and that the soundness of his faith was applied to the purposes of his own spiritual welfare, all who were acquainted with him had daily opportunities of witnessing. He has left us, and has joined the church triumphant; and we doubt not has received the "crown that fadeth not away," which "the great Shepherd" has promised to all his faithful servants.

QUESTION 12. Who have died this year?

MAINE CONFERENCE.

1. The Rev. JOHN BRIGGS was a native of England; and was brought to a knowledge of the truth experimentally, through the instrumentality of the Wesleyan Methodist ministry, when about twenty-three years of age; he soon afterward united with that society. He was subsequently raised to an official standing in that venerable body, which relation he sustained at the time of his emigrating to the United States, thirty years since. He joined the New-England annual conference in 1817; and in 1819 was admitted into full connection, and ordained deacon at the Lynn conference by Bishop Roberts. In 1822 he was ordained elder at the conference held at Bath, Maine, by the same bishop. He became a member of Maine annual conference at the time of the division of the New-England conference, in which he continued until he ceased to labour and to live.

Our deceased brother possessed a sound, discriminating mind; and was a man of unflinching integrity. As a Christian, his piety was deep and uniform; as a minister, he possessed good preaching talents; but he excelled in prayer. His last sermon was delivered at Durham, on his way to conference at Huntshill; and which place he was severely attacked with a bilious disease that closed his earthly career at the house of brother Moody in Budfield, on August 4th, 1840, in the seventy-first year of his age. But he died in peace.

ERIE CONFERENCE.

2. The Rev. WM. SWAYZE was born in Sussex county, New-Jersey, November 18th, 1784. He was converted to God in Baltimore, May 20th, 1800. He was shortly afterward impressed that it was his duty to preach the gospel. After preaching a few times, he was confirmed in the belief that God had called him to the great work, by the large number of seals to his ministry. He laboured as a local preacher to great advantage for several years. He was admitted into the New-York annual conference on trial in May, 1807. For ten years he laboured successfully; and numerous were the souls that were brought to Christ through his instrumentality. In 1816 he was transferred to the Ohio conference; in 1817 he was appointed to Columbus circuit; in 1818 to Deer Creek circuit, which included Chilicothe. In this town an extensive and powerful revival took place through his instrumentality. His labours were principally confined to the town during the latter part of that year and the whole of the next. In 1820 he was appointed presiding elder of Ohio district, where his labours for four years were crowned with almost unexampled success. On the 17th of May, 1824, by the division made by the General Conference, he fell in the bounds of the Pittsburgh conference. In the same year he was appointed to Erie district: here he was attended with his usual prosperity. In 1828 he was appointed to Canton district, and presided two years with acceptability and usefulness. In 1830 he was appointed conference missionary, in which relation he rendered much service to the church. In 1832 he was transferred to Ohio conference, and remained there two years. In 1834 he was transferred to Pittsburgh conference at their request. After which he sustained a superannuated relation until the time of his decease, which took place March 29th, 1841, in the fifty-seventh year of his age. He died in Edinburg, Portage county, Ohio, in great peace and resignation, at the house of his old friend, the Rev. Thomas Carr. And we doubt not, from our acquaintance with him for the last twenty-four years of his life, (having been much with him, witnessing his untiring labours and protracted efforts to prosecute the good of our Zion,) that he fell a martyr to his work.

During the time of his superannuation, he suffered much from numerous bodily infirmities; but never abated in his Christian enjoyment and zeal. And for a few of the last days of his life, he was much cheered and comforted with the sublime subjects of our holy religion, and the bright prospects of an abundant entrance into that glorious immortality that awaited him.

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

3. Rev. CHARLES T. STANLEY was born in Cazenovia, N. Y., May 22, 1810. In early youth he was blest with pious parental instruction, which was often salutary in bringing him to think of death. Although naturally fond of mirth, yet he was frequently arrested by such a sense of his condition, that he durst not read the Bible, lest he should there find still more to aggravate his misery. But these convictions soon subsiding, he pursued his wonted course till, in the twentieth year of his age, he was brought to a saving acquaintance with Christ. About two years from this time, he obtained the blessing of entire sanctification, which he urged upon the church by precept and example until death. Soon after his conversion, it became evident he was called to preach. In the year 1835 he was received by the Oneida annual conference at its session in Oswego: and after travelling four years, in which he was appointed successively to the Cayuga, Bridgewater, Brooklyn, and Canaan circuits, where he laboured with marked success, his health failed; and after lingering about eighteen months, often in extreme suffering, he fell asleep in Christ on the 17th of January, 1841, greatly lamented. As a Christian, he strove to give a practical exemplification of the principles of the gospel. As a scholar, he cultivated a thirst for knowledge. As a minister, he strove to do every duty, being instant in season and out of season in administering the word of life, which in his hands, by the blessing of God, was eminently successful.

NORTH OHIO CONFERENCE.

4. Rev. John Kinnear was attacked with the bilious fever on the 8th of October, and his sufferings closed on the 9th of November, 1840, in the thirty-eighth year of his age. He experienced religion in early life, and was taken from his father's house by Rev. R. Bigelow, and placed on Huron circuit in the winter of 1831; where he laboured till the session of the Ohio conference, when he was admitted into the travelling connection. He laboured with acceptability and usefulness on Elyria, Farmington, Bucyrus, Lower Sandusky, Spring Arbour, Plymouth, and Savannah circuits. At the last session of our conference, he was appointed to Waynesburg circuit, where he arrived in good season, and commenced his labours with flattering prospects of usefulness. But alas, how suddenly were the expectations of the people of his charge cut off! Ere he had finished an entire round on the circuit, disease prostrated his robust constitution. The first sabbath of his affliction, he was much blest, and shouted for joy. After this he had some struggles with the enemy, but obtained the victory. He endured with much patience his severe affliction, and frequently said, "All is well."

OHIO CONFERENCE.

5. Rev. Robert W. Finley was born in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, June 9th, 1750. He experienced religion at the age of seventeen; and soon afterward entered Princeton College, N. J., where he spent seven years in reference to the ministry. His scholarship was respectable: he was well acquainted with the languages. In 1774 he was licensed to preach in the Presbyterian Church, and was sent as a missionary to Georgia and the Carolinas. About this time the great political struggle took place; and he deemed it his duty to defend his country. He was often with General Marion in his expeditions; which rendered him very obnoxious to some. On one occasion, as he stepped out of his own house, a neighbour fired at him. The bullet passed across his breast, and left nine holes in his clothes. In 1784, he and some others set out to explore Kentucky: finding he could not move through the wilderness, he went to New-Virginia, and spent two years in Hampshire county, preaching. In the fall of 1788 he settled near Stockdon's station, now Flemingsburg, Kentucky. He next moved to Bourbon county, and settled on Cainridge. Here he commenced preaching; and likewise opened a high school for the reception of students in divinity, many of whom became distinguished in subsequent life. In 1795 he raised a company of twenty men, and fell in with General Massie, to explore the Scioto country, in the Northwestern Territory; and in May, 1796, settled with his family on the Scioto, below Chilicothe.

In 1808 he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church; and in 1811 or 1812 was admitted on trial in the Ohio conference, and appointed to Whitewater circuit. In the itinerancy he laboured successfully for several years. Few preached more sermons, or more ably and zealously defended our doctrinal views of the gospel; few laboured more diligently in instructing children and youth; and few received more hundreds of persons into the church. When the conference gave him a superannuated relation, he did not think his work was done: although between seventy-five and eighty years of age, and but frail and feeble, he mounted his horse, with his books and his clothes, and set off as a missionary to the regions of St. Marie: there he formed a circuit, and appointed a camp meeting on the frontiers of Methodism. Next year conference sent a missionary to his aid. His last sermon was preached about two years previous to his death: his theme was holiness. In the last year of his life he read the Scriptures for hours without intermission. His mind was peaceful to the end. He gave a sign of victory, and departed. His death occurred December 8th, 1840, in the ninety-first year of his age, at the residence of his son, Rev. James B. Finley, in Germantown, Ohio.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

6. The Rev. Absalom Hunt died on the 21st of February, 1841. He was born in the state of Virginia, December 4th, 1773, but in the days of his youth emigrated with his parents to the Holston country. From thence they came to Kentucky; and in 1793 he was married. He was, in that period of his life, a professor of religion. After his marriage, he lived several years in Fleming county, where he was licensed to preach. From Fleming he went to Bath county, where he laboured a few years as a local preacher with great acceptability. He gave himself up wholly to the work in September, 1815, and was received on trial in the Ohio conference, and appointed successively to Madison, Lexington, Hinkston, and Limestone circuits, all in the state of Kentucky. The General Conference having in 1820 formed the Kentucky conference, he became one of its members, and was successively appointed to Mount Sterling, Hinkston, and Fleming circuits; in 1824 he sustained a superannuated relation; in 1825 he entered the field again, and was successively appointed to Liberty, Paris, Lexington, and Hinkston circuits. It was in 1828 that he received his last appointment. At the close of that year conference placed him in a superannuated relation. He became the subject of painful affliction, and was rendered incapable of travelling on horseback, but he preached occasionally in the neighbourhood. He was generally considered a very successful preacher, and a most powerful exhorter. He was remarkably fond of reading, and delighted much in Wesley's Sermons. He conversed freely and calmly about death, which to him had no terrors. His confidence appeared to be strong in the Lord. A few weeks previous to his death he lost the entire use of his right side, and his powers of speech became so much disorganized, that he could not articulate so as to be understood. But he was patient and resigned. Thus he suffered until he fell asleep in Jesus.

7. H. N. Vandyke.—No memoir.

8. Alexander Robinson was a native of Kentucky; and was converted to God at a camp meeting in Washington county. He was received on trial as a travelling preacher in 1834. He travelled four years, and afterward held a superannuated relation to the conference. Although he is represented to have possessed but moderate talents, yet, by making experimental religion the theme of his ministry, grace accomplished through his labours what the talents of an angel cannot effect—the conversion of immortal souls: and if what an ancient philosopher said is true, "that no man can be called happy till his death," truly brother Robinson deserves now to be called a happy man; for he died with most triumphant joy, and so concluded his career in peace.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

9. Rev. David B. Carter was born and converted to God in Tennessee. He was admitted on trial in the Illinois annual conference, at Edwardsville, September, 1829, and was appointed to the Sangamon circuit, and reappointed in 1830. He travelled the Spoon River circuit in 1831, and was received into full connection in 1832, and appointed to Fort Edwards mission. In 1833 he travelled the Quincy circuit; and again, in 1834 and 1835, travelled the Fort Edwards mission. In 1836 he travelled the Rushville circuit. In 1837 he was superannuated. In 1838 he was returned supernumerary, and placed on Rushville circuit. And in 1839 and 1840 he again sustained a superannuated relation; in which relation to the conference, on the 28th day of October, 1840, at 9 o'clock, P. M., he died in great peace and triumph.

Brother Carter's talents, as a peacher, were moderate: he was a thorough reformation preacher. He preached with great acceptability and usefulness, and will long live in the affection of his brethren.

10. Rev. John E. French departed this life, near Carlyle, Clinton county, Illinois, on the 2d of February, 1841, in the thirty-sixth year of his age. He was born in Dorcestershire, England, September 29th, 1805. In the summer of 1818 his father, with a family of nine children, emigrated to America, and for a time settled in Cincinnati. It was there that brother French received his first conviction of sin, which resulted in his conversion to God. In the summer of 1828 he was received on trial in the Illinois annual conference. From that time until the fall of 1839 he continued in the effective ranks, and laboured with general acceptability and much success on his different fields of labour. Brother French, as a preacher, did not excel, unless it was in usefulness. His talents were of the ordinary class, his literary attainments but moderate; but such was his deep piety, that in usefulness he excelled most of the brethren of his age.

MICHIGAN CONFERENCE.

11. Brother Barns died at his own residence in Brownstown, Wayne co., Mich., September 8th, 1840, in the fifty-sixth year of his age. He joined the Genesee conference in the year 1810. He filled the office of presiding elder for seven years, and was esteemed a judicious counsellor and a skilful manager. As a preacher, he was not what would be called brilliant, but a sound theologian, and well capable of pointing out the way to heaven. For several years he had charge of the Oneida mission, within the bounds of the Oneida conference, where his labours among the Indians were crowned with much success. About the year 1835 or 1836 he received a location from the Oneida conference, and removed to the state of Michigan. In 1837 he was readmitted to the Michigan conference, and appointed to the Dundee circuit. But when the year was half gone, his health had so failed as to oblige him to retire from his work. At the sitting of the Michigan conference in 1840 his name was placed upon the superannuated list, and in a few days after, in great peace and in full prospect of a better world, he fell asleep in Jesus. The disease of which he died was a bilious fever.

INDIANA CONFERENCE.

12. Sanford S. Williams was born of religious parents, in Hamilton co., O., where he was religiously brought up, called to the ministry, and finished his earthly sufferings. The precise date of his birth has not been ascertained. In the year 1834 he was licensed to preach the gospel, and was admitted on trial into the Indiana conference, at its session in Centreville, the ensuing autumn. His first appointment was to the charge of Versailles circuit, where he laboured with acceptability and usefulness. After this, he travelled successively the Kalamazoo mission, Greenville, Niles, and Vevay circuits; and lastly, Pipe Creek mission, where he greatly endeared himself to his people, and left seals to his ministry. Toward the close of the year 1840, while zealously engaged in the labours of this mission, his health failed him, though he did not retire from the work till the ensuing session of conference, at which time he was compelled by affliction to ask for and obtained a superannuated relation. From conference he returned to his father's in Hamilton county, Ohio, where he continued to suffer under the ravages of pulmonary consumption till May, 1841, at which time he finished his career and calmly fell asleep in Jesus.

MISSOURI CONFERENCE.

13. Melville Wiley, son of Rev. Allen Wiley of the Indiana conference, was born October 22d, 1813. He first experienced religion in his thirteenth year, but delaying to unite with the Church, his enjoyments declined. In his eighteenth year he was again quickened and renewed, and joined himself to the people of God, April 24th, 1831. From this period his walk was blameless. In the spring of 1838 he received his first license to preach. The succeeding fall he was admitted on trial by the Indiana conference, and laboured with some success on Greensburg circuit. Conceiving that he might be more useful where his labours were more needed, he asked and obtained a transfer to Missouri conference. His first appointment here was to Farmington circuit, and his labours were greatly blest. He was next sent to New-Madrid circuit, where his labours were also greatly blest. In August he started for Indiana in bad health, and reached Vevay under the influence of congestive fever, which progressed to a fatal termination in a few days. During this period he conversed freely with his friends of his increased enjoyment in religion, and his ardent attachment to the itinerant work. He received his Lord's command to depart on the morning of the 13th of September, 1841.

As a Christian, brother Wiley was deeply pious, uniform, and blameless. As a husband and parent, affectionate, tender, and kind. As a minister of Christ, of medium abilities, studious habits, respectable attainments, and punctual to his official engagements—listened to with interest in the pulpit—profitable in the class-room—and sober in his conversation.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

14. Isaac D. Smith was born in Bedford co., Tenn. His parents were pious members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He embraced religion and joined society in the sixteenth year of his age. He was licensed to preach and received on trial in the Tennessee conference in 1838, and appointed to Shoal circuit; in 1839 to Franklin circuit; in 1840 he was appointed in charge of the Dover circuit. On this circuit he sunk under untiring zeal and labours. Brother Smith was no ordinary young man; though possessed of a feeble frame, he had a gigantic mind, well cultivated. In the latter part of the year he was attacked with bilious fever, which neither time nor medical attention could arrest. His religious comforts were strong, and his dying counsels impressive. His affectionate charge to his colleague, from his dying pillow, will not soon be forgotten. He departed this life in the triumphs of faith, August 15th, 1841, and in the twenty-third year of his age.

15. Rev. John C. Mitchell was born of pious parents in Giles county, Tennessee, December, 1814. He was early taught the fear of God: and in 1834 he became the subject of converting grace. Soon after his conversion he felt that he was moved by the Holy Ghost to preach the gospel. For two years this subject rested with impressive interest upon his mind. He determined at length, however, to give himself up to the work of the ministry. In 1836 he was admitted on trial in the Tennessee annual conference, and appointed to the Lincoln circuit, and the following year to the Hatchie circuit; both of which he travelled with acceptability and usefulness. At the conference held in Huntsville, in the year 1838, he was admitted into full connection, and appointed to the Columbia station; in the autumn of the year 1839 to the Athens station; and in the year 1840 to the Murfreesboro' station. In consequence of feeble health, he was able to discharge the duties of his last appointment only for a few weeks; he gained, however, in this short time, the esteem and affection of those who had been committed to his pastoral charge. Brother Mitchell fell a victim to consumption. His affliction was long and severe, but he bore it with the fortitude and resignation of a Christian. As a friend and brother he combined sweetness of disposition with fervent piety. As a Christian minister, he was studious, devoted to the work, clear in his apprehensions of truth, plain and heart-searching in his appeals. Wherever he laboured, seals were added to his ministry; and many are the living epistles of the truth of his call to the work of God.

16. John J. Foster was born in Caswell county, North Carolina, December 18th, 1815. His parents were devoted Methodists. At the age of fifteen he was converted to God, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He soon became a successful exhorter: he was licensed to preach October 1st, 1836; received on trial in the Tennessee annual conference the same year, and appointed to Smithford circuit; and in 1837 to Livingston. In these two appointments he was very successful, particularly in the latter, where he was instrumental in promoting a glorious revival of religion. In 1838 he passed his conference examination with much credit, was elected to deacon's orders, and appointed to Lagrange station. The bishop not being present at conference, he attended and was ordained at the Mississippi conference. He laboured in his station but a short time, when his afflictions made it necessary for him to return home. In 1839 he became supernumerary. In this relation he was very industrious. Among his last declarations was, "God is my father." He fell asleep sweetly in Jesus, October 18th, 1840, in the twenty-fifth year of his age. Brother Foster was a young minister of "an excellent spirit;" unassuming and retiring in his manners, studious in his habits, and faithful in his work.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE.

18. Rev. Malcom M'Pherson was born in Anson co., N. C., in the year of our Lord 1796. His parents were Presbyterians, and he was early taught to reverence his God. He was convinced of his native depravity and ruined condition, about the twenty-second year of his age, when he became a regular hearer of the Methodists, experienced a change of heart, and joined the church.

About twelve months afterward he offered himself to the South Carolina annual conference of 1821, at which he was received on trial. It may truly be said of him that year after year he continued to grow in favour with both God and man. Wherever he went he was hailed as a peculiar messenger of mercy.

For the benefit of his rising family, he concluded to remove to the south-west; and in the early part of 1839 he obtained a location of the South Carolina annual conference. The spring and summer of that year he spent at his father-in-law's in Tennessee; but there he could not be idle—he took work under one of our presiding elders of that conference, and rode a laborious circuit. In the fall of the same year he removed to the northern part of Mississippi; and in the winter of the same year offered himself to the Mississippi annual conference, where he was cordially received, and readmitted into the travelling connection. He entered upon his work with his usual zeal and fidelity, the blessing of the Lord attending his labours. In the midst of his extensive usefulness, his Master saw best to call him, and to give him his hire. After several days of severe affliction, which he bore with perfect resignation, on the 16th of September, 1841, he sweetly breathed his last.

We are not able to give in detail the several appointments he received and filled. We would only add, that as a Christian, he was in every respect practical and consistent. And as a preacher of the gospel he was orthodox; he was well skilled, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed; he was energetic, holy, and zealous; he was truly a burning and shining light.

19. The Rev. JOHN M. HOLLAND was born in Williamson county, Tennessee, and received an early religious education; and while quite a youth embraced the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. Soon after he began to pray in public, and to exhort his fellow men to flee from the wrath to come. In the year 1822 he obtained a license to preach, and in the fall of the same year he was admitted on trial in the Tennessee annual conference. After officiating for a number of years as preacher, presiding elder, and college agent, he ended his useful life on the 13th day of August, 1841, full of faith and of the Holy Ghost.

On a review of the travels and labours of the lamented Holland, it appears that he received nineteen regular appointments, and the greater portion of them high and responsible stations, all of which he filled with great credit to himself and usefulness to the church. Brother Holland was about thirty-eight or thirty-nine years of age. He was a fearless, fervent, and eloquent preacher of the gospel, who lived for God, died at his post, lamented by his friends, and covered with glory.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

20. J. GWINN.—No memoir.

21. Rev. ELIJAH STEELE was born of respectable parents in the state of Tennessee. At the age of six years he was removed to the state of Mississippi. At the age of sixteen he was awakened and converted. About two years after his conversion he believed himself moved by the Holy Ghost to preach the gospel. With much fear and trembling, after long hesitancy, he gave himself up to the work of the ministry. In 1835 he was received on trial in the Mississippi conference, and after filling various appointments, he finished his brief career at New-Orleans. On the 6th of September, 1841, while attending a prayer meeting, he was attacked by the yellow fever, then prevailing as an epidemic in the city. He was carried to the house of his friend, James Ross, Esq., where, on the 10th, he rendered up his spirit into the hands of God who gave it. Among his last words were, "Tell my friends, if I die I shall go straight to heaven:" "how beautiful:" "how glorious:" and the last soft whisper was, "I am safe."

He was a young man of extraordinary powers of mind and surpassing eloquence. He was deeply devoted to the service of his heavenly Master—a most active and untiring minister of Christ. Long will his heavenly-mindedness and chaste conversation be remembered by his brethren in the ministry and membership of the church.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

22. Rev. DANIEL MONAGHAN. The subject of this memoir, our reverend father and brother, was born in Chesterfield district, South Carolina, in 1772; converted in 1809, and the same year joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He entered the itinerancy in 1814 in the South Carolina conference, and was appointed to Little Pedee circuit; 1815, Rocky River, at the close of which year he was ordained deacon; 1816, Georgetown; 1817, Black River; 1818, Wateree; ordained elder that year, and located. He removed to Tennessee in 1819, laboured on Cany Fork circuit in 1820 and 1821. In 1822 he removed to Green county, Alabama, and remained local until 1830, when he was appointed to Tombeckbee circuit; 1831, Marengo; 1832, Tombeckbee; 1833, Cedar Creek; 1834, Prairie Creek; 1835 and 1836, Marengo; 1837, Greene; 1838, Cedar Creek; 1839, Livingston; 1840, Marengo; at the next conference, which met at Selma, January, 1841, he asked and obtained a superannuated relation. But in this situation he was to remain only for a short time. On the 20th of March following, at the call of the great Head of the church, he took a transfer from this world of sorrow to the world of spirits, the land of peace and rest, where his reward awaited him, aged sixty-eight years, five months, and five days. As a Christian he openly professed that high attainment of the gospel—the peculiar glory of Methodism—sanctification. As a minister he was emphatically himself. His method of sermonizing was simple, natural, and original. His impassioned, felicitous, and yet singularly strong method of expression, was peculiar to himself. His numerous tropes, drawn from the most familiar objects of life and nature, never failed to excite emotion in the hearer by some unexpected illustration.

23. The Rev. Noah Laney was born July 28th, 1801, in the county of Mecklenburg, North Carolina. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, (as a seeker of religion,) in the year 1813, and in the year 1819 found God in the remission of his sins. In the year 1821 he was admitted on trial in the South Carolina conference, and appointed to Lincoln circuit. From this time until 1832 he continued travelling as a member of the above conference, filling the following appointments in their order: viz., Warren, St. Mary's, St. Augustine, Liberty, Black Swamp, Charleston, Georgetown, Wilmington, Pedee, and Darlington.

In 1833 he was transferred to the Georgia conference, and appointed to the Thomaston circuit; and in 1834 to Cedar Creek circuit. In 1835 he located; in 1836 was readmitted, and appointed to Hawkinsville, and again located at the end of this year. In this relation to the church he continued until 1840, when, having removed to Alabama, he was employed to travel on the Tuskegee circuit. At the conference held in Selma at the close of 1840 he was readmitted, and appointed to the Irwinton district, where on the 10th of July, 1841, he closed in Christian triumph his ministerial labours. Our brother possessed more than ordinary preaching powers; was exemplary as a Christian, beloved and highly esteemed as a presiding elder, by all who knew him. In his last illness he often spoke of death with composure and Christian firmness: while his dying language was, "Christ is the Rock of my salvation." "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord."

24. Rev. James M. Boatwright died July 5th, 1841. He was several years a member of the Virginia, and afterward of the North Carolina conference, whence he was transferred to Alabama in 1838, and stationed in 1839 in Greensborough; in 1840 Cahawba; and in 1841 Gainsville and Jameston station, where he ended his labours.

He had a suavity of manners and a sweetness of temper that fall to the lot of few, and which endeared him to all that knew him. As a Christian, he was unostentatious, deeply pious, and full of burning zeal for the cause of God. The people whom he served, and in whose hearts he still lives, had passed upon him even in his life time, "that he was a Wesleyan" minister. As was his life so was his death, but much more abundant. His dying room seemed the presence chamber of heaven,—gilded with supernatural glories. After the most solemn protestations that he had no fears of death; after affectionately exhorting all in the room to meet him in heaven; sipping the water handed him by a kind friend to cool his lips, with an unearthly countenance he triumphantly exclaimed, "The next I drink will be in my Father's kingdom." So saying, he sweetly fell asleep in the arms of Jesus.

25. Rev. Wilson Moore was born in the state of South Carolina in 1815; converted at Gainesville, Alabama, October, 1838, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at the same time and place. He was received on trial in the Alabama conference in January, 1839, and appointed to Fayetteville circuit; in 1840, Fulton, at the close of which year he was admitted into full connection, and ordained deacon. In 1841 he was appointed to Mariana station, West Florida, where he died of congestive fever, in the month of September.

Brother Moore was a young man of uncommon promise. Wherever he laboured, the power of God attended his ministry, and many souls were added to the Lord through his instrumentality. He was prudent, deeply pious, and remarkably humble and modest in his deportment. In his last illness he enjoyed great peace of mind, resting with unshaken confidence upon the promises of God. His last words were, "The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge."

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

26. Samuel K. Hodges. The subject of this brief and imperfect memoir was long a member of the Georgia conference. Amiable as a man, pious as a Christian, indefatigable as a minister, he was endeared to the conference and the church, and will long be remembered with gratitude and affection. As a counsellor in difficulty, he was unequalled for the soundness of his discretion, the clearness of his judgment, and the readiness and abundance of his resources. He filled while living various important stations, and all of them with credit to himself, and usefulness to the church. He was stricken with his last sickness while attending a camp meeting on the district of which he was the presiding elder. The symptoms of his disease, though not alarming in their first appearance, yet rapidly assumed a threatening aspect, and soon eclipsed the hope of his recovery. When the fact was announced to him that a speedy death was his doom, he remarked with composure, that he had been preparing for the event for thirty years and was not afraid to die. He lived faithfully, died happy, and now rests in peace.

27. Jeremiah Freeman died in 1840. He travelled for several years, but failing in strength, located. As soon, however, as he was able to resume his itinerant labours, he again appeared before the conference, and received an appointment. His health soon declined, and he took a superannuated relation. His constitution, ravaged and ruined by disease, failed to recover by rest, but gradually and painfully sunk into the weakness of hopeless disease. His last hours were peculiarly distinguished for the manifestations of the presence of God, and power of blessedness of religion. His life was holy and his death triumphant.

28. James Hutto was a man of good report for personal piety, and laboured for years effectively as an itinerant preacher. At the time of his death he occupied a superannuated relation to the conference. The subject of many afflictions, he bore them patiently, and witnessed in his last moments that they had worked for him an exceeding great and eternal weight of glory. His end was peace.

29. Smith Crandall died in 1840 in Cherokee county. Moderate in his intellectual abilities, he was yet efficient through the power of his faith and the abundance of his zeal. Feeble of constitution, he could not endure the labours of active itinerancy, and after preaching a few years, so declined in health and strength, that it became necessary to superannuate him. He was a man of God, and has doubtless gone to the rest of the faithful.*

30. James H. M'Arver was born in Lincoln co., N. Carolina, of Presbyterian parents, and in that faith was educated. In 1828 he became concerned on the subject of religion, and attached himself to the church of his early prejudices, and in this church lived for several years, all the time hesitating between doubt and fear, without ever having enjoyed a satisfactory assurance of his conversion to God. Through the labours mainly of brother Mosley, formerly of the Georgia conference, he became thoroughly convinced that it was his privilege to enjoy the constant and undoubted evidence of his acceptance with God. Acting in accordance with this faith, he soon found by happy experience that the Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God. Having changed his faith in so material a point, and being now the happy subject of a peace, a purity, and a power, to which he was formerly a stranger, nothing was more natural than that he should seek an asylum among those of congenial feelings and faith. And accordingly in the summer of 1837 he became a minister of the M. E. Church; at the close of the same year he was admitted a member on trial of this conference; in 1838 he travelled as junior preacher on the Decatur circuit; in 1839 he was appointed in charge of the Jacksonville circuit, East Florida; in 1840 was stationed in Tallahassee; in 1841 stationed in Quincy; in all which stations he laboured usefully and acceptably, both as a preacher and pastor, until he was arrested by the hand of disease in the midst of his labours, on the last-mentioned station. His disease was an affection of the lungs, and though its progress was not so rapid, the end was fatal. He died in the thirty-sixth year of his age, in Floid county, Georgia, on the 15th of August, 1841, leaving a wife and infant son totally dependant upon the church he served so faithfully. We cannot forbear to mention with particular emphasis the extraordinary personal piety of brother M'Arver. From his first entrance upon the ministry he professed to obtain the blessing of perfect love; lived in its enjoyment, and successfully taught it to others, and to this mainly may be attributed his success in the ministry. He has gone to his reward, but his mantle is upon many who are left behind.

31. William Mills was born in Georgia in 1815: he professed religion and united himself to the M. E. Church some time during the year 1831; was received on trial in the Georgia annual conference in December, 1838. He laboured usefully on the Muscogee circuit in 1839, on the M'Donough circuit in 1840, and was appointed to the Chattahoochee mission in 1841, where he died in almost unparalleled triumph, in the twenty-sixth year of his age.

* The four preceding memoirs should have been inserted in the Minutes for last year, but were not received.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

33. Rev. Jehu G. Postell. He was born in the state of South Carolina, of pious parents, and in the morning of life embraced the truth in the love of it, and became wise to salvation by that faith which justifies the ungodly. From that time he devoted himself unreservedly to God. He was admitted on trial in the itinerant connection in 1836. He laboured on the several circuits to which he was appointed, with great acceptability and usefulness, and will long live in the affections of those he served. He died in Charleston, South Carolina, April, 1841, of consumption; he did not expect his end to be so near, until a short time before his death, and when told his departure was at hand, he replied, he would like to live to raise his family, but was submissive to the will of his Maker. His brethren in the ministry conversed freely with him respecting his state and prospects, and he gave full evidence of a good hope of heaven.

Thus lived and died our beloved brother in the kingdom and patience of our Lord Jesus Christ. Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his.

34. Bartlett Thomason departed this life in peace, in Orangeburg district, South Carolina, February, 1841. He was born in Laurens district, South Carolina, of pious parents, who endeavoured to train him up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. He was converted to God September, 1830. He was licensed to preach September, 1832, and admitted on trial in the itinerant connection 1833. He possessed an amiable spirit, respectable and useful talents, and was much loved where he travelled and laboured. He suffered much for several months before his death, but he suffered like a Christian and Christian minister, with fortitude and patience: a little before he died, when informed he had received a superannuated relation to the conference, he expressed his gratitude that he had been thus favoured by his brethren. He suddenly fell asleep in Jesus, in the faith and hope of the gospel. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

35. Rev. Stephen G. Roszel, the son of Stephen and Sarah Roszel, was born April 8th, 1770, in Loudoun county, Virginia. When about sixteen years of age, he sought and obtained the peace of God, consequent upon the pardon of his sins.

In the year 1789 he entered the itinerancy under the immediate direction of Bishop Asbury, although his name does not appear upon the Minutes until 1790. In this year his name appears among those remaining on trial, and in connection with the Williamsburg circuit. From this time, with the exception of twelve years spent in a located condition, until his death, a period of fifty-two years, he held an effective relation, as an itinerant preacher. He was a member of the first, and every succeeding delegated General Conference until his death, and bore no small part of the labour of spreading 'Scriptural holiness' in the different conferences with which he was connected, and in which he occupied many of the most responsible and important appointments. In February, 1841, he was appointed to the Hillsborough circuit, Virginia. While in the official discharge of his duties upon this circuit he was called to close his long and useful life. His death occurred in Leesburg, Virginia, May 14th, 1841, in the seventy-second year of his age.

The closing hours of his life were calm and peaceful. On being questioned as to the constancy of his faith in the atonement of the Redeemer, he replied, that on that subject he had never even entertained the shadow of a doubt; and on being further asked as to his experience, he observed, that he had been reviewing his whole life, during his illness, and that his conscience was unpolluted by a stain. Commending his partner to the goodness and providence of God, without a fear he passed calmly and confidently, with the high and holy bearing of a Christian hero, to the final conflict, and when the hour had arrived for his departure, (speech having failed, but reason still remaining,) on being interrogated by one of his sons, as to his prospect of entering into rest, he raised his hand, gave the sign, and passed to the bosom of his God.

Long will Stephen G. Roszel be remembered as the firm and unwavering friend of Methodism; the unflinching supporter of her doctrines and institutions. In the dark and troublous times connected with her rise and progress, he was ever ready, among the first to peril his all in her defence. When the faith of some failed, and the courage of others fainted, he was to be found promptly in the breach, shunning no labour, shrinking from no responsibility, in opposing every innovation which he deemed subversive of her prosperity.

It pleased God to spare him to the church until the clouds had passed away; and in death allowed him to lift up his eyes upon his beloved Zion, eminently successful in all her operations, clearly demonstrating the truth of God, that "there is no enchantment against Jacob."

When he first entered the itinerant field there were but one hundred and ninety-six travelling preachers, and forty-three thousand two hundred and sixty-two members in the M. E. Church in these United States: when he ceased his labours, she numbered eight hundred and fifty-two thousand nine hundred and eighteen members, and three thousand eight hundred and sixty-five travelling preachers; among the latter, two of his own sons. What has God wrought through the instrumentality of our deceased brother, and his cotemporaries!

As a man, brother Roszel possessed singular courage, fortitude, constancy, and benevolence. As a preacher, he was bold and uncompromising in declaring the whole counsel of God: blessed with a strong mind, a ready elocution, and great physical power, he was well qualified to do the work of a Methodist travelling preacher. How faithfully and effectually he accomplished it thousands yet live to attest. For many years it had been his desire to hold no other relation than that of an effective man, and in this he was fully gratified, for he literally

"His labour with his life laid down,
And ceased at once to work and live."

36. James Berkley was born in the county of Fairfax, state of Virginia, May 18, 1801. He was the subject of serious awakenings when only nine or ten years of age. While in attendance upon a camp meeting near Centreville in the year 1821 these impressions were renewed and deepened. In November of the same year he united himself to the church, prior to receiving the assurance of his acceptance with God. In a few weeks after, (December,) at a prayer meeting held in the house of Mr. Alexander Waugh, in Centreville, Va., his darkness was turned into day, by the testimony of the Holy Spirit, assuring him of pardon and adoption through the precious blood of Christ.

During his residence with Mr. A. Lockwood in Alexandria, D. C., his mind was impressed, that it was his duty to preach the gospel. In 1826 he became a licensed exhorter and preacher; was recommended to the Baltimore conference and received on trial in the spring of 1827, and appointed to the Alleghany circuit. In 1828 he travelled Staunton. In 1829 and 1830 Springfield. In 1831 he located. In 1832 he was readmitted and travelled Lancaster for this and the ensuing year. In 1834 and 1835 Waynesburg circuit. In 1836 Berkley. In 1837 Hillsborough; and again located in 1838. In 1840 he was readmitted, and appointed missionary to the coloured people in Westmoreland, Va. In January, 1841, he ruptured a blood-vessel of the lungs. His health failing, he was returned as supernumerary in February of that year, and appointed to Loudoun circuit, which field of labour he never reached.

He closed his life in great peace, in Alexandria, on the 23d of April, 1841. As a man, he was of a mild and amiable disposition—kind and courteous in his manner. As a preacher, though not of brilliant talents, he was nevertheless acceptable and useful.

37. James Riley, the subject of this memoir, the son of Cornelius and Abigail Riley, was born in the year 1784, in the county of Somerset, state of Pennsylvania. He became convinced of his lost condition by nature and practice some time in the year 1804, and after seeking God with many tears and prayers for weeks, he was enabled to exercise that faith which justifies the ungodly, and obtained "a knowledge of salvation by the remission of sins."

He attached himself immediately to the Methodist E. Church; and after being fully impressed with the conviction that a dispensation of the gospel was committed unto him, and that a wo awaited him if he preached not the gospel of God, being approved by his brethren, and licensed, he entered upon the work of the travelling ministry in the Baltimore conference, in the year 1807, and had assigned to him as his first field of labour the West Wheeling circuit. From the time of his entrance into the conference (with the exception of two years) he has stood upon the Minutes as an effective man until his death, which occurred in St. Mary's county, state of Maryland.

The messenger found him with his lamp trimmed and brightly burning, waiting with calm resignation the will of his unerring Lord; and on the 28th of September, 1841, he was released from the toils and sorrows of earth, and permitted to enter upon the rest and joy of heaven.

As a man, brother R. had high and honourable feelings, and a clear and discriminating mind. As a preacher, he was always plain, forcible, and practical; and although embarrassed by an impediment in his speech, he was frequently truly eloquent and effective, commending himself to the consciences of his hearers in the sight of God. He advanced no adventurous positions, but "holding fast the form of sound words," he was an able minister of the New Testament. And now while the companions of his former labours raise upon earth the battle-shout, he is away with "the Captain of our salvation," wearing the conqueror's crown, and enjoying the victor's reward.

38. George G. Cookman was born in the year 1800, in the town of Kingston-upon-Hull, Yorkshire, England. His parents were respectable, and, being members of the Wesleyan connection, bestowed much attention on his general education, and carefully instructed him in correct moral and religious principles. He, however, during the youthful period of his life sought happiness in vain from things of earth; but finding disappointment written upon every object, he was reduced to serious reflection. At this crisis he lost a friend of his youth, whose sudden death greatly affected him, and for eight months he was melancholy and distressed. During this time he was often solicited by friends to meet in class, but declined. At length, however, he brought himself to the determination, and went, and found benefit in attending. Nine months after joining the society he found the forgiveness of his sins, through faith in Jesus Christ, and experienced the blessing of that man to whom the Lord will not impute sin. In 1821 he visited this country, on business for his father, and while here he received the impression that he ought to preach the gospel, but his determinations were not definitely formed until he returned to England. While on his voyage the vessel was overtaken by a storm, and when all appeared to be lost, then flashed across his mind the conviction that he must preach the gospel, and that too in America. In the midst of these circumstances he solemnly pledged himself to the work of the ministry. On his return hence, the local preachers' meeting, as if to confirm this call, gave him an invitation to preach, with which he complied. He was cordially received by the people, and from that period until he left his native country for the home of his adoption he possessed their entire confidence and approbation. His proposed removal to America met with the opposition of friends, and especially that of his father, who used every means in his power to detain him. He established him in business, threw around him the fascinations of a home, and bestowed on him a settlement for life. Still the calls of God and his pledge in the storm disturbed his quiet, and he finally determined to relinquish every earthly advantage; and his father at last said, "You must go, George, for I see clearly that the Spirit calls, and I must yield."

He embarked for America on the 3d of March, 1825, and landed at Philadelphia on the 16th of May. He was received as a local preacher by the Rev. Jos. Lybrand, who was then presiding elder of that district, and attached himself to St. George's station. Having served as a local preacher until the next annual conference, he was received as a travelling preacher in the Philadelphia annual conference.

He was first appointed to Kensington station. During this year he returned to England, to see his friends, and to fulfil a matrimonial engagement. He was, however, absent from his station but three months. His successive fields of labour in this conference were Lancaster circuit, New-Brunswick station, Talbot circuit, St. George's and Newark stations. In 1833 he was transferred to the Baltimore conference, in which he filled the following appointments, being in each two years, that is to say, Baltimore city, Carlisle, and Wesley chapel in Washington. During his last year in that city he was elected chaplain to the United States Senate, to which office he was re-elected in the following winter. The last appointment which he received from the conference was Alexandria. Brother C. was among the best pulpit orators. His style was nervous, and often elegant; and such was the power of his imagination that he was seldom at a loss for images of beauty, and apt illustrations. Being a man of intense feeling himself, he possessed the power of arousing the feelings of his audience. He was an able advocate of our benevolent institutions, and his assistance was eagerly sought at their annual celebrations.

Brother C. has many seals to his ministry. The thrilling and affecting appeals he was wont to make to the judgment and feelings may no more vibrate upon the ears, or sink into the hearts of crowded assemblies, but the remembrance of them will call up recollections of the man who, under God, was made the instrument of the conversion of many souls.

After an absence of fourteen years from his native country he determined to return, that he might receive the blessing of an aged father, and visit the grave of a sainted mother. A few days before he left home he said, in a conversation with his children, "Now boys, remember, if your father should sink in the ocean, his soul will go direct to the paradise of God, where you must all meet him." On the 11th of March, 1841, he embarked at New-York, in the steamship President, which has not been heard from to the present day. A profound mystery hangs over the fated ship, and we bow in submission to Him "whose ways are a great deep."

39. JOHN RICE was born in Gosport, England. He became a subject of converting grace through the instrumentality of the Methodist ministry, in Bath, aided by the prayers and godly example of a pious mother, being at the time in the sixteenth year of his age. He was successfully engaged as a sabbath school teacher for a time, then as an exhorter and local preacher; and in the year 1829 he was sent out as a teacher, or catechist, to one of the West India missions. He suffered shipwreck on the passage, escaping only with his life.

The climate of the country not agreeing with his health, he soon returned to England, and was engaged for a time as a lecturer in the promotion of the cause of the Protestant reform.

In the year 1837 brother Rice came to the United States, and was received on trial in the New-York conference, and after spending nearly three years in the New-York and New-England conferences, was transferred to the Baltimore conference in 1840, and stationed in Baltimore city, where he remained until his death, which occurred near Baltimore city, on the 9th of September, 1841, in the 37th year of his age.

As a preacher, brother Rice was eloquent, laborious, and successful—and in labours abundant. It may be said of him, "The zeal of thy house hath eaten me up." So fully was his heart in the blessed work to which God had called him, that while disease preyed upon his frame, and fevered his brain, he spake not of earthly concernments, but his thoughts were on Christ, and heaven, and the worth of immortal souls, and his tongue employed in singing, prayer, and exhortation, inviting mourners to the altar of God. On the day preceding the day of his death, attempting to raise himself in bed, and looking heavenward, he said, "O, let me go home:" his friend preventing his rising up, he submitted and said, "Well, I will go quietly and sweetly to-night," and ere the morning dawned upon his sorrowing family, and friends, and his stricken flock, he had reached the pilgrim's home in the skies, "the palace of angels and God."

Although brother Rice fell in his prime, while his sun of life and usefulness was at its meridian, yet he lived long, for

> "That life is long, which answers
> Life's great end."

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

40. Rev. WILLIAM TORBERT was born in the town of Dover, Delaware, April 30th, 1779, of respectable and religious parents of the Presbyterian persuasion. His father died when he was but two years of age. In the death of his mother, a few years later, he lost the counsel of one whose affectionate piety first taught him the fear of the Lord. Under the auspices of an uncle, James M'Clyment of Camden, Delaware, he early commenced business in that town as a merchant. During his residence in Camden, he was elected a member of the state legislature. He was awakened to a sense of his guilt, as a sinner, under a sermon preached by Rev. Laurence M'Combs, upon the impressive passage, "If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead." He immediately commenced family prayer, and in seeking God, through a severe struggle, added much fasting to his supplications, until he was comforted by a clear evidence of his acceptance through Christ, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, in Camden, in the year 1806.

After serving the church in various minor relations, he was admitted into the Philadelphia annual conference in 1810. During the thirty-one years of his itinerancy, he always retained an effective relation; never failed to attend the annual conference; travelled on a large portion of the conference territory; served as a conference steward most faithfully for more than twenty years, and was devoted to all the institutions of the church, with a zeal second to that of none. Liberal in life, he remembered the cause of missions in a bequest of two hundred dollars at his death.

In all the relations he sustained to the church, to his family, and to society in general, few, if any, have held a more pleasant position. He was an unassuming, faithful, and successful teacher, making himself all things to all men, that he might win the more to Christ. In disposition he was amiable, cheerful, and ardent, while divine grace gave lustre to every feature of his character. The faith he possessed in life was confirmed by his triumph in death. The close of his pilgrimage upon earth was accompanied by a rapture and calmness evincing the brightness of the hope he so frequently expressed, that "to die is gain." He died at his residence in Greensburg, Caroline county, Maryland, June 3d, 1841, in the sixty-third year of his age.

41. Rev. David Best. The subject of this memoir was a native of Ireland. Of his early history we possess little knowledge; but according to our best information, he remembered his Creator in the days of his youth, and joined the Wesleyan Methodist Society in the land of his nativity. When about twenty-two years of age he emigrated to this country, and in 1801 was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia annual conference, and appointed to Newburg circuit, in the state of New-York. He subsequently filled various appointments with honour to himself, and profit to the people, until in the spring of 1835 he yielded to increasing infirmities, and attained a supernumerary relation, and continued to preach as his health permitted. He was warmly attached to the doctrines and discipline of the M. E. Church, and heartily engaged with her ministers and members in spreading peace and prosperity through all her borders. He was a man of strong mind, sound judgment, and unflinching firmness in the cause of truth. As a preacher, his talents were more than ordinary, and, according to his ability, he declared the whole counsel of God. Many, we believe, will shine as stars in his crown of rejoicing, and praise the Rock of their salvation, that they were directed by his preaching to the sacrifice of Calvary. His last illness was painful and protracted, but he bore it with Christian resignation, and while happy in the love of God, shed abroad in his heart by the Holy Ghost given unto him, and exulting in the clear prospect of a glorious immortality, he met the king of terrors with fortitude and triumph; and finished his earthly career on the 23d of December, 1841, in the forty-first year of his itinerant ministry, and about the sixty-seventh year of his age, leaving an affectionate wife and seven children to mourn their loss.

42. The Rev. William Williams was born in Worcester co., Maryland, December 26th, 1786. Of the period of his conversion, and union with the M. E. Church, we are not informed. He received license to exhort in the year 1808, entered the itinerancy in 1810, and was ordained deacon in 1812. For many years brother Williams was a zealous, successful, and popular minister of the gospel. He finally located and entered upon the practice of medicine. At this period he suffered a severe domestic affliction in the death of a part of his family, which he construed into an intimation of the divine displeasure at his withdrawal from the work to which he had solemnly consecrated himself in his ordination vows. He therefore hastened to have his name again enrolled with Christ's spiritual warriors; gathered up his weapons, and went out to battle. He continued to labour diligently until the close of his earthly career. He possessed more than ordinary preaching talents, and defended with zeal and ability the doctrines and discipline of our church. He also warmly espoused the cause of temperance.

His last appointment was to Caroline circuit. Here he was soon called to witness the death of his venerable colleague. The blow destined to fall upon himself was not long delayed. He was attacked with bilious fever, of which he died September 29th, 1841, in the fifty-fifth year of his age, and thirty-second of his ministry.

In his illness he was visited by his presiding elder, who exhorted him to repose confidence in God; and assured him, that he who had ever been his friend, would sustain him in his last hour of suffering and conflict; to which he replied, while his countenance brightened with Christian joy and hope, "Brother, there is no mistake about that;" and added, "the work is done, I am ready, and am only waiting for the chariot to come along, and then I shall step in and be off."

Like the venerable patriarch, he gave direction concerning his bones, and requested that his funeral sermon should be preached from, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Thus terminated the life and labours of this servant of God. Having fought a good fight valiantly, kept the faith zealously, and finished his course triumphantly, he doubtless wears the crown in token of victory and reward.

"Like crowded forest trees, we stand,
And some are marked to fall,
The axe shall smite at God's command,
And soon will smite us all."

43. WILLIAM ALLEN was born in the year 1790, in Sussex county, Delaware. At what time he commenced a religious life is not certainly known. In the spring of 1819 he was received on probation in the Philadelphia conference, and appointed to Dorchester circuit. From that time his labours, excepting three years spent in New-Jersey and Pennsylvania, were wholly confined to the Peninsula. His last appointment was to Church Hill circuit, where after preaching but twice he was violently attacked with bilious pleurisy. It soon became evident that the hour of his dissolution was at hand. He expressed to his colleague and friends a calm confidence that he was about to achieve his last victory. The crisis came, and the gentle spirit of our beloved brother on the 28th of May, 1841, exchanged a mortal for an immortal life, in the fifty-first year of his age.

The deceased was a preacher of respectable theological attainments, but principally esteemed and beloved for the simplicity and meekness of his Christian character.

44. Brother HENDERSON was born in Newcastle county, Delaware, on the 13th of March, 1814. He embraced religion and joined the M. E. Church in 1830; in 1838 he commenced his itinerant life on Denton circuit under the presiding elder; was admitted on trial in the spring of 1839, and stationed on Church Hill circuit that year; in 1840 he travelled on Talbot circuit; he was received into full connection and ordained a deacon in 1841, and stationed on the Brandywine mission, where he remained until August; he was then removed to Caroline circuit to supply the vacancy caused by the death of brother W. Torbert. He was on the circuit but a few weeks, when he was attacked with the bilious fever; he left in the early stage of the disease and repaired to the house of his brother-in-law, Mr. Benton, in Queen Anns county, where, after an illness of nine days, he died in the triumph of faith, on the 13th of September, leaving an affectionate companion and other relations to mourn their loss.

Brother Henderson was mild in his manners, and amiable in his disposition; his conversation and deportment exemplified the sweet and peaceful spirit of the gospel, and although his early opportunities were comparatively limited, he was an acceptable and successful minister of our Lord Jesus Christ. During his illness, he exhibited the patience and submission of a Christian. Death to him had no terror. Just before his lips were closed in death, he sung the hymn, commencing "Though troubles assail, and dangers affright," &c.

He then sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, to repose until this mortal shall put on immortality; then shall be brought to pass the saying, Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his. Amen!

NEW-JERSEY CONFERENCE.

45. WILLIAM BAKER. Brother Baker died at his residence in Hope, Warren county, N. J., Sept. 30, 1841. He was a native of Connecticut, and born Oct. 9, 1801. At what period he was brought to the experience of religion we are not informed, but we have ascertained that he had been for several years a devoted and consistent member of the M. E. Church when he offered himself to the Philadelphia conference in the spring of 1831. He was then received on trial, and appointed to Haverstraw circuit. His last appointment was to Hope circuit, upon which he commenced labouring, notwithstanding his debility, and faultered not till in August, when the violence of his disease compelled him reluctantly to desist. The last sabbath in Sept. he consented to go to a distant appointment, where he preached and administered the sacrament, and returned on Tuesday to his home. That night his weakness was so increased by hemorrhage from the lungs, that the next attack of bleeding, which occurred on Wednesday night, found him unequal to the conflict, and in less than an hour he had fallen in death. The few words he was able to utter were expressive of the high confidence he reposed in the merits of Christ his Redeemer.

Brother Baker was a minister of good preaching abilities, possessing the power of exhibiting with great force and perspicuity the essential doctrines of the gospel. His piety was of the highest order. For many years he lived in the enjoyment of the blessing of perfect love; and that his possession of such enjoyment was not vain, his daily walk abundantly testified. No one ever saw him light or trifling, or indulging in any dispositions or tempers inconsistent with the Christian character. Many bright and honourable seals to his ministry were granted him among the people where he laboured; and the wife and son widowed and fatherless by this affliction, sorrow indeed, but not as those who have no hope.

46. Thomas Ware. He was for some time past the oldest travelling preacher in this country, and died in Salem, N. J., on the 11th of March, 1842.

The published Memoirs of our venerable father Ware make it unnecessary for any notice of his early history, further than that he was born at Greenwich, Cumberland county, N. J., 19th of December, 1758. He was blessed with pious parents, who succeeded in training him up in the way in which he should go. He early took an active and laborious part in the struggle of the revolution; was converted to God under the preaching of Rev. Caleb Pedicord 1780, in the twenty-third year of his age. Three years after he was called by Bishop Asbury to assist the preacher on Dover circuit in the state of Delaware. At the conference in the following spring he was received as a travelling preacher, and appointed to Kent circuit on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. On Christmas of that year he attended the conference held in Baltimore, where he witnessed the organization of the church whose doctrines and institutions he ever after was known to love with the strongest affection, and to recommend with great success.

The Memoirs referred to tell of his abundant labours in various parts of the Union and in the British provinces. For a series of years he was eminently successful, filling with honour the various appointments assigned him as assistant, preacher in charge, presiding elder, and book agent. For the last twenty years of his life he sustained either the relation of a supernumerary or superannuated member of the Philadelphia or New-Jersey conference, during which time he resided at Salem, N. J., where he continued to labour as his health and strength would allow, until called to rest from his labours and enjoy his everlasting reward. His memory is precious.

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

47. James Coleman was born in Black River township, N. J., on the 30th of October, 1766. His parents were members of the Presbyterian Church. In the year 1777 they removed over the Alleghany Mountains, and settled on the Monongahela. Here they were destitute of the means of grace, and James grew up in ignorance and sin; his religious knowledge, according to his own account, consisting mainly in some vague notions of the providence of God. About the close of the revolutionary war the gospel was brought to these frontier settlements by the Methodist ministry, and the subject of this notice became a regular hearer. He at once "received the word with joy," but when "persecution came," the blade of promise "withered away, for it had no depth of earth."

He now persuaded himself that he was one of God's elect children; grew careless, and fell into habits of dissipation. While in this fearful state he was visited by a severe sickness, which doubtless was blessed to his good; for soon after his recovery he sought and obtained pardon, and united himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Moved with compassion toward the souls of his fellow-men, he asked and received license as an exhorter. He was about this time drafted to serve in the war with the Indians; but under a full conviction that God had called him to engage in another and better warfare, he refused to comply, and in the mean time was licensed to preach. He informed the captain of this fact, who replied, "If you want to preach, you may go and preach in the army;" and subsequently sent an officer with two or three men to seize him. They found him preaching, and having heard him through, went away, molesting him no further.

In 1791 he entered the itinerant ranks, and was appointed to Ohio circuit. Subsequently he laboured several years as a missionary in Upper Canada, enduring hardships and privations various and numerous. Once, while passing up the Mohawk River, in company with two others, he was obliged to go on shore fifteen nights in succession, and build a fire to keep off the wild beasts; and food failing, he was reduced to a single cracker per day. Yet such was his zeal for the glory of God, and such his love for the souls of men, that no privations or difficulties could arrest his progress, or even damp his ardour. Though his abilities were not great, and his acquirements but limited, yet such was the peculiar unction that attended his prayers; so entirely was he a man of one aim and one business; so strong was his faith, and so tender his love; that no inconsiderable measure of success crowned his efforts; and it is confidently believed the crown upon his head will not be without many stars, and some too of the first magnitude.

It is almost needless to say of such a man, that in all the social relations of life he exhibited the most kind dispositions, and the most exemplary conduct; and that his end was peaceful and triumphant. Having been for several years on the superannuated list, and gradually failing in strength, he at length expired on the 5th of February, 1842, at his residence in Ridgefield, Fairfield county, Connecticut, in the seventy-seventh year of his age.

QUESTION 12.—WHO HAVE DIED THIS YEAR?

1. Rev. ROBERT R. ROBERTS, senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was the son of Robert and Mary Roberts; and was born in Frederick county, Md., August 2, 1778. At the age of fifteen or sixteen he was converted to God, and became a member of the M. E. Church. He was then looked upon as a youth of great promise, and all believed that God intended him for the ministry. After much conflict of mind, he preached his first sermon about Christmas, 1801, and in the spring of 1802 he was received on trial in the Baltimore conference, and appointed to labour on Carlisle circuit; 1803, Montgomery do.; 1804, Frederick do.; 1805, Chenango do.; 1806, Erie do.; 1807, Pittsburg; 1808, West Wheeling; 1809, Baltimore; 1810, Fell's Point; 1811, Alexandria, D. C.; 1812, Georgetown, D C.; 1813, Philadelphia; 1814, Philadelphia; 1815, he was appointed presiding elder of Schuylkill district, Phila. con. In 1816 he was elected one of the superintendents, and continued to bear the weighty responsibilities, and to discharge the onerous duties of this office till his death. Up to 1824 there was no provision in the Discipline for the support of a bishop's family, and he, consequently, only received during eight years' service in the episcopal office, two hundred dollars per year, and his travelling expenses. From 1820 to 1824, Bishop M'Kendree being in poor health, the whole weight of episcopal labour fell upon him and Bishop George. There were then eleven conferences, extending from Maine to Mississippi. His labours, consequently, in travelling and attending conferences, were incalculably great. But amid all his privations and toils he never complained. He was a faithful, unflinching servant of the church, who counted not his own life dear, so that he might finish his course with joy, and the ministry he had received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God.

Bishop Roberts was a man of good natural parts, and he had accumulated a rich store of various knowledge. As a preacher he was clear and forcible in the presentation of truth, and often truly eloquent. As a superintendent he was discriminating, affable, kind, and conciliating; and yet firm and decided. He visited the churches, and preached the gospel of Christ in all the states of the Union, and has left behind him much fruit of his abundant labours. He was able to attend to his great work until within a few weeks previous to his death. He departed this life at his residence in the state of Indiana, on the 26th of March, 1843. He died as he had lived, in the faith of Christ, with the certain hope of eternal life, and in love and peace with all mankind. His sanctified spirit has gone home to God, while the earthly tenement awaits in the grave the final resurrection of the just. He was eminently "a good man and full of faith and of the Holy Ghost." He has left a widow—for forty-five years the companion of his joys and sorrows—and a numerous train of spiritual children to mourn their loss, and to profit by his shining example.

NEW-ENGLAND CONFERENCE.

2. Rev. JOSEPH S. ELLIS was born in the state of New-York, but was removed in infancy to Waterbury, Conn. When fourteen years of age he professed faith in Christ, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. At twenty, while a member of the Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, Mass., he received license as a local preacher. In the year 1836, being in the twenty-fourth year of his age, he was married to Miss Henrietta Jones, of Lunenburg, who is now left a lonely widow, with two young children, to mourn the loss of an affectionate husband and a faithful parent. Having travelled for some time under the direction of the presiding elder, he was admitted as a member on trial in the New-England conference in 1837, and was stationed in Fitchburg. Health failing him, he was obliged, after closing the labours of his first appointment, to retire from the itinerant field; but after two years of unavailing effort to regain his health, anxious for usefulness, he gathered his remaining strength, reentered the field, and laboured with unabated zeal and good success to the close of life. He was readmitted into the New-England conference in 1840, was ordained deacon and stationed at Sudbury; and in 1841 in Harvard, where "he ceased at once to work and live," on the 19th of June, 1842, in the thirty-first year of his age, and in the tenth of his ministry. The piety of our departed brother was uniform and consistent; his entire deportment was an evident manifestation of unaffected humility; his ministerial labours always evinced a readiness "to do the work of an evangelist, and to make full proof of his ministry." If he excelled in any one qualification essential to an efficient gospel minister more than another, it doubtless was in an all-conquering zeal for the prosperity of the church. Afflicted with a chronic affection of the lungs during the greater portion of his ministry, he nevertheless continued to labour, to the astonishment of all who knew him—not even relinquishing his design of visiting the sacred desk till late on Saturday afternoon, though called to his rest early on sabbath morning. Brother Ellis never appeared anxious for distinction; he was always ready, even far beyond his physical strength, to stand in any place to which the duties of a gospel minister might call him, regardless of all considerations of personal reputation; yet he was not without this reward of the faithful minister, that in all his appointments he was universally respected, and greatly beloved by his people.

He died in the triumphs of faith, repeating frequently, during the last hours of his life, "All is well—glory be to God!" Thus, by a consistent life and a happy death, he left encouragement to the fond hope that he has ascended to the bliss of heaven.

MAINE CONFERENCE.

3. Rev. Asbury Caldwell. The subject of this notice was a native of Paris, Me. Being converted to God in early life, and furnishing satisfactory evidence of a divine call to the ministry, he entered the travelling connection in 1832, and continued an approved member of the Maine annual conference till his death, which occurred at Kennebunk-port on the first day of last December. He died a martyr to his work, of an affection of the lungs, induced by the severity of his labours; leaving the church, the cause of benevolence in general, the world lying in wickedness, together with a lone widow and two children, all to mourn the loss of his effective services. He was a man of great intellectual activity, and an unusual amount of extemporaneous talent: abounding in striking original illustration, and taking comprehensive views of truth, he excelled in all those native qualities which enter into the composition of an effective preacher, except in an easy elocution. His heart was formed for friendship, and expanded with benevolence; his religious feelings were eminently catholic, cordially embracing all who love our Lord Jesus Christ; he lived a witness of entire sanctification; was an able and successful minister of the New Testament, and few were ever favoured with more ecstatic views upon the bed of death. He is mysteriously summoned from the field, apparently at the opening of his usefulness, at the early age of thirty-three years.

4. Rev. Huse Dow, of the Maine conference, died May 25th, 1842, in the town of Jay, aged forty-one years. In 1834 he travelled Bethel circuit under the presiding elder, and the next year joined conference, and continued in connection with it till his death. In 1840 his health failed, and for many months his life was despaired of; but he revived and lingered till the 25th of May, 1842. He was laborious and successful. During a part of his long sickness he suffered much, but he bore it with Christian patience. He had great peace of mind, and felt that all was well. And while the church mourns the loss of a faithful labourer, a widow and four sons live to mourn the loss of a husband and a father. But we doubt not that what earth has lost heaven has gained.

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

5. Rev. Isaac Grant was born in Lenox, Berkshire county, Mass., Feb. 3, 1786, from whence his parents removed in the days of his childhood to Norwich, Chenango county, New-York; where, at the early age of fourteen years, he experienced the saving grace of the gospel. While filling the minor offices of class leader, exhorter, and local preacher, his services were both acceptable and useful. He was received on trial in the Genesee conference, 1816. His field of ministerial labour was comprised in what now constitutes the Genesee, Oneida, and Black River conferences. Being blessed with a firm and robust constitution, he was enabled to brave the rigours and endure the hardships incident to the calling of an itinerant preacher in the earlier days of Methodism; and moving forward with a zeal commensurate with his physical powers, his labours consequently, under the blessing of God, tended greatly to replenish the number of our Zion. But as this brief memoir is not designed to expatiate upon the gifts, graces, or usefulness of brother Grant, but simply to record the time and manner he came to the termination of his mortal career, it will be sufficient, perhaps, therefore, to say, his virtues, qualifications, and improvements, were duly appreciated, and his removal deeply lamented. His last appointment was made to Otego circuit, Oneida conference, August, 1840, where he continued to labour in his usual zealous manner until the latter part of winter, when he began to feel and manifest most evident symptoms of declining health. Yet such was the deep interest he felt in the cause of God, he laboured and suffered on till the last of May, when an entire prostration compelled him to relinquish the duties of his charge. Being unable to attend the ensuing conference, he sent his request for a superannuated relation. It was granted; but when the fact was communicated to him, he wept like a sorely stricken child. At the last quarterly meeting he was permitted to attend, though fully apprized of his approaching end. He bore confident testimony that, while the outward man perisheth, the inner man is renewed day by day. Two days prior to his solemn departure the writer of this imperfect sketch was with him; he was composed, and every way well sustained in the conflict. When asked if he could adopt the language of Paul, "Whether I live, or whether I die, I am the Lord's;" with an emphasis and a look expressive of heartfelt assurance he replied, "I can." He further remarked, that during his public ministration he had uniformly encouraged the Christian to believe that he would realize grace suited to his varied states of need—grace for doing or suffering, for living or dying—and that thus far he had proved the verity of this sentiment by his own experience, and still had firm trust in God for time to come. Such is the confidence and support of the faithful in the extremity of the dying hour. "Let me live the life of the righteous, and let my last end be like his." Brother Grant took his final leave of all on earth, October 19, 1841.

GENESEE CONFERENCE.

6. John Easter was born in the county of Norfolk, Eng., Sept. 21st, 1800. At the age of twenty-four he gave evidence of regeneration, and joined the Wesleyan Methodists; among whom he became a local preacher. In 1830 he emigrated to this country, and settled his family in Geneva, Ontario county. Presenting honourable testimonials of his Christian and ministerial character, he was cheerfully received into the Methodist Episcopal Church. The gentleness of his spirit, the purity of his zeal, and his fine preaching talents, soon won the esteem of our people. He was received on probation in Genesee conference 1832, and stationed at Clyde; was appointed to Canandaigua in 1833; Palmyra, 1834; Rushville, 1835 and 1836; and in 1837 to Seneca Falls, where his health failed. At the conference of 1838 he received a superannuated relation, in which he continued till summoned to his everlasting inheritance. The occasion of his death, as also of another who fell by his side, was an accidental explosion of fire-works in Geneva, 4th July, 1842. While standing a few yards from a brother's dwelling, in which he had just been familiarly conversing, he was struck in the side by a flying rocket, which fatally injured his vital functions; he expired on the morning of the 6th, having endured his agonies with distinguished fortitude and patience. The suddenness of the disaster, and the prospect of a speedy exchange of worlds, moved him to earnest prayer and retired devotion. He meekly replied to questions when proposed to him, though his spirit was so exercised in abstract devotion that he chose to talk less with man, that he might converse more freely with God. His faith in Christ was steadfast; and his hope of a glorious immortality remained unshaken. To a brother of Seneca Falls he said, "Tell my brethren at the Falls, that I die strong in the faith which I preached to them." As he entered the valley of death, observing his friends weeping about him, he gently chided them for their excessive grief; while the sufferer himself remained peaceful and resigned. About the last he said was to his heart-broken companion: fixing his eyes on her, he feebly uttered, "Happy!—happy!"

John Easter was a man of uncommon worth, a grave and useful preacher, and a Christian of the fairest example; sustaining his various relations, domestic, social, and official, in a manner at once inoffensive and consistent. Having washed his robe in the blood of the Lamb, he met and conquered "the last enemy;" and having turned many to righteousness, he shines resplendent in heaven, as the sun in the firmament, and as the stars, for ever and ever. May the smile of Jehovah rest upon his lonely widow and his seven orphans!

NORTH OHIO CONFERENCE.

7. J. O. Connoway.—No memoir.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

8. Peter O. Meeks was born on the 16th day of April, 1815. He embraced religion in the year 1834. He passed several years at the Augusta College, where he graduated with credit to himself and to his instructers. He joined the Kentucky conference, on trial, at Danville, in 1838, and was appointed to the Fleming circuit, in company with father Ward. In 1839 he was, in connection with Richard Deering, appointed to Danville and Harrodsburg. At the conference held at Bardstown in 1840 he was ordained a deacon, and appointed to the Barboursville circuit. In 1841 he was appointed to Versailles, from which it pleased God to call him away by death.

Brother Meeks was a young man of sprightly mind. He was courteous and kind in his intercourse with society; zealous and devoted as a Christian; and diligent and promising as a preacher of the gospel.

9. Edwin Roberts was born on the 31st of January, 1816, and converted to God July 6th, 1835. He was admitted on trial into the Kentucky conference in the fall of 1836, and appointed to the Hopkinsville circuit. In 1837 he was appointed in charge of the Morganfield circuit; and in the autumn of 1838, at the conference held in Danville, he was ordained deacon, and reappointed to the same work. In 1839 he was appointed to Versailles, where he travelled two years. At the Maysville conference, in 1841, he was appointed to Richmond, where he closed his short, but very useful life. Brother Roberts was full of promise to the church. He was talented, zealous, popular, persevering, and extensively useful.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

10. The Rev. Samuel H. Thompson was born in Westmoreland county, Pa., March 16th, 1786, and carefully instructed in the principles of the Christian religion according to the views of the Presbyterian Church; for which body of Christians he entertained, to the close of his life, the most sincere and tender affection. In 1804 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church; and two years after, while engaged in secret devotion, it pleased God to give him an evidence of the pardon of his sins; and shortly after, during family prayer, he obtained a clear and abiding evidence of the regeneration of his nature. He joined the travelling connection at the western conference held in Cincinnati in 1809. From this time until 1836, a period of twenty-seven years, in the capacity of a junior preacher, preacher in charge, or presiding elder, his field of labour in successive years embraced large portions of the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and the whole of the territories of Missouri and Illinois. In the whole of this vast region he first assisted to plant the principles of the gospel, and, afterward, continued to cultivate them with the most assiduous labour; his prayers and his tears continually ascending as a memorial in their behalf before God:—with how much effect, thousands in heaven are uniting their testimony with tens of thousands who are still living witnesses upon earth of the zeal and fidelity with which he preached the faith of the gospel.

Under the labours and exposures incident to the life of an itinerant preacher in this widely-extended and thinly-settled region his health gradually gave way, and in the conference of 1836 he was compelled to assume a relation to the church involving less responsibility and labour. For the next four years, as a supernumerary or a superannuated preacher, he served the church to the extent of his ability in the stations of Alton, Vandalia, Hillsboro', and Belleville. At the conference of 1840 he was again placed upon the list of effective labourers, and appointed to the Belleville station. At the annual conference of this year, while advocating, with a zeal far surpassing his strength, the claims of M'Kendree College, his health entirely gave way, and he returned home to put his house in order, and to enter upon his rest. On the 19th of March, at peace with all men, and with the most triumphant manifestation of the approbation of his Master, he closed the labours of thirty-three years in the vineyard of the Lord.

Of his eminent domestic virtues, a well-ordered family, united in the bonds of the most tender affection, are to this day living witnesses. While his zeal for the divine law, and his love for the souls of men, impelled him to express his disapprobation of every form of moral evil, and fearlessly to administer the discipline of the church, the exquisite sensibility of his own feelings made him a model of courtesy to all men, and tempered the edge of his reproof with the most affectionate tenderness.

The duty of praying with his family was never, after his marriage, omitted by him but once; and so highly did he value the privilege of uniting with them around the domestic altar, that he uniformly requested, whoever might be a visitant at his house, to permit him once a day to lead in their devotions. Eminently a man of peace himself, he breathed the peaceful spirit of Christianity everywhere around him; and especially upon his family, and upon the church in his vicinity, he impressed this characteristic mark of Christianity in a very high degree.

Full of sympathy, his generosity and hospitality abounded toward all men; but especially toward that body of men in connection with whom he had suffered so much in the cause of their common Master. In his last illness his mind was frequently oppressed with anxiety about the widow and orphans whom he was soon to leave behind him; but, a few days before his death, God was pleased to give him such a view of the heavenly world as filled his soul with joy unspeakable and full of glory, and he continued until his death glorying in tribulation, and rejoicing in the hope of the glory of God.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

11. William B. Christie was born in Wilmington, Clermont county, Ohio, September 2d, 1803. In youth he embraced religion, and joined the Meth. E. Church. From a private member he regularly graduated to the Christian ministry, and was admitted into the travelling connection in the year 1825, and appointed to Union circuit. During his ministerial life he received from the authorities of the church the following appointments, in order:—In 1825, Union circuit; 1826, Piqua; 1827, Zanesville station; 1828, Zanesville circuit; 1829, Cincinnati; 1830, Lebanon; 1831 and 1832, Wooster district; 1833, Lebanon district; 1834, Wesley Chapel, Cincinnati; 1835–1838, Cincinnati district; 1839 and 1840, Urbana station. In these several and important fields of labour he sustained the dignity of the church; and by his zeal and fidelity, under God, proved a blessing to his charges, and eminently promoted the interests of the Redeemer's kingdom. That his labours were those of an accredited ambassador of Christ is attested by thousands who were honoured with his ministry, and numerous witnesses of the power of Christ to save, raised up through his instrumentality. That he possessed the affections and confidence of his companions in toil is evident from the fact that, by the suffrages of his brethren, he was thrice honoured with a seat in the General Conference; in which body he laboured to promote the interests of the church with his accustomed ability.

As a man, brother Christie was ingenuous, guileless, magnanimous, and ardent in affection. Dignified in deportment, and courteous in his manners, he won the affections of all with whom he had intercourse. His mental endowments were of a high order; and having in youth enjoyed the advantages of a college life at Augusta, under the presidency of the Rev. John P. Finley, he received that training, and acquired those elements and principles, which qualified him for the attainment of those stores of knowledge which in after-life were so richly developed during his ministerial career. Hence, as a divine, it has been justly remarked, that he had few equals, if any superiors. Profoundly versed in the science of theology and ecclesiastical polity, in the pulpit and on the conference floor, he handled his subjects with a power and skill that rarely failed of success. But the pulpit, pre-eminently, was the theatre of his greatness, and the sufferings of Christ the glory of his theme. Calm and collected in his introduction, cautious in the statement of his positions, cogent in his reasonings, apposite in his illustrations, and appropriate in his Scriptural quotations, he carried conviction to the understandings of his audience; and then rising with the inspiration of his subject, with the fervour and pathos of his appeals, under the glowings of the Spirit of God, he forced the citadel of the hearts of his hearers, and made them feel the power of the gospel of Christ. Through him the violated law of God announced its threatened penalty, the claims of divine justice were vindicated, until the sinner, self-condemned, was carried to the cross of Jesus, and offered and pressed for his acceptance, by faith in the blood of atonement, a present, free, and full salvation. And doubtless many through his instrumentality were saved, and will shine as stars in his crown of rejoicing for ever and ever. But this bright luminary in the moral heavens was destined to be quenched ere it had travelled the whole length of the ordinary path of human life.

In the early part of brother Christie's ministerial life his health failed him, owing to his abundant labours, and his untiring assiduity in the pursuit of useful knowledge. Hence, for many years, he suffered much affliction, and almost continual pain; but did not intermit his labours until he was absolutely compelled to desist from his work, and repair to the bosom of his friends, to close his earthly career. For this purpose he left his station at Urbana, and went to the city of Cincinnati. But when he reached

Dr. Wright's, in Cincinnati, on Tuesday evening, he was much prostrated, took his bed, and declined more rapidly than before. The next morning after he arrived, two ministerial brethren called to see him. His face was flushed with fever, and his system wasted almost to a shadow. He was much affected at the interview, and said his nerves were shattered, but his confidence in God was unshaken: he knew in whom he had believed: he had not preached an unknown, or unfelt Saviour, and the gospel which he had long preached to others was then his consolation. The calls of his numerous friends so taxed his sympathy and his strength, that his physicians found it requisite to lay some restriction on them, or suffer him to be much hastened in his departure; and with all the care that could be taken by physicians and friends, he did not last long.

Among the numerous incidents indicating the state of his mind during the last hours of his earthly existence, only a few will be recited.

Saturday morning, a little after midnight, he requested a brother, who was sitting with him, to call Dr. Wright, who came in and found him rapidly sinking. He asked brother C. if he felt worse? His reply was, that he had great difficulty of breathing. After some means of temporary relief had been administered, he asked the doctor, "What does this mean?" In reply, the doctor inquired if he would like to see some of his friends? Brother C. then said, "Why do you ask the question? Do you think I am pretty near home?" On being informed that he was undoubtedly worse, he looked round upon his wife and friends, calm and collected, and said, "I am not alarmed. I am not afraid to die." Extending and looking at his hands, he remarked, "Jesus, with his bleeding hands, will not thrust me away." Next, he took his two little sons, embraced and commended them to God. Soon after this, brother Sehon, having been sent for, entered his room, to whom he extended his hand, and with a countenance bright with hope, said, "Brother Sehon, I am almost home." After exchanging a few words, he requested brother S. to pray; and during the prayer he appeared to be perfectly happy. This over, he beckoned brother S. to his bed, and by him sent the following message: "Tell my brethren at the conference, if they think my name worthy of being mentioned, that I have not preached an unknown and an unfelt Christ. Tell them that though unworthy and unfaithful, that gospel which I have preached to others now sustains me. Tell the preachers to preach Christ and him crucified. Tell them my only hope, my only foundation, is in the blood of sprinkling. Precious blood! O the fulness, the sweetness, the richness of that fountain!" After praising God for some time, he turned his eyes on his weeping companion, and made some reference to his temporalities, but instantly observed, they were small matters, little things; assuring her that God would provide for her and his little children. About two o'clock Bishop Morris arrived, and found him bolstered up in his bed, covered with the sweat of death, and much exhausted by the efforts he had made to speak, as above described. He, however, reached out his hand, and said distinctly, "I am almost home. I feel that God is good to me, and that Jesus Christ is my salvation." No question was asked him; and being exhausted, he desisted from speaking for a while, and then, looking at his distressed wife, we understood him to say, "Jesus is precious." When unable to articulate, he often lifted his cold hand in token of victory; and again, as though anxious to make us understand his meaning, he raised his hand high above his head, and waved it in triumph. After some time, he raised both hands at once, and extended them before him as if just rising on "the wings of love and arms of faith;" and then, in an animating manner, brought his hands together, triumphing over death, his last enemy. At that time we supposed he would speak no more; for when his companion desired to hear his voice once more on earth, he could only look at her and point his finger toward heaven. However, not long before his exit, he raised his hand high, and brother S. asked him if he wanted any thing? He shook his head. Brother S. then asked him if it was power and glory? His countenance brightened up, while he nodded his head affirmatively, and his strength returning to him, he shouted aloud, clapping his hands and giving glory to God. The same peculiarity of manner, form of expression, and even gesture, which marked his pulpit and altar performances, were strikingly exhibited in his closing scene. To the last he seemed to be conscious and triumphant. About seven o'clock, Saturday morning, March 26th, 1842, without a sigh or groan, his deathless spirit passed in peace and triumph from earth, to appear before the presence of God with exceeding joy. The overwhelming crowd of all classes of people that thronged to his funeral at Wesley Chapel, and attended his remains to their last resting place on earth, afforded abundant evidence of the estimate they placed upon his character.

12. Rev. Isaac C. Hunter, the subject of this memoir, was a native of Pennsylvania, born in Bellefonte, Centre county, August 30, 1798. In early life the duties and importance of religion were inculcated on his mind by pious parents, and he was brought to seek salvation by faith in his nineteenth year, which he soon found to his inexpressible joy. Not long after he felt his mind impressed that a dispensation of the gospel was committed to him; and after a severe conflict of mind he consented to devote himself to his holy and high calling, and was admitted on trial at the annual conference held in Cincinnati, August 7, 1819, and appointed to Beaver circuit. After two years' probation he was approved of by the conference, admitted into full connection, and ordained deacon; and at the end of four years he was ordained elder; both of which offices he filled with dignity and usefulness. He received twenty-three appointments to different stations, and for years was a successful presiding elder, and had the confidence and esteem of the ministry and membership with whom he laboured, and to which he belonged. Brother Hunter was blessed with a strong and vigorous mind, which he did not fail to cultivate. His studies were principally confined to the Bible, and such books as tend to the love and knowledge of God, and therefore his preaching was not with the enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and power, that the faith of his hearers should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God. He was possessed with great firmness of purpose and courage; and his integrity was unyielding. He was openly honest and manly. He disdained hypocrisy and intrigue, and was a firm and constant friend. His zeal for the cause of God burned like an even flame, and was exhibited in his untiring and indefatigable labours as a minister of Christ Jesus. He endeared himself to all committed to his care, by his faithfulness as a pastor, and thousands will bless God in eternity for the benefits received through his instrumentality. God honoured him in life with success in his labours, and with triumph in his death: but he is no more—for the Lord hath taken him, and hath left the church shrouded in mourning, and his widow and orphan children bathed in tears. In May he was seized with a violent cold, which produced an inflammation on his lungs, and on the 27th of June terminated in death. During his illness he was patient and happy. Although his afflictions were great, yet grace sustained him; and when the closing scene was nigh, and the lamp of life was flickering in its socket, and his weeping friends stood and gazed on the dissolution of the earthly house, he beheld a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. His face was illuminated with a heavenly smile, and his eyes, even in death, sparkled with joy; and with the triumphant shout of victory he bid adieu to all below, and now, with all the sanctified, enjoys an endless rest.

MISSOURI CONFERENCE.

13. William Johnson was born in Nelson county, Virginia, February 2d, 1805, and became a subject of the converting grace of God at a camp meeting held at Salem meeting-house, in the above-named county, in the nineteenth year of his age. In the fall of 1825 he emigrated with his parents to Missouri. In the spring of 1828 he was licensed to preach, and employed by the presiding elder on Buffalo circuit; and in the fall of the same year was received into the Missouri conference on trial, and appointed to Lamine circuit. In 1829 he was appointed to New-Madrid circuit. In the fall of 1830 he was ordained deacon, and appointed to labour among the Indians on the Arkansas river; and he continued to labour among the Arkansas, Delaware, Shawnee, and other Indians, until his death, which took place on the 8th day of last April, at the Indian Manual Labour School. His disease was pneumonia, or a species of pleurisy. He was first attacked in February, and became convalescent; but venturing out too soon on the labours of his mission, he took a relapse, which accomplished the work of death in about ten days. He had the best medical attention the country afforded; but all that could be done was unavailing. He was buried at the institution where he died, and his funeral sermon was preached a few weeks after at the same place by Bishop Roberts.

Brother Johnson was naturally of a calm and patient disposition; possessed much fortitude, and was constitutionally calculated to bear adversity. He was uniformly pious;—consequently, as might have been expected, he bore all his afflictions with entire composure and apparent resignation. His sufferings were great; but so firm was his hope in Christ, so unshaken his confidence in God, and so bright his prospects of heaven, that death had no terrors to him. He gave the most satisfactory evidence that there was not a doubt of his acceptance with God. As a missionary, in the true sense of the word, he had no superior; as a Christian, he was consistent and uniform; as a husband and father, he was all that is expressed in those endearing titles; and as a gentleman and a friend, he was beloved by all who knew him. In his death his family, the missionary cause, and the church have sustained a great loss. But while we lament the loss of our brother, we rejoice to know that our separation is not an eternal one;—he has only gone before us to his reward; and we expect that, when our work is done, we shall again unite with him around the throne of God.

TENNESSE CONFERENCE.

15. Rev. Elisha I. Dodson, son of Mr. Chas. Dodson, was born in Stokes county, N. C., 31st March, 1788, from whence his father removed to Kentucky while the subject of this memoir was quite young. His parents were Calvinistic in their religious views, and under this influence he was brought up. When about twenty-one years of age he attended a camp meeting, where he was awakened and converted, and shortly afterward he became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. At about the age of thirty he obtained license to preach the gospel, and remained a local preacher ten years, during which time he removed to Madison county, Ala. In the fall of 1828 he was received on trial as a travelling preacher by the Tennessee annual conference, and appointed to the Lawrence circuit; and was reappointed to the same circuit in 1829; appointed to the Madison circuit in 1830; in 1831 to Jackson circuit; in 1832 and 1833 to Nashville circuit; in 1834 and 1835 to Stone's River circuit. In 1836 he located; was readmitted in 1837, and appointed to Rock Creek circuit; was reappointed to the same circuit in 1838; in 1839 to Duck River circuit; in 1840 to Lincoln circuit; and in the fall of 1841 he was appointed to the Bedford circuit, where he ended his labours. His death was occasioned by a violent attack of congestive fever. When told that his dissolution was near, he replied, "Good is the will of the Lord, for I am prepared to live or die. For me to die is gain, and to live is Christ: nevertheless, let the will of the Lord be done." Like a veteran soldier of the cross, he died full of faith and hope, July 29, 1842, in the fifty-fourth year of his age, beloved by the church, and lamented by a bereaved wife and family.

Brother Dodson was an able, zealous, and successful minister of the gospel. He preached in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. He was sound and lucid in reasoning; fervent, persuasive, and powerful in his appeals; and was the honoured instrument of winning many souls to Christ. In the social circle, his amiability and cheerfulness won for him the esteem of all. But he is no longer with us, for God hath taken him.

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

17. Junius W. Jackson was born in Randolph county, state of North Carolina, of respectable parents. He entered the work of the ministry in the travelling connection in the year 1838, and was that year sent to Portsmouth and Ocracoke. The following year he was sent to Mattamuskeet circuit, and after serving out his probation, was, at the ensuing conference, admitted into full connection, ordained deacon, and sent to the Topsail circuit, where he laboured usefully to the church. At the conference in 1840 he was sent to the Franklin circuit. At the ensuing conference, having travelled four years, he was elected to the office of elder in the church, and appointed to the Alleghany mission; where, early in the spring of 1842, he closed his ministerial labours, and, as we humbly trust, went to his reward.

Brother Jackson was a good young man, possessed of a strong constitution, of vigorous intellect, which, although in early life undisciplined, and almost uncultivated, gave indications of powerful grasp and comprehension so soon as a favourable opportunity was offered for its development. During his short connection with this conference, few preachers have gained more rapidly or largely on the feelings and affections of its members—his manner and carriage being always courteous, kind, and conciliatory. Had he been spared to the church, we doubt not brother Jackson would have been an efficient and successful labourer in the vineyard of his Master. But it has pleased God to call him to his reward in the midst of his years and prospects of usefulness. The little conversation held with him during his short illness satisfied his brethren that, while he felt pained to leave them, and the appropriate work to which God had called him, he was not unfurnished for the higher employments and felicities of a better world. God has taken him—we shall soon follow—may we be prepared to meet him!

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

19. Alexander M. Whitney, the subject of this notice, was born of respectable parents, in Adams county, Mi., January 19th, 1817. He was reared in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. While a youth, he was sent to Augusta College, where he received a good English education. He was exemplary in his moral deportment from childhood. At the age of eighteen he was awakened to a sense of his sinfulness, and, as a seeker of salvation, united with the Methodist E. Church in Fayette, Jefferson county, to which place his father had removed. His convictions for sin were accompanied with a conviction that he was set apart by the Holy Spirit for the work of the ministry. On this subject the adversary thrust sore at him; now tempting him to believe that he could never be converted unless he actually preached, and anon suggesting that the whole of his concern on the subject of religion was merely human or diabolical influence. Though one of the most diffident young men that ever lived, he finally opened his mind to his brethren. He was encouraged and strengthened until he obtained the satisfactory evidence of sins forgiven. He soon resolved to obey the heavenly calling, now more strongly impressed upon his heart. If ever man entered upon the duties of the sacred office with fear and much trembling, it was Alexander M. Whitney.

He was admitted on trial in the Mississippi conference in the fall of 1838, and appointed to the Madison circuit; 1839, Louisville; 1840, Monroe; 1841, Chicot. Here he finished his course. He preached on sabbath at Cheneyville; while in the pulpit was taken ill, closed his sermon abruptly, and went to the house of his kind friend, John Dunwody, Esq., (the friend of all good men, especially Methodist preachers.) Here he received the attention which Christianity ever prompts. His disease was an insidious congestive fever. He was thought in but little danger by his friends, but constantly expressed the conviction that he should not recover. On the fifth day, which was the 5th of October, 1842, he expressed great comfort in listening to sister Dunwody read the Holy Scriptures. With her he had conversed a short time before on what was the most desirable frame of mind to die in. He said, he preferred the frame of prayer rather than praise. Soon after the reading the Scriptures just referred to, he requested all present to join him in prayer. He himself commenced, and with unwonted appropriateness, and unusual energy, he prayed for some ten or fifteen minutes in a tone quite as loud as usual. In his prayer he earnestly besought his heavenly Father to give him dying grace. He closed, and said, Amen. He then asked his physician if he considered him in full possession of his faculties, who answered, Certainly. He then expressed gratitude to God, asked sister D. if she recollected their late conversation, requested that his parents should be written to, and almost immediately fell asleep in the arms of his Saviour.

Brother Whitney was considered a very pious young man, of improving talents. His brethren in the ministry deeply lament his death, and sincerely sympathize with his afflicted and bereaved parents.

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

21. John Gill Watt, the subject of this memoir, was born Feb. 25, 1778, and closed his useful life at Upperville, Va., Sept. 23, 1842.

Brother Watt embraced religion in the fourteenth or fifteenth year of his age, and at the age of twenty-seven or twenty-eight was appointed by the presiding elder, Rev. James Ward, to travel Alleghany circuit. In 1807 he was received on trial by the Baltimore annual conference, and appointed to West Wheeling circuit. The success which attended his ministrations in the various fields of labour assigned him, demonstrated that a dispensation of the gospel had been committed to him. Although called in the early part of his ministry to encounter the trials incident in those days to the life and labours of Methodist preachers, he never hesitated nor faltered; and never, till disqualified by affliction, did he shrink from the prompt performance of the most arduous duties of an itinerant Methodist preacher. His health failing, it became necessary, in 1829, to change his relation to the conference; and during the last twelve years of his life his bodily sufferings were greater than generally fall to the lot of mortals. But such was the zeal which continued to glow in his bosom, that, upon even a partial suspension of suffering, the opportunity was embraced to labour for the good of souls. Though animated with a truly catholic spirit, brother Watt was unreservedly devoted to the interests of that branch of the church of which he was a member, and often spoke of Methodism in a manner which indicated his entire confidence in its adaptation to spread Scriptural holiness throughout the world. As he hastened to the grave, death was a subject of frequent conversation; but so far from evincing any fear of it, one of his last expressions was, "No fear of death here." The nearer the termination of life approached, the more his joy in God abounded; and for a few weeks immediately preceding his death he seemed unusually happy, and his last day on earth appeared to be the happiest of his life. He adopted as his own the language of the apostle, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" And, attesting with his last breath that from him all fear of death was gone, he met the last enemy as he desired, as a man, as a Christian, and as a Christian minister.

22. John Rhodes. The subject of the following notice was born in Northampton county, Pa., Sept 17, 1783. His ancestors were of the society of Friends, and were associated with William Penn in settling Pennsylvania. When about twenty years of age he left the home of his parents, and became a resident of Carlisle, where he became acquainted with, and interested in, the Methodists. In the year 1804 or 1805 he obtained "peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ," and subsequently attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. Soon after his conversion he received the impression that he was called to the ministry, but long debated with his convictions whether he should go forth as a herald of the cross. He finally yielded to the impression that he was called of God to the work of the ministry, and was admitted into the Baltimore conference, at its session held in Georgetown, D. C., March, 1808. Immediately after his reception into the Baltimore conference he was transferred to the Philadelphia conference, and appointed to Northumberland circuit. In 1810 he was transferred to the Genesee conference, and appointed to the Seneca circuit. During the last war with Great Britain he laboured in Upper Canada, zealously and fearlessly doing the will of his Master; often exposed to great peril, and called to endure many and severe hardships in the discharge of his duties.

After peace was proclaimed between the United States and England, he returned to the Baltimore conference, in which he remained until his death. During the years of his ministry in this conference he travelled in different parts of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia, boldly and conscientiously executing the office of his ministry. In 1841, worn down with incessant labour, and greatly enfeebled, he took a superannuated relation, and retired to a small property in Milton, Pa., to spend the remainder of his days in the peace and quietness of retired life. The disease which terminated his earthly history, and which seriously affected his mind, was chronic inflammation of the brain. A short time before his death he became perfectly rational;—still felt the consolations of religion,—and died in the triumphant hope of a glorious immortality, Jan. 13, 1843, in the sixtieth year of his age.

23. Joseph Parker was born in Lancaster county, Pa., April 18, 1811, and died at Newport, Perry county, July 29, 1842. Brother Parker returned home ill from Millerstown, where he had been attending a quarterly meeting, and at which he was attacked with bilious remittent fever on the 23d of July. No serious apprehensions were entertained, however, as to the issue of his disease, until Thursday, the 28th. He then grew worse, and began to exhibit evident symptoms of apoplexy; and about three o'clock on Friday morning, the 29th, he was seized with a paroxysm that terminated in death. A year or two previous to his conversion, brother Parker's parents removed to Carlisle, Pa., where he experienced a change of heart in the nineteenth year of his age. At the Baltimore annual conference held at Winchester, Va., in 1835, he was received on trial, and appointed to Shrewsbury circuit. His ministrations in this, and every subsequent field of labour which he occupied, were acceptable and useful. The latter part of his life was marked with great success in his labours. For fifteen months immediately preceding his death he toiled in Bloomfield circuit, in the midst of a constant revival; during the progress of which a very large accession was made to the membership of the church.

The genuineness of the gracious change wrought in his soul at his conversion was manifested in the uniform purity of a consistent life. One who knew him well has said of him, "Never did I witness more Christian perfection than was exhibited in the life of Mr. Parker." Naturally diffident and distrustful of his own abilities, our deceased brother never attempted in his public ministrations either to "soar or shine." He seemed rather to regard himself as a plain man, sent of God to preach plain truth to plain people. But although his preaching was not generally decorated with all the graces of oratory,—although he was excelled by many in the brilliancy of their pulpit performances,—yet, his sermons being deeply imbued with pure evangelical sentiment, and invested with a divine unction, he emphatically did the work of an evangelist, and made full proof of his ministry. But, alas! cut down in the vigour of manhood, our brother sleeps in death! Yet, while his body mingles its ashes with the ashes of the dead, his name and his virtues are embalmed in the hearts of the living: and, on the minds of all who had the pleasure of an acquaintance with him, he has left impressions of his moral worth, that the wasting hand of time will never obliterate.

21. Albert Baker, the subject of the following memoir, was born in the city of Baltimore, Sept. 15, 1820. From a child his mind was exercised on the subject of the Christian ministry. In January, 1835, he experienced the saving and regenerating power of religion, and thus obtained the first great qualification for the holy and momentous work upon which he subsequently entered. His opportunities, though of the most ordinary kind, by constant application, and by the efforts of a strong and commanding intellect, were successfully improved. He has left behind him remains, the monument of mind and genius in the progress of rapid development. In the spring of 1839 he was received on trial in the Baltimore annual conference, and appointed to the Bladensburg circuit, where he laboured with acceptance and usefulness. His second appointment was to St. Mary's circuit, where he was returned the second year. It was here his constitution, naturally delicate, received a shock, which rendered him susceptible to subsequent disease. At the last conference he was appointed to the Ebenezer station, Washington city, as the junior preacher. He commenced his labours with great vigour, and pursued his studies with increased diligence; but he soon sunk in his work. In the early part of July he had a bilious attack, which, falling upon a constitution shattered by previous disease, almost brought him to the grave. During his convalescence he took a cold, which fell upon his lungs, and from which he never recovered. He lingered along until the 19th of October, when, with the last effort of expiring nature, he exclaimed, "All is well;" and ceased almost at once to speak and live. Thus ended the life of this promising and interesting youth. He commenced his race early, ran it swiftly, and ended it triumphantly, in the twenty-second year of his age.

25. George L. Brown, the subject of the following notice, was born in the city of Baltimore, January, 1809,—was "born again" in Frederick city, Md., in the winter of 1830. He was received on trial in the Baltimore annual conference in 1835. From the time he was admitted on trial, until the spring of 1841, when he was compelled for the want of health to take a supernumerary relation, he was a faithful, useful, and acceptable minister of "the glorious gospel of the blessed God." Early in the conference year of 1841, his health having improved, he re-entered the active service, by filling a vacancy which had occurred on the Lancaster circuit. To this field of labour he was returned at the last conference. Here his ministry was appreciated, and rendered a blessing to many. His talents as a preacher were useful,—his piety, as a Christian, deep,—his spirit truly amiable; and, as a man, greatly beloved in all the fields of his labours. But he has closed his work. He was called suddenly from labour to reward: but, unexpectedly as was the call, he was ready for the summons. Death, deprived of his sting, had no terrors. When informed he must die, he calmly replied, "The Lord will do what is right." His illness, which was of but two weeks' continuance, was borne with patience, and with entire submission to the will of God. In this state of mind he left a world of sorrow for the spirit world of glory. His dying hour was a glorious hour;—his dying hour brought glory to his God.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

26. Rev. George Wooley, the subject of this memoir, was born in Monmouth county, N. J., on the 4th of May, 1768,—embraced religion in 1791,—entered the itinerancy in the Philadelphia conference in 1803, and continued to travel extensively in the states of New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, and Virginia, until 1833; when, in consequence of bodily affliction, he obtained a supernumerary relation, and laboured, as his health permitted, on Nottingham circuit, where his family resided. In 1840, on account of increasing debility, he was reluctantly compelled to lay aside his itinerant armour, and retire to the superannuated ranks. As a minister, he was faithful and zealous; and was, therefore, made instrumental in doing much good. Many, brought to a knowledge of salvation through the gospel that he preached, will shine as the brightness of the firmament, and as the stars for ever and ever. For more than half a century he was an experimental believer in Christ, and in all his deportment maintained an unblemished character. In proof of the high estimation in which he was held by his brethren in the ministry, he was at different times elected a representative to the General Conference, where his influence, counsel, and talents, were employed for the general prosperity and government of the church. In the walks of private life his virtues shone with peculiar lustre. Possessing a mild and cheerful disposition, he was an ornament to the social circle; while his extensive experience and genuine piety rendered his conversation interesting and profitable. As a husband and father, he was tender and affectionate, and as a friend, warm-hearted and faithful. For some time previous to his decease he laboured under a paralytic affection, which, toward the close of his career, almost entirely disabled him; but receiving constant communications of divine grace, he rejoiced in hope of a glorious immortality. The "gospel of the kingdom," which he so long and faithfully preached to others, was his own solace in the decline of life. A part of the last night of his earthly existence was spent in religious conversation with a Christian friend, and in listening to the word of God, which he desired should be read to him; and, without a lingering groan, he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, on the 1st of November, 1842, in the seventy-fifth year of his age; leaving the consoling assurance that he is gone to the church triumphant, to mingle with those happy spirits around the throne, who "washed their robes, and made them white, in the blood of the Lamb." In view, therefore, of the circumstances connected with the life and death of this good and faithful servant of Christ, we may well exclaim, in the language of inspiration, "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."

27. Rev. John Quinby, the subject of this brief notice, departed this life October 13, 1842. Of his age, and the time of his conversion to God, we have no information. In 1835 he began the work of the ministry as a local preacher on Radnor circuit. In the spring of 1838 he was received on probation in the Philadelphia annual conference, and appointed to Cambridge circuit. In 1839, by the earnest request of the people, he was reappointed to the same field of labour. At the conference of 1840 he was appointed to Dorchester. In 1841 he travelled alone on Millington circuit, Kent county, Md.; where he was reappointed in 1842. While earnestly engaged in the duties of his calling, and cheered by the prospect of an extensive revival, he was suddenly arrested by the hand of disease. A violent congestive fever, of a malignant type, admonished him that his work was done. But his soul was unmoved. He received the intelligence with the calm fortitude of one who has nothing to fear in all the associations of the parting hour. As his end drew nigh, though his sufferings were unspeakably severe, his consolations abounded yet more and more. A few hours before his departure one of his brethren desired to know of him whether he now relied with unshaken confidence on the power of that gospel which he had preached to others, as the only hope of lost sinners. He replied, with great firmness, "I do." And in this state of mind, now tranquil, and now rejoicing with exceeding joy, he answered the call of the Beloved, and left his weeping charge, in sure and certain hope of a glorious resurrection, and everlasting life.

Our departed brother was a man of solid understanding and deep piety. He laboured after personal holiness, as the best qualification for his work; and was, therefore, a judicious and successful minister of the new covenant.

NEW-JERSEY CONFERENCE.

28. James Moore died on the 11th of May, 1842, in the eighty-second year of his age. He was born in the county Tyrone, Ireland, in the year 1760. Of his early life we have simply the information that he joined the Methodist Society in 1786; that he emigrated to the United Sates in 1792, and joined the Philadelphia conference as an itinerant preacher in 1794.

During the forty-eight years which ensued, his faithfulness and devotion to the ministry which he had "received of the Lord Jesus," rendered him a blessing to the thousands whom he served in the gospel.

Although as a preacher his talents were moderate, yet the peculiar gift of exhortation which he possessed, and the unusual unction which accompanied his communications, placed him among the most acceptable and useful ministers of the age.

His personal experience in the deep things of God was such as to hallow all his words and actions, and to leave upon the minds of all with whom he associated an abiding impression of the excellence of religion. Of him it may be emphatically said, His conversation was in heaven; and so guileless and holy was his life, that he was venerated by saint and sinner.

On his way to attend the last session of the New-Jersey conference he was arrested by a fatal disease, the bilious pleurisy. He had barely strength to reach his old home, the residence of Mr. James Rogers, of Medford, Burlington county, where he rapidly declined. He was often entreated to lie down during the day, but he steadfastly refused while he had strength to sit or walk, saying, "I have not lain down during the day for fifty years, and cannot think of indulging so indolent a habit until compelled."

It cost him a struggle of feeling to relinquish the hope of attending the conference, never having missed a session during the whole period of his ministry. But when informed that he could not survive, he evinced a willingness to depart and be with Christ. The last hours of our venerated father Moore were such as we could have anticipated. When aroused from the weakness and stupor of approaching death, he exclaimed, "Jesus is with me all the time, nigh at hand to help me whenever I call upon him." He truly died the death of the righteous, and his end was peace. We may now say, as he used to sing,—

"Happy soul, thy days are ended,—
All thy mourning days below:
Go, by angel guards attended;
To the sight of Jesus go."

May his mantle rest upon his younger brethren!

29. Rev. John Buckley died at his residence in Bridgeton, N. J., June 28, 1842.

Brother Buckley was born in England in the year 1805, and emigrated to this country in the early part of the year 1827. He landed in New-York, and immediately repaired to the residence of his uncle, the late Mr. Wild, of Bloomfield, Essex co., N. J. Being of a serious and thoughtful disposition, he felt it to be his duty to attach himself to some branch of the church of Christ; and accordingly, in the spring of 1828, he was received by the Rev. Isaac Winner into the M. E. Church as a seeker of religion. Thus, in the proper use of the means, he sought, and soon obtained a satisfactory evidence of his adoption. Not long after this interesting event, he felt moved by the Holy Ghost to preach the gospel; and that he was not mistaken herein, the fruits of his subsequent labours abundantly testify. That he might be the better prepared for this great work, in February, 1830, he went to the Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, over which the late lamented Dr. Fisk then presided, intending to spend one year in that institution; but his health failing, he left in the following August, and returned to his uncle's in Bloomfield. In February, 1831, he was licensed to preach; and at the session of the Philadelphia conference, in April following, he was admitted on trial, and appointed to the Trenton circuit with the Rev. R. W. Petherbridge. From that time until the spring of 1838 he continued in the effective ranks, filling with acceptability and usefulness several important appointments both in the Philadelphia and New-Jersey conferences. At the session of the New-Jersey conference in 1838 he asked for and obtained a supernumerary relation, and was appointed with the Rev. J. L. Lenhart to the Mount Holly station; and although his afflictions prevented him from preaching as often, and conversing as freely, as his friends desired, yet his labours were useful, and highly acceptable. In this station brother Buckley had spent the third and fourth years of his ministry, and was eminently useful in building up the church, and in the awakening and conversion of sinners, many of whom still live to acknowledge his instrumentality in their conversion. May they be stars in the crown of his rejoicing in the day of the Lord Jesus! It was here that, in the spring of 1835, he was united in matrimony with Abigail, eldest daughter of Clayton Monroe, Esq. Near the close of the second year of his supernumerary relation, his health having improved a little, he desired to take an effective relation at the ensuing conference; for nothing, as he frequently said to the writer, was more pleasing and desirable to him than to be actively engaged in the work of the ministry; and such we doubt not was the case,—for often when prudence dictated the propriety and necessity of rest, he would lift up his voice in defence of truth, and in offering salvation to perishing sinners; but with the advice of his physician and friends he relinquished the idea, and consented to remain a supernumerary a little longer. Shortly after the conference of 1840 an opportunity offered for him to engage in business, in Bridgeton, N. J., of which he availed himself, and continued in business until a few weeks before his death. While here he had the confidence and esteem of all who knew him: his pulpit labours and private interviews were highly appreciated by the people. From the time brother Buckley closed his business he began rapidly to sink under a complication of diseases,—such as the bronchitis, dyspepsia, and consumption. He, however, with some of his friends, did not think that his end was so nigh; but when it came it found him prepared for the event. Death to him had no terror. His hold upon the atonement was firm and abiding; and while he disclaimed any merit of his own, he rejoiced in Christ as his present and all-sufficient Saviour. Brother Buckley's talents as a preacher were of a superior order. His mind was well disciplined, and but few preachers could set forth the truth more clearly and pointedly than he could. But he has gone, leaving a beloved wife and two interesting little sons to mourn their early loss. At the request of brother Buckley, his remains were carried to Mount Holly, and interred in the family burial ground of his father-in-law.

30. Rev. Daniel Fidler died at his residence in Pemberton, N. J., on the 27th of August, 1842, in the seventy-first year of his age.

Brother Fidler was a native of the state of New-Jersey. He was converted to God in the sixteenth year of his age; and, according to his own account, from that time until the day of his death he never lost the evidence of his acceptance with God. He was received on trial in the travelling connection in the year 1789, and travelled various circuits in the western and southern states for five years. In 1794 he was appointed to Nova Scotia, where he continued five or six years. After his return we find him employed as an active and laborious minister for thirty years. In the year 1830 he was induced, from the infirmities of age, and other considerations, to take a supernumerary relation. He continued, however, as his health would permit, to preach and labour with increasing zeal and acceptance till within a few months of his death. After having served the church as a faithful and accredited minister for more than half a century, he preached his last sermon sabbath evening, January 30, 1842, from Exodus xxxii, 18: "And he said, I beseech thee, show me thy glory." While the venerable man of God was elucidating this impressive text of Scripture, and especially while he contemplated the manifested and unveiled glory of God, which the faithful finally shall enjoy,

> "When the voyage of life 's at an end,
> The mortal affliction is past,"

his soul seemed to kindle into rapture, as he realized the time of his departure at hand. About this time his health began more rapidly to decline, and his mind, sympathizing considerably with his failing tenement of clay, was bewildered, which made it difficult for him sometimes to fix his thoughts for any length of time on temporal subjects; but on the subject of religion he was clear, calm, and dispassionate, up to the latest hour of his life.

The last time he met with the people of God on earth for public worship, was about four weeks previous to his death, on a quarterly meeting occasion. It was peculiarly affecting to see him as he knelt with solemn reverence at the table of the Lord, and received in his trembling hand the affecting emblems of the broken body and shed blood of his divine Redeemer. Indeed, he appeared to engage in all the religious exercises of that blessed sabbath morning with more than ordinary interest and spiritual fervour. Many of the members of the church in Pemberton will long remember the deep-toned feelings with which he spoke in the love-feast, of mercies past and present, and of his brightening prospect of a certain and glorious immortality. From this time he gradually failed until the morning of the 27th of August, when he fell asleep in Jesus.

31. Rev. Joseph B. M'Kever, the subject of this memoir, was born in the city of Philadelphia in 1811. His father was a sea captain, and this, perhaps, will explain his early desire to enter the naval service.

It was on a pleasant sabbath morning, in the spring of 1834, that he went to the Union Church, in Philadelphia, deeply concerned about his soul; and while listening to a sermon by the Rev. Charles Pitman, found "peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Evincing the essential qualifications of "a minister of the Lord Jesus Christ," he was admitted on trial in the New-Jersey conference in the spring of 1838, and appointed to the Haddonfield circuit, and subsequently to the Salem circuit, where he laboured very acceptably for two years. He was then stationed in Bloomfield, and at the expiration of one year was appointed to the Halsey-street charge, in Newark.

He entered upon his labours here with a zeal and energy which resulted in the entire prostration of his health. The last public service he ever performed was an address on the occasion of a general love-feast at Halsey-street, and it has been remarked, that had he been aware it was his last effort, it would not have been more appropriate and interesting.

His illness was supposed to be remittent fever, which entirely baffled medical skill, until it assumed the form of consumption.

It is quite evident that there were ties strongly binding brother M'Kever to earth. The interests of his family, a beloved wife, and four little children, and of his congregation at large, conspired to render life desirable; but yet so decided and complete was his resignation, that not a repining thought escaped his lips; and when told the physician could do no more for him, he meekly said, "My blessed Jesus hath done all things well."

His death was more than peaceful: it was a decided triumph:—so much so, that just at the moment he fell asleep in Jesus, a brother standing by involuntarily exclaimed, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

32. William M'Auley Ferguson, the subject of this memoir, was born in the town of Kortright, Delaware county, N. Y., on the 4th of March, 1811. He was the son of pious parents, who early instructed him in the principles of religion; but he gave no proof of a change of heart until after the death of his excellent and pious mother, in 1829, he being then in the nineteenth year of his age.

During the winter of 1830, while residing with his brother, the Rev. Samuel D. Ferguson, then stationed at the Bedford-street church, in the city of N. Y., and during a blessed revival of religion in that church, he sought and obtained the pardon of sins, and the most satisfactory evidence of the fact, in the witness of the Spirit. Soon after this he joined the M. E. Church, and such were his gifts, piety, and usefulness, that he was licensed to exhort, and afterward to preach as a local preacher. In 1833 he commenced his itinerant labours, under the direction of the presiding elder in the Hudson River district. In 1834 he was received on trial into the travelling connection, and appointed to Broome circuit; in 1835, to New-Paltz circuit; in 1836 and 1837 he travelled Sullivan circuit; in 1838, Marbletown circuit; in 1839 and 1840 he was stationed at New-Windsor; in 1841, on Sugar Loaf circuit; and in May, 1842, at the Second-street church, in the city of New-York. Here his health entirely failed. In the month of August he left the city, to visit his brother-in-law in Ghent, Columbia county, and immediately on his arrival he became extremely ill; and having consulted his medical attendant, it was found necessary for him to relinquish his charge, and all ministerial labour. This cost him a severe and painful struggle, but he was finally enabled to commit his cause into the hands of God, in humble submission, and felt no anxiety respecting his destiny.

As a man, he was amiable, prudent, and sincere. As a preacher, he possessed talents above the common grade: he was sound in doctrine, plain in manner, and irreproachable in conduct; practically exemplifying the truths he preached to others. As he approached the hour of dissolution his confidence gathered strength in his divine Saviour, and the cloud that had at first gathered around the grave, was dispersed by the brightness of the Sun of righteousness. His last words were, "I feel that my best Friend is now with me."

QUESTION 12.—WHO HAVE DIED THIS YEAR?

TROY CONFERENCE.

1. GILBERT Y. PALMER died in Pittsford, Vt., Dec. 31, 1842, aged twenty-eight years, having preached one year under the presiding elder, and between four and five years in connection with the conference. At the early age of fifteen years he entered the lists with the disciples of the Saviour, and afterward honourably wore the badge of Christian discipleship. Divine Providence and grace having put him in early training, he was creditably furnished for his subsequently allotted sphere of usefulness, in which he was highly esteemed and beloved by his brethren, and honoured with success by the great Shepherd and Bishop of souls.

His spirit was bland and open; piety deep and ardent; his zeal strong and impulsive. The fervour of his spirit, and the attendant unction of his ministrations, continued to increase till the divine summons came to release him from a watchman's care. The grace of God gave him the spirit of acquiescence and fortitude amid the severe sufferings of his final sickness, enabling him to give up his beloved family and numerous friends, and in holy hope and Christian conquest to pass through the gate of death.

2. AMOS R. RIPLEY died in Pittsford, Vt., June 17, 1842, aged thirty-four years, and for three years engaged in the work of a travelling preacher. He was mild in disposition, conciliatory in demeanour, while enlightened and ardent piety invested him with her own adornment, making him lovely and beloved. For some length of time he felt that he was solemnly called to the duties of the ministry; but the greatness of the work, the awfulness of the responsibility, together with the views entertained of his own insufficiency, made him shrink from the work, to the conceded injury of his piety. After severe mental conflicts, he tremblingly consecrated all, in obedience to the divine claim, and the great Master honoured his servant with living seals of his commission. Having been reappointed to the Charleston circuit, he commenced his journey the day the conference adjourned, and the next day was arrested by sickness, which soon closed the mortal scene. After religious counsel to his family and friends, he affectionately bade them all farewell, commended them to God, and peacefully, in the sunlight of the divine favour, passed through the valley, which opened up into the heavenly state.

PROVIDENCE CONFERENCE.

3. CALEB D. ROGERS died in Wapping, East Windsor, Conn., March 14, 1843, aged forty-four years. He obtained salvation through faith in Springfield, Mass., in his twenty-first year, and not long after was enabled to say, by blessed experience, that the blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin.

In 1823 he was admitted into the New-England conference, graduated to the full powers of the ministry, and continued to labour, as his health and circumstances would permit, in various circuits, where we trust many will long remember his ardent labours of love. In the early part of last winter he was obliged to retire from his work, as his health failed; and although he greatly desired to continue in the work, yet he submitted the matter, saying, "The will of the Lord be done, not mine." When he felt that his work was done, he called his afflicted wife and son to him, and said, "My dear wife and son, you must make up your minds to part with me, for I shall soon be with Jesus, and see him as he is, without a veil between." His sickness was of the most distressing kind, but in the midst of all he triumphed through grace; and when his voice failed, about a week before he died, the waving of his hand, the beaming of his countenance, and the tranquillity of his soul, bespoke the abounding grace. In this state of mind he fell asleep in Jesus, leaving a bereaved widow and two children to the care of the church.

Although his talents as a preacher were not above mediocrity, yet his discourses were aimed at the heart, and calculated to lead the sinner to Christ, and the believer into all the fulness of gospel salvation. He was a man of prayer: yes, he loved to pray, for the Lord gave him near access to the holy of holies, and here he found a resting-place, until he was taken to his reward.

NEW-ENGLAND CONFERENCE.

4. WILLIAM SMITH was born in Niagara, Upper Canada, on the 26th of March, 1802. He became a Christian when about twenty years of age, and joined the M. E.

Church in Canada. After serving the church as a class leader for some time, he was licensed to exhort. The two following years he spent at Cazenovia Seminary, N. Y., fitting himself for the work of the ministry; at the expiration of which time he became teacher to the Grape Island mission, where he was licensed to preach. For two years he continued successfully labouring on this mission, and in the year 1827 was admitted to the Canada conference, which he served with fidelity and acceptance during a period of eight years. Among his appointments were the responsible stations of Brockville, Kingston, and Toronto.

In October, 1831, he married the daughter of the Hon. Able Bliss, of Wilbraham, Mass., and in 1835 he removed to New-England, and preached at Springfield, under the direction of the Rev. Joseph A. Merrill. The next year he was received into the New-England conference, and was stationed at Williamsburg. He subsequently supplied Westfield, Charlestown, Lynn Wood End, and Church-street, Boston. While in the latter charge he was seized with the small pox, which, joining with the erysipelas, hurried him to the grave in thirteen days. Though agonized by acute and unremitted sufferings, he nevertheless enjoyed great peace. He bore his affliction with a fortitude worthy of a Christian. His last intelligible expression was, "God's will be done." With holy serenity and manly triumph he expired at half past two o'clock, P. M., on the 30th of March, 1843, having lived a few days over forty-one years. Brother Smith left a widow and one son to cherish his memory, and to mourn their loss.

William Smith was a good man, the possessor of a deep and eminently practical piety. Benevolence, faithfulness, and conscientiousness were among the prominent traits of his character. His talents were rather solid than showy, and were more appreciated where he was best known; and his whole soul was always engaged in the duties of the Christian ministry. In doing the work of a pastor he shone pre-eminently bright. Viewing him both as a man and a minister, it may be truly said, that "he was a faithful man, and feared God above many."

PITTSBURG CONFERENCE.

5. George L. Sisson was born in Fairfax county, Va., January 5th, 1811. In 1813 his father removed to Ohio county, Va., where brother Sisson spent his youthful days. During his early life he was not favoured with that pious training so eminently calculated to win the soul to God, and give the impress of holiness to after life, as his parents were not, during that period, professors of religion. Seventeen years of his life were spent without a knowledge of God; but about this time, by reading the Holy Scriptures, he was brought to feel himself a sinner, and as such was exposed to the wrath of God. Under these convictions his delight was to read the word of the Lord, especially those parts of the sacred history which brought to his view the sorrows and death of the Son of God. Often, to use his own language, did he read over the history of God's amazing love to sinners in the death of Christ, until his cheeks were suffused with tears, and his heart was melted into the deepest sorrow and contrition.

Brother Sisson was converted to God in January, 1829, under the ministry of brother Joshua Monroe; and in that conversion obtained a clear and indubitable evidence that he was made an heir of God, and a joint heir with Jesus Christ. He immediately, from that time, by the consent of his parents, introduced family worship in the house of his father, and it was not long until he rejoiced in the conversion of the whole family. He was soon deeply impressed that it was his duty to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ to perishing sinners; and after many anxieties and ardent prayers to know the will of the Lord, he was licensed to preach, and recommended to travel in the Pittsburg conference, into which he was admitted in 1833. He was this year appointed to Connellsville circuit, on which he laboured in connection with brothers John White and W. Kenney. In 1834 he laboured on the Braddocksfield circuit; in 1835 on Burgettstown; in 1836, again on Connellsville circuit. The two following years he laboured on Chartiers circuit; at the close of which, his health having suffered by the labours of his circuit, he asked and received a supernumerary relation. The following year he was appointed to Birmingham station, in which he laboured with usefulness for two years. From this station he received an appointment to West Newton circuit; upon the labours of which he entered with his usual zeal and diligence, and prosecuted them successfully, until the insidious workings of a fatal consumption drove him from the walls of Zion.

He sought with his little family the quiet and repose of his father's house; and there, in the home of his youth, in the same dwelling in which from his lips first went up to the throne of God the voice of prayer and thanksgiving;—there, surrounded by the parents, the brothers and sisters first brought to God by his instrumentality, he finished his course in the full triumphs of that faith which he had successfully preached to others, on the first day of April, 1843, in the thirty-second year of his age.

Brother Sisson was emphatically the humble and devout Christian. Kind and affable in his disposition and manners, he won the lasting regard of all with whom he had intercourse. In all the walks and associations of life he exhibited in an eminent degree the virtues which at once make and adorn the Christian. As a minister, he was faithful, zealous, and successful. With talents of a respectable order, there was blended in him an aptitude to win, which, under the influence of no small degree of the holy anointing, made him a successful minister of Jesus Christ; and though his race was short, he had many seals to his ministry, which will be stars in his crown of rejoicing in the day of the Lord.

Our young and beloved brother has passed away. He stands no longer on the walls of Zion to lift up his voice in the shout of battle, or to mingle in the glorious strife which still engages his fathers and brethren. But he fell at his post, with the shout of victory on his lips, and has gone to join the song of redemption in heaven. In his life he exemplified the truth and purity of Christianity, and in his death he gave proof of its power to save to the uttermost.

MAINE CONFERENCE.

6. John Simpson, of the Maine annual conference, died in peace at his residence in Alfred, Me., May 7th, 1843, in his thirty-second year. He was born in the town of Taghkanick, in the state of New-York. At the age of twenty he sought and found the Lord Jesus. He was received into the New-York conference in 1836, and from thence transferred the same year to this conference, in which he remained a worthy member till he was called to his reward.

Brother Simpson possessed respectable preaching talents, and a soul that burned for the salvation of a lost world. It was not till he was forced by an affection of the lungs, of which he died, that he laid aside the gospel trump. He was a man who attempted no ostentatious display; but, meek and retiring, he sought only the honour that cometh from God. In several instances God honoured him with gracious revivals; and also during much of his ministry with the sanctifying influences of the Spirit upon his soul. His toils and sufferings are past. He lives with his Saviour.

7. Joseph P. Hutchins, of the Maine annual conference, died at Penobscot, Me., August 20, 1842, aged twenty-four years and six months. Brother Hutchins was a young man of promise; his preaching talents were above mediocrity, and his labours acceptable on those charges which were intrusted to him during the two years of his ministry. Holiness was his theme in preaching and living. His work was short on earth; and the parental roof that gave him birth was the place where he ceased to work and live. Peace to his memory;—he sleeps in Jesus;—his record is on high.

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

8. C. Burlinghame.—The ways of Providence are mysterious. That mysteriousness is never more striking than when the faithful minister of the gospel, from distinguished posts of usefulness, is suddenly called away by death. We may feel submission on such visitations, but we cannot but be impressed with the humiliating thought, that the designs of God are a "great deep," which no man can fathom. There is one alleviating assurance afforded by revelation, which is well calculated to inspire submission under such providences. It is indeed pleasant to be informed that our deceased Christian friends and ministerial brethren, though seen no more in the circles where we have known them, are still active, thinking, happy beings, moving in a higher, purer, happier state of existence. This view of the condition of the departed, though it be insufficient to disclose the mystery hanging about particular cases, is well calculated to alleviate the sorrows of bereavement. That the Rev. Charles Burlinghame, whose early departure we deplore, has entered the exalted state of being to which we have referred, we have no doubt, judging from an acquaintance with his life and character. The following are some of the important events of his earthly career, with the dates of their occurrence :—

He was born in West Greenwich, R. I., in 1801; removed with his parents to Willett, N. Y., in 1809; converted to God, and added to the M. E. Church, he became leader of the society in his town in 1822; married to Miss Almira Dodge in 1823; commenced improving his gifts in public as an exhorter in 1826, and two years after received license to preach; was ordained to the office of a local deacon in 1834; united with the Oneida conference, on trial, in 1836; was admitted into full connection and ordained elder two years after; travelled in the conference until June 3, 1842, when he was arrested by hemorrhage from the lungs, and brought near the grave. At the conference of 1842 he had so far recovered as to feel able to receive an appointment, and resumed his labours. He continued to labour for a few months, when he was compelled to retire from his much-loved work, and yield himself a victim to pulmonary consumption. He preached his last sermon on the 8th of January, 1843, when he gave himself up to the slow but certain progress of disease. As he drew near his last days his sufferings were severe, but could not destroy or disturb his repose in God. A few days before his dissolution, in familiar conversation with his beloved wife on the subject of his approaching death, he said, "I am perfectly resigned to the will of God; there is no terror in death to me." A few hours before his departure, it was said to him, "You will not stay with us long." "No matter," said he, "all is well." When the mortal struggle began, he said to those around him, "I am ready to die; I feel to die is gain." When the chill of mortality was upon him, his voice having failed, and his eyes growing dim in death, he gave signs, according to previous arrangement, of glorious victory over the last enemy. Thus closed the mortal scene of our dear departed brother, May 30th, 1843. Though he rests from his labours, his works follow him. His memory is embalmed in the grateful remembrances of hundreds of souls through his instrumentality brought home to God.

GENESEE CONFERENCE.

9. Ira Brownson departed this life on the 27th of June, 1843, in the town of Granger, Alleghany co., N. Y. He was received on trial, to travel in the Genesee annual conference, in 1820. His labours as an itinerant preacher have been principally in the western part of the conference, where his praise is in all the churches. Brother Brownson was a man of a meek and quiet spirit, and as a Methodist minister exemplified in all his conduct the deep sincerity with which he had consecrated himself to the work of saving souls. All the Christian graces shone so eminently in his life, that with but feeble health, and ordinary talents as a preacher, he was always acceptable and useful among the people with whom he laboured, and lived and died greatly beloved by all who knew him. Some years ago he sustained an injury in consequence of a fall from his horse; since which his bodily afflictions have been such as would have induced less devoted men to retire from the active labour of an itinerant preacher; but our dearly beloved brother had adopted the motto to "cease at once to work and live;" and he continued in the field until he fell at his post covered with glory. When it was perceived that he was fast declining, he was frequently and affectionately entreated to spare himself; but he would not be turned aside from finishing his race in the regular course of the itinerancy. The sabbath preceding his death he went some nine miles to an appointment, but he did not preach. After his return, on Monday, he appeared about as well as usual. On Tuesday morning he did not rise. It was soon evident that he was fast sinking into the arms of death. While suffering severe bodily pain, he would exclaim, "O come, my precious Saviour! do come! Come, my precious Saviour!" and afterward added, "He will come." On receiving some drink, he said, "I shall soon go where I shall drink, and suffer no more." Being asked if he enjoyed peace, he answered, "All is peace." Thus died brother Ira Brownson, a man greatly beloved, and abundantly useful as a Christian and a Christian minister.

NORTH OHIO CONFERENCE.

10. John O. Conoway* was born in Baltimore county, in the state of Maryland, in the year 1810, and was converted to God in the twentieth year of his age. In 1835 he was recommended to the Ohio annual conference from Defiance circuit, (to which place he had removed a short time before,) and admitted on trial as a travelling preacher. He was appointed to St. Mary's, Risdon, Finley, Bucyrus, Clarkesfield, and Quincy circuits; in all of which he laboured usefully and successfully. On the 8th of December, 1841, he was taken ill with fever. He had the best of medical aid; but his disease bid defiance to all efforts. During his affliction his confidence in God was strong. His prospects of a blessed immortality grew brighter and stronger as he drew near his end. Just before his departure, his soul was filled with holy rapture, and he cried out,—

* The subject of this obituary died last year, as noticed in the printed Minutes for 1842; but the memoir was not received in time for publication.—Ed.

"Happy, if with my latest breath
I may but gasp his name."

He possessed useful, though not brilliant talents as a preacher. He was a consistent Christian, a kind husband, and a faithful friend. He has left a wife and three children to mourn their loss. With his dying breath he commended them to the widow's God, and the Father of the fatherless.

11. James Wilson was born in Donegal county, Ireland, May 24th, 1783; emigrated to America in 1802; was converted at a camp meeting in Centre co., Pa., and joined the M. E. Church, 1804; was licensed to exhort Feb. 3d, 1807. In October following he was licensed to preach. Soon after he was admitted into the Baltimore conference, and appointed to Greenfield circuit, and travelled successively on Greenfield, Bottetourt, Redstone, Monroe, Alleghany, Mahoning, Somerset, Concord, and Somerset again. In 1819 he located, and was readmitted into the Ohio conference in 1828, and travelled the following circuits:—Holmes, Wayne, Brunswick, Mansfield, Millersburg, Mt. Gilead, Bucyrus, Tiffin, Mexico, Sandusky, Finley, Risdon, and at our last conference was appointed to Plymouth, where, in the midst of a glorious revival of religion, which his labours had much tended, under the blessing of God, to promote, he was taken sick, and after suffering much, on Saturday, the 21st of January, 1843, he died in great peace. After being stricken with death, while he could articulate, he shouted hallelujah! exclaiming, "Jesus is precious;" and waving his hand in triumph when he could speak no longer. He was a deeply pious man, faithful as a minister in all things; and though not brilliant in his talents, always instructive, and often powerful in his pulpit efforts; maintaining a daily communion with God, and inculcating holiness by his sermons and example, as well as in pastoral visiting, in which he was specially faithful.

12. John Janes was a native of Vermont. At the age of seventeen he emigrated to Ohio; at nineteen he united with the M. E. Church; at twenty-one he entered the itinerant connection, in which he continued to the close of life, and for seventeen years was a faithful, efficient, and useful labourer. His ministry was within the states of Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan, and he was successively connected with the Ohio, Michigan, and North Ohio conferences. He filled many important stations. For four years he was presiding elder of Maumee district, a post requiring great diligence, perseverance, and self-denial, and which he filled with a cheerful zeal, and to the entire acceptance of both the ministers and people under his charge. His health failing under these arduous labours and protracted exposure in a sickly region, he settled his family in the village of Norwalk, where, on the 7th of February, 1843, after a short illness, he died in peace. His abilities as a preacher were of a superior order. He was accustomed to say that the toils and privations of the wilderness were associated with his most pleasing recollections. He passed his happiest hours in traversing gloomy swamps and romantic solitudes, to hunt up the lost sheep of the wilderness, and proclaim the glad tidings of salvation to the fearless emigrant; and often within a few weeks before his death he was heard to say, "O that I had health, I would leave all to carry the gospel once more to the frontier." His end was peaceful;—his soul, supported upon the firm promises of Jehovah down to the Jordan of death, found its waters peaceful, and its passage safe.

When under the grasp of death, in answer to the question, "Do the consolations of grace support you?" he stated, with emphasis, "O yes, more than I could have supposed." These were nearly his last words.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

13. Richard Corwine was born August 29th, 1789, in Mason county, Ky. His parents being religious, he was brought up under religious discipline and influence. At the altar of family devotion he received his first religious impressions. He obtained religion and joined the church in 1809. In 1817 he was licensed to preach, and received into the travelling connection at a session of the conference held in Zanesville, Ohio. His first appointment was to the Hinkston circuit, in Kentucky; in 1818, to Lexington circuit; in 1819, to Madison circuit; in 1820, to Goose Creek circuit; in 1821, to Shelby circuit; in 1822, to the Louisville station; in 1823, Shelbyville and Brick Chapel station; in 1824, to Danville circuit; in 1825, to Hopkinsville station; in 1826, to Red River circuit; in 1827, to Lexington circuit; in 1828, to the Augusta district, on which he presided four years; in 1832, to Fleming circuit; in 1833, he superannuated; in 1834, he travelled as an agent for the American Colonization Society; in 1835, to Mt. Sterling circuit; in 1836, to Shelbyville and Brick Chapel; in 1837, he was appointed to the Hopkinsville district, where he remained four years; in 1841, he was appointed to the Louisville district, on which he ended his labours and sufferings.

As a man and a Christian he was, in all things, consistent; as a minister of the gospel of Christ, grave, dignified, and intelligent. His pulpit efforts were always enriched by the fundamental doctrines of Christianity,—the blood and righteousness of Christ, the agency of the Holy Ghost in man's salvation, were more or less in all his sermons. They were his theme to the last. Among his dying expressions were, "I glory in the blood of Christ;—this is the foundation of my trust."

His Christian experience was like a rising tide, to the end of life,—then overflowing all its banks. As he approached death, he had a struggle in giving up his family, but he gained the victory; and when he had committed them to the care and protection of Heaven, his faith became triumphant, and he shouted for joy. In reply to a wish expressed by his friends, that he might again be enabled to resume his labours, he said, "I feel like a frail vessel that has been long out at sea, and has breasted many a storm, but is now safe, in sight of the destined and much-desired port. My friends desire that I should return again. I do not desire to return, but the will of the Lord be done."

Having given his family his dying charge, and lifted up his voice in prayer for them for the last time, he seemed composed. A friend said to him, "I am here;"—he replied, "God is here too." The friend said, "The messenger has come." "Sweet messenger," he said, and spoke no more. He had been requested when he could not speak, if he felt the Lord was with him, to raise his hand. He did so; and then sunk calmly in death, to rise in glory.

14. Elihu Greene was born July 28th, 1814, in Madison county, Ky. He was blessed with the care, prayers, and guidance of a pious mother from his earliest infancy. In 1837 he was converted to God, and soon felt inwardly moved to the work of the ministry. At the session of the Kentucky conference, held in Danville, in 1838, he was received on trial into the travelling connection. His first year's labours were on the Mt. Vernon mission; his second year on the West Liberty mission. In these mountainous regions he was prompt to his duties, and eminently useful. In 1840 he was admitted into full connection, and ordained deacon. The succeeding two years he travelled on the Lawrenceburg and Wayne circuits with signal usefulness. At the conference of 1842, held in Lexington, he was ordained elder, and appointed to the Bowling Green circuit.

He was much loved by the people of his charge, and laboured with his usual usefulness to the last. He was just closing his year's work when arrested by the fever which terminated in death. This fearful summons (thank God) was not to him alarming. When asked, in reference to his approaching change of worlds, if he was afraid to die, he replied, "No;" and added,—

> "On Jordan's stormy banks I stand,
> And cast a wishful eye
> To Canaan's fair and happy land,
> Where my possessions lie."

The day before his departure he aroused from a slumber, and sung the hymn, beginning,—

> "When I close my eyes in death," &c.;

then remarked, "I am going straight to heaven." Sunday morning, September 10th, 1843, under the influence of that religion which he had preached to others, his happy spirit left earth, in full prospect of that "rest that remaineth for the people of God."

15. John Denham.—No memoir.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

16. Stith Mead Otwell was born August 2d, 1805, in Jackson county, Ga. His parents were members of the M. E. Church, and he was brought up "in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." In 1811, when Illinois was still a territory, and comparatively a wilderness, his parents and family emigrated to this country. He embraced religion when but twelve years of age.

He was licensed to preach Sept. 18th, 1826, and was admitted on trial in the Illinois annual conference, at its session in that year. He received his appointments, and travelled regularly from this time until the conference of 1833, when his health having greatly failed, he received a superannuated relation; which relation he continued to sustain until the day of his death.

For several years brother Otwell faithfully discharged the duties of treasurer of the Conference Missionary Society; and during one year of his superannuation he acted efficiently as agent for M'Kendree College.

His last illness begun March 20th, 1843; and on sabbath morning, the 26th instant, he peacefully and triumphantly "fell asleep in Jesus." When dying he exhorted his companion to trust in the Lord, saying, "He will take care of you. I feel Jesus in my soul. I have peace—peace through our Lord Jesus Christ." Then he looked steadfastly upward, and smiled most sweetly, and beckoned with his hand toward the back and foot of the bed; and it was thought he saw the angels that had come to bear his ransomed spirit home. And soon he was réleased from the mortal prison, and winged his flight home to his Father and his God. He suffered much in the work of the ministry, yet he never murmured, and rarely spoke of his afflictions. Having embraced religion when very young, and having maintained an irreproachable standing in the church of his choice, all through life his mind had become deeply imbued with the spirit of piety, and it shone out with increasing lustre in all his various relations. He was thirty-eight years of age when he died, having lived twenty-six years in honourable standing in the church, and seventeen in the ministry. He was gentlemanly and dignified in his deportment, and a man of industrious, economical, and business habits. Being very amiable and affable, and a consistent Christian, he was as extensively beloved as he was known. He was a good citizen, and therefore had the confidence and esteem of the general community. He was an obedient son, an affectionate husband, and a good parent. On his dying bed we find him engaged in teaching his little daughter, Harriet, her daily lessons. In one word, "those who knew him best loved him most."

He was a good preacher. His style was correct and chaste, simple and strong. His gestures were good; and in his preaching generally there was a pathos and solemnity, an emphasis in the intonations of his voice, and the manner of his delivery, that failed not to secure the attention and affect the heart. His preaching was practical, doctrinal, and sometimes polemical. Indeed, he was faithful in endeavouring to fulfil his ordination vow, to edify the church, and to drive away error in doctrine, and evil in practice, from her borders. He was a good pastor, and hence attended to as many of the interests of the church as he possibly could. He was very active in the missionary, Sunday school, and temperance causes; and he was a good nurse for the young convert—the babe in Christ. "He rests from his labours, and his works follow him."

17. John Henry Benson was born in Boston, Mass., Aug. 10th, 1797, and lived in that place and New-York city until the age of twenty-three, when he came to the west. He embraced religion at the Union Grove camp meeting, near Lebanon, Ill., Aug., 1825, and united with the M. E. Church. He was licensed to exhort and to preach in 1826. In 1828 he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to the Sangamon circuit; and from this time to the day of his death he continued a member of the itinerant body. This current conference year, 1842 and 1843, he was appointed to the Greenville circuit; but his health, which had for some time been very poor, growing worse, he got round his circuit but once. On January 1st, 1843, his affliction became very great, (it was bronchitis,) and on Sunday morning, Feb. 5th, in great peace and composure, he "fell asleep in Jesus."

To those who knew our beloved brother, it will not seem strange that he died as he had lived, calmly and meekly submitting to the will of his heavenly Father. Brother Benson was extensively known, and all who knew him loved him. "His praise was in all the churches." As a citizen, a friend, a husband, and a parent, he was very amiable and affectionate; and in all these relations the Christian spirit and character shone out clearly and strongly. His leading characteristic was a grave dignity. Though very social, he was never known to jest. Our brother was a great sufferer, but he bore all patiently for Jesus' sake.

He was a good preacher: his preaching was impressive, weighty, and solemn. "He had not put on his gravity to go into the pulpit, for he never laid it off;" nor did he court a grin, when it was his business to woo a soul. Enjoying the fulness of the blessing of Christ's life and death in himself, the great trait in his preaching was Christ crucified. To "the cross, all stained with hallowed blood," he continually pointed his weeping congregations.

Brother Benson was very useful: he had many powerful revivals in different portions of the fields assigned him. Many souls were convicted and converted under his ministry; many wanderers were called back; many were stirred up to increased faith and action in the Lord. The balm of life he poured into many a wounded spirit, as the instrument in God's hands. Often, when God's children have been cast down, have their souls been refreshed, as he pointed them to the gushing fountain of the "water of life." O we remember our beloved brother! but he rests from his labours; "and though dead, he yet speaketh!" Many still remember his words, and in recollection hear his voice, as its sweet symphonies used to roll through the sacred grove and in the house of God. But he now lives in heaven.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

18. Alfred Hance was born in the state of New-Jersey, Jan. 8th, 1810. He was brought up under Quaker influence until the eighteenth year of his age; when, under the Methodist ministry, he was awakened to a sense of his lost condition.

He then sought and found pardon and peace through our Lord Jesus Christ; and in 1828 united with the M. E. Church. He was married in 1830; licensed to preach in 1832; removed to Ohio in 1834; and in 1836 was employed by James Quinn to form a new circuit, embracing parts of Clinton and Fayette counties.

He went into this work with all the powers of his soul; succeeded in organizing a good circuit, (now called Sabina,) and was instrumental in bringing many souls to the knowledge of salvation. He was admitted on trial in the Ohio conference in 1837; and graduated in regular order to the office of an elder in 1841.

Our beloved brother Hance was a holy, humble, devoted Christian minister; greatly beloved and extensively useful on all the circuits where he laboured; where his name, for years to come, will be as ointment poured forth! His great anxiety for the salvation of souls was manifested in all places, and on all occasions.

A short time before his death he appointed a meeting, to be protracted, near M'Arthurstown. At this meeting he prayed, preached, and exhorted with great earnestness, and an unction from the Holy One; and no doubt many will long remember that meeting, in connection with the last prayers, exhortations, and sermons of their beloved Hance.

Shortly after this meeting he was taken extremely ill at M'Arthurstown; where, on the 29th of January, he was visited by his colleague, brother Arthur, who inquired into the state of his mind; to which he replied, "All is peace—all is peace." On Friday he was worse, and said he must die. He was then asked how he felt: to which he replied, "All is peace;—perfectly happy—perfectly happy."

Brother Arthur adds, "The last words I ever heard him utter were, 'I would not give the religion I now enjoy for ten thousand worlds.'"

As he drew near his end, one said, "You are sinking fast:" to which he replied, "I am rising! rising!"

He fell asleep in Christ at half past eight o'clock on Thursday morning, Feb. 2d, 1843, leaving a lonely widow, but no children, to mourn.

"Servant of God, well done."

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

19. Thomas Logan Douglass—born in Person co., N. C., 1781; embraced religion in 1798; and died near Franklin, Tenn., April 9th, 1843.

He was admitted on trial in the Virginia conference in 1801, and appointed to the Hanover and Williamsburg circuits; in 1802 he travelled Swanino circuit; in 1803, Guilford, and in 1804, Greensville circuit. In 1805 he was appointed to the charge of Portsmouth circuit; in 1806 he was assigned to the Bertie circuit, and in 1807 took charge of the Salisbury district. In 1808 he was appointed to travel Yadkin district; and in 1809, 1810, 1811, and 1812, he was presiding elder of the James' River district. In 1813 he took charge of the Richmond circuit, but during the year was transferred to the Tennessee conference, and appointed to the city of Nashville, and the following year was assigned to the Nashville district. Shortly after his removal to the west he was united by marriage to Miss Frances M'Gee, daughter of the late venerable Rev. John M'Gee, who survives him. For twelve years past he had been sorely afflicted; but the strength that was afforded him was gladly devoted to the church. In all the relations of social and domestic life he was a pattern.

Brother Douglass was eminent as a preacher. His manner was solemn and dignified;—his voice clear, musical, and of great compass; and his style perspicuous and strong; and his sermons, in the methodical arrangement of the subject, the clearness and appropriateness of his arguments and illustrations, and the simplicity and pathos of his exhortations, were fine specimens of evangelical preaching. Few ministers could command the attention of a large audience like him; and fewer still could so powerfully affect them. While he travelled in the Virginia conference he was greatly beloved, and was prominent among a host of good and great preachers for his talents and usefulness. His name is a sweet savour in Virginia still. Upon his transfer to the west he became a blessing to the Tennessee conference; for he was not only an excellent preacher, but being thoroughly conversant with the history of Methodism, and the Discipline of the church, and being a man of system and business habits, he was eminently adapted, in every respect, to the exigences of the church in the west.

To call him the father of the conference might be wrong, since many excellent men had laboured in it before him; but no one will deny that for thirty years past his influence in moulding the character of its ministry and the church has been more distinctively felt than any other man's. The peculiarity of brother Douglass was, that he was eminently fitted to do everything appertaining to the duties of a Methodist preacher; and while he had strength he did it all faithfully. His labours have been greatly blessed in the west. His children in the ministry rise up by scores, and in the laity by hundreds; and thank God for Thomas L. Douglass. He was the early, long tried, and dearly beloved friend of Asbury and M'Kendree, of Roberts and Soule. He deeply loved the doctrines and government of the M. E. Church, and loved them, and testified to their truth and excellency in his last hours. In his attachment to them he never wavered.

His piety was uniform and deep, his temper sweet, and his heart was confiding and affectionate. He envied no one—he spoke evil of no one. No bitter feelings toward any human being—no regrets for the past, nor distrust as to the future, marked his closing day. His sun declined in all the splendour of a calm and cloudless sky, to rise again in increased glory. His last hours were cheered by the presence of many of his sons in the gospel, and the sympathies of his Christian neighbours, with whom he conversed of his conversion and his travels in Virginia,—calling up the names of his old fellow-labourers there, and exulting in the hope of a reunion with them in heaven. He was constantly happy,—said his work was done,—wept for joy, and praised God in the tremulous accents of a dying tongue, until he calmly and sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, without a struggle or a groan. And thus having taught us how to live, he exemplified in his death the triumph of faith over the terrors of the grave.

19. Thomas L. Young.—It is painfully pleasing to record the virtues of departed friends, and leave to posterity the mementoes of those whose useful lives and happy deaths endear them to their families, the church, and the world. This task devolves upon us in sketching the memoirs of our beloved but departed brother, Rev. Thomas L. Young. Brother Young was truly a labourer in the Lord's vineyard. As a gentleman, he was kind, affectionate, and dignified;—as a Christian, he was sincere, holy, and upright;—as a minister of Jesus, he was a man of one work, having a single eye to the glory of God and the good of man. The sacrifices he made, the privations he endured, the duties he performed, together with the fervency of his zeal, and the constancy of his labours—all, all conspire to demonstrate the loftiness of his motives and the purity of his intentions.

Brother Young was truly a deeply pious and extensively useful minister of the New Testament. His talents were more than ordinary; his theological education respectable. His acquaintance with human nature (a knowledge essentially necessary to success in a minister of the gospel) was extensive. He preached to the real man as he found him in society, and not the ideal man, conjured up in the mind of the cloistered student, secluded from the walks of private or public life; and was successful in winning many souls to his Master.

Brother Young was a young man in the pride of his strength;—born July 6th, 1811; died June 26th, 1843, aged thirty-two years. He was admitted on trial in the South Carolina conference in 1835, and appointed to the Waccamaw circuit. In 1836 he laboured on the Cypress circuit. At the close of this year he was elected and ordained deacon. In 1837 he was appointed to the Waterboro' circuit; in 1838, to Montgomery circuit. At the close of this year he located and removed to his father's, in Tennessee, and was employed by the presiding elder of the Pulaski district on the Lincoln circuit, Tennessee conference. In the fall of 1839 he was readmitted into the Tennessee conference, and appointed to Shoal circuit; in 1840 and '41, to Lincoln circuit; in 1842, to Richland circuit,—where he ended his life and labours—leaving behind him, to mourn their loss, an affectionate wife, and numerous friends and relatives.

The death of brother Young was distinguished by extraordinary manifestations of the purity, power, and excellence of our holy religion. Being asked, a little before his death, by a brother preacher, to tell him the state of his mind, that, in the event of his death, he might inform his brethren of the Tennessee conference,—"O," said he, "I feel like an atom floating upon an ocean of glory;—I shall soon pass away, nor scarcely know the change!" Thus died our dear brother, T. L. Young:—"Let my last end be like his!"

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

21. Chappel Featherston.—In regard to the date of the birth of this lamented brother, and of his conversion, we have been able to obtain no definite information. He was a native of Charlotte county, Va. He was admitted on trial by the Virginia conference, at its session in Petersburg, Feb., 1837, and in the division then made of that body was assigned to the Pitt circuit,—a field of labour within the limits of the North Carolina conference. Since that time he has filled the following appointments:—1838, Sampson; 1839, Duplin; 1840, Hillsboro' station; 1841, Danville station; 1842, Pittsboro', where his labours were crowned with a gracious revival of religion; and in 1843, Washington, where he departed this life on the 5th of September. His last illness was not considered serious until within a few hours of his death;—the summons was to him, therefore, somewhat unexpected; but we have reason to believe that it did not find him unprepared, or reluctant to obey it. He expressed, in a conversation with a friend during his sickness, though with no prospect of immediate death, a perfect willingness to exchange worlds. We take comfort, therefore, concerning our brother, seeing we can cherish the assurance that he sleeps in Jesus, and rests from his labours.

It is proper that we should add a word in regard to his character and standing among us. He was a diligent and successful student; but this by no means forms his highest praise. Though he was intent upon the acquisition of knowledge, he was yet more ardently devoted to the work of saving souls:—he was fully awake to the responsibilities of his high vocation, and animated with the genuine spirit of an evangelist;—in the pulpit sustaining the cause of religion well, by a clear and skilful exposition and application of divine truth;—as a theologian, well instructed and accurate;—conscientious, zealous, and indefatigable in the discharge of every ministerial duty. We feel that we have lost in him a valuable man,—one to whom we looked with great hope of extensive usefulness. Though keenly alive to our bereavement, we murmur not at the strange providence which has removed him from his labours in the strength of manhood, but rather acquiesce in the will of the Lord of the vineyard, praying him to supply the place of our brother, whose unlooked-for departure it is our melancholy duty to record.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

22. George W. Blain was born in Albemarle county, Va., in the year 1815. When in his seventeenth year he was awakened and converted at a camp meeting which was held near Salem, in Roanoke county. He entered Randolph Macon College in 1833, and during his residence for four years in that institution, his close application to study, and his superior talents, procured for him a high reputation for scholarship, and his unwavering piety and uncompromising integrity secured the respect and confidence of the faculty and students. In the summer of 1837 he was admitted to the degree of Bachelor of the Liberal Arts; and at the ensuing session of the Virginia conference, in February, 1838, he was received on trial, and appointed to the Amelia circuit. In 1839 he was stationed in Farmville. In 1840 he was ordained deacon, and reappointed to Farmville, where he remained until the fall of the year, when he was elected to the professorship of mathematics in the Collegiate Institute of Buckingham county. The degree of Master of the Liberal Arts was conferred on him by the trustees of Randolph Macon College at their annual meeting in 1841. His physical constitution, in which there was a hereditary tendency to pulmonary disease, and which had been weakened by his collegiate studies, sunk under the mental labour which he endured in the discharge of his duties as a professor. He was placed in a superannuated relation in 1842, and retired from the active duties of the ministry with the hope that his health would be restored. This hope, however, proved delusive. His disease increased in violence until the 7th of March, 1843, when he died in peace and triumph in Bottetourt county. The closing scene in the life of this excellent and talented young minister was very impressive. A few moments before he breathed his last his wife approached him, and inquired if he still enjoyed the presence of the Saviour. His answer was, "Yes; that is all that sustains me:—as Mr. Wesley said, 'the best of all is, God is with us.'" These were his last words. The doctrines which he had preached with ability and zeal, and which he had made the subjects of experience, were his comfort in the hour of death; and that sufficient, all-conquering grace, which had given him the ascendency over the world, the flesh, and the devil, gave him liberty from "the bondage of fear," when he encountered his "last enemy."

Brother Blain was thoroughly educated, morally and mentally. His talents were of a superior order, and they were freely consecrated to Christ, and zealously exercised in the work of the ministry. His piety was genuine, deep, and productive of all the fruits of the Spirit. His stay with us was of short duration; he was stricken down in the spring-time of life, and he was caught away from earth before he was fully known and sufficiently appreciated.

23. George W. Kelso, the subject of this brief memoir, was born in Louisa county, Va., in 1815, but in subsequent life moved to the state of Tennessee, and received his education at Nashville University. In early life he was often seriously impressed on the subject of experimental godliness; but to these kind impressions of his pious education, and of the Spirit of grace, he did not yield until the maturity of his life, when it pleased the Father of our spirits to create him anew in the image of his mind; which change he improved by uniform piety and a steady obedience. Being impressed by the Holy Ghost that it was his duty to preach the gospel, brother Kelso joined the Tennessee annual conference, in which body he was graduated to the office of a deacon at the expiration of two years, and at the close of two more he was ordained an elder, and at his own instance was transferred to the Virginia conference, where he appeared and took his seat at its session in the town of Petersburg in November, 1842; from which he was appointed to Hampton circuit, where he died on the 10th of August following.

Brother Kelso, though an educated man, did not evince very superior talents as a minister of Christ; but such as he had, by grace divine, he made them practical in his holy vocation. On the duties of his circuit, after his arrival, he entered with zeal and promptness, and grace crowned his labours with signal success. The rich and the poor, the healthy and the sickly, the master and the slave, came alike under his care, efforts, sympathies, and prayers. He seemed to have learned the lesson, that "the servant of God must not strive." He was "gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient; in meekness instructing those that opposed themselves, if God peradventure would give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth." He was a decided Methodist, but affectionate and courteous to Christians of other sects. In the language of a worthy brother living in Hampton, "he was truly a good man, and never at any time during his stay among us, did I, or any of the brethren, hear an unkind expression drop from his lips; but contrariwise, his effort was to cover the faults of others with the mantle of charity." Such were the character and spirit of this servant of Christ.

The disease which terminated his life was violent inflammation of the brain. It was short, but painful; and, as is usual in such cases, for the most of the time he was delirious and incapable of rational conversation. At short intervals, however, he was permitted to have lucid moments; when his waiting and anxious friends would question him concerning the state of his mind, and his prospect of a better inheritance; to which his answers were of the most satisfactory kind, manifesting all the while the most patient and submissive disposition, until he sunk into the sleep of death. Thus rapidly, though calmly and peacefully, did he pass through "death's iron gate, nor feel his terrors as he passed."

"Jesus can make a dying bed
Feel soft as downy pillows are,
While on his breast I lean my head,
And breathe my life out sweetly there."

24. Charles P. Moorman was born January 22d, 1798, in Bedford county, Va. His father was a minister and his mother a member of the Baptist Church. He was instructed in his childhood in the duties of religion, but he was not awakened to a sense of his sinfulness and danger until the year 1822. In August of that year he attended a camp meeting in Campbell county, and under the preaching of the word he resolved to seek the forgiveness of his sins. This great blessing was bestowed on him at a prayer meeting on the 12th of November, 1822. Believing that he was called of God to the work of the ministry, he offered himself to the Virginia conference, and was received on trial in February, 1827. From that time he gave himself wholly to the work as long as he had health to sustain him. In the circuits in which he travelled he will be long remembered on account of his untiring labours and distinguished success. At the North Carolina conference, (to which he was assigned when the Virginia conference was divided,) in February, 1838, he located, in order that he might rest and travel for the restoration of his health. He was readmitted into the Virginia conference in 1841, and during the two succeeding years he laboured in the Powhattan circuit. In 1843 he travelled in the King and Queen circuit, and while there in the discharge of his duties he was stricken down by disease, and died suddenly on the 5th of October.

Brother Moorman was a man of strong mind, of a zealous spirit, of untiring energy, and of ardent and deep piety. His preaching was efficient, and his pastoral labours abundant. His death was so sudden, that his deathbed affords no testimony for the comfort of his brethren and friends. Our hope of his salvation is founded on our knowledge of his religious experience, and his uniform religious practice. With this knowledge we "sorrow not as they who have no hope."

25. Benjamin B. Miles was born of respectable parents, in Amherst county, Va., on the 1st of November, 1810. In childhood and youth he was very sprightly, and was much esteemed by his associates as an amiable and affectionate companion. His life, previous to the profession of faith in Christ, was orderly and moral. During the summer of 1826, under the ministry of the Rev. William A. Smith, he was awakened to a sense of his sinfulness, and sought earnestly to find "redemption in Christ, even the remission of sins." In the early part of the following winter he made an open profession of religion, and soon after joined the M. E. Church. It was not long after his admission into the church that he felt concerned on the subject of the ministry; and after delaying a year or more, he commenced a course of study preparatory to the work which he felt it his duty to perform. This he continued several years, and finally united with the Virginia conference, at its session in Raleigh, N. C., in February, 1834. Having entered into the work of the Lord, he gave faithful diligence to make his calling and election sure.

On the several circuits and stations to which he was appointed to minister in holy things, he was laborious and faithful; and was useful and well-beloved in every field of his labour. His piety was uniform, and he was zealous, abounding in the work of the Lord.

At the conference of 1842 he was appointed to Greenville circuit, and was soon among the people of his charge. But his work was done. He was soon attacked with hemorrhage from the lungs, and gradually declined until the 6th of August, when he breathed his last. He was then at his father's residence, whither he had gone with the hope of benefit from the pure air of his native mountains. But relief came not: God was about to take his servant to his own blissful and glorious rest.

The Rev. R. Scott, who was with him when he departed hence, says, "A few days after brother Miles came to his father's I visited him, and conversed with him in relation to the state of his mind, and his prospect for heaven. He remarked, that he had just held a conversation with his family, and had assured them they need not give themselves any uneasiness on that subject: that his heart had been stayed upon God during all his affliction, and that he had been living for heaven. I visited him again on the Sunday evening before he died, and continued with him until he departed. His wife conversed with him freely, and asked him many questions in relation to his victory over death. He still assured her all was well. Just before he breathed his last, he beckoned me to him, and distinctly said, 'Brother Scott, I am blessed—I am blessed—I am blessed for ever!'"

TEXAS CONFERENCE.

26. William O'Conner, the subject of this memoir, was a native of New-Jersey. When quite young his parents emigrated to the state of Ohio. Brother O'Conner from childhood was favoured with pious instruction, and at an early period of life gave evidence of the power of God's awakening and converting grace. He subsequently united with the church, "esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than all the treasures of Egypt; having respect to the recompense of the reward." Being prompted by the Holy Spirit, and a desire for the salvation of his fellow-men, he applied for authority to preach. He was recommended, in 1840, to the Ohio conference, and was received into the travelling connection as a probationer. At the conference of 1842 there was a call for volunteers from the Texas conference. Brother O'Conner responded to the call, and, with five others, was transferred to that conference. He was appointed to the Harrison circuit. By his uprightness of walk, and ministerial fidelity, he secured the confidence and won the affections of all within his charge. He laboured indefatigably, and with success, until he was cut down by the withering influence of disease. On his deathbed his views of the plan of salvation were clear, and his heart was comforted and sustained by the grace of God. When dying, he was asked by his physician if he was prepared: he answered, "Yes." Just on the brink of Jordan he exclaimed, "All is well! all is well!"

Thus died our beloved brother in the twenty-seventh year of his age. Though far from the friends of his youth, without the presence of his wife (for he died from home) to cheer his dying hour, yet his Saviour was there to comfort him through the valley and shadow of death. While in the providence of God we are called upon to mourn our irreparable loss, it is in hope of meeting our brother above, where holy souls perpetual sabbath keep.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

27. George R. W. Smith was born in Lincoln county, Ga., August 8, 1820; was converted to God in October, 1832; licensed to exhort in 1838, and to preach in 1839. He was received on trial in the Alabama conference, January, 1840, and sent to the Tombecbee circuit; travelled the Coosa circuit in 1841. In January, 1842, he was received into full connection, and sent to Pensacola. January, 1843, he was stationed at Apalachicola. Brother Smith went to his station an entire stranger, but soon obtained the confidence and affections of the people, and his labours as a preacher and pastor were owned of God. A church was organized, and subscriptions for building a meeting-house obtained to a considerable amount through his exertions.

Sickness stopped him in the midst of his very useful labours. His disease was at first not considered dangerous; but in a few days he became very sick, and though all was done that could be by the kindness of friends, and the skill of the physicians, it availed not to save him.

During the latter part of his illness he was but little disposed to converse; was, for the most of the time, dull and sleepy; and did not have any idea that he was going to die until a few hours before his spirit left. When aroused by his friends, and informed of his danger, he expressed his resignation, and said he had peace with God; knew that he should go to heaven. Thus he died April 16th.

Brother Smith had commended himself to the esteem and affection of the church in every field of labour he had occupied as a preacher. Industrious both in the cultivation of his mind, and attention to his public duties, his improvement was rapid, and he bid fair to attain an elevated rank in the ministry.

The peculiarity which most of all distinguished brother Smith was his solemn gravity. Although but a youth, and small in stature, his congregations were impressed with a feeling of solemnity while he stood before them. We felt that he was a messenger sent of God. He who gave him to us for a little while has taken him away.

28. THOMAS D. BARR was born in Rutherford county, N. C., April 22, 1814. He was religiously educated by his parents, who were members of the Presbyterian Church. At nine years of age he was converted to God, and at fourteen joined the M. E. Church. In the fall of 1833 he came to Alabama; received license to exhort in 1837, and to preach in 1838. He was received on trial in the Alabama conference, January, 1839, and sent to Fulton circuit; travelled the Blount circuit in 1840, and was received into full connection in January, 1841, and sent to Wills' Valley circuit. In 1842 he travelled the Harpersville circuit, and was ordained elder at Montgomery, January, 1843, from which he went to the station at Marianna, West Florida.

He laboured with great zeal and much profit to the church till August, when he was taken with the fever. The disease was not supposed to be dangerous, and after a few days he was pronounced to be convalescent by his physician. No other opinion was entertained by him or his friends but that he would soon be able to renew his pastoral labours. But on the morning of the 4th of September (the ninth day of his illness) a change for the worse was perceived, and his physician being absent, another was called in, who pronounced him past all hope of recovery. Some of his friends informed him of it: he was surprised, but not alarmed. After a short pause he replied, "Is it possible I shall be in heaven so soon!" In a few hours the mortal struggle was over.

Brother Barr was a man of sound integrity, serious in his deportment, and humble in his thoughts of himself. He kept a diary, in which he recorded the exercises of his mind and heart,—from which it appears he was a man of deep piety, and that his whole soul was in the work of the Lord. For several years he professed to enjoy perfect love; and his life gave evidence of the truth of that profession.

His preaching was plain and practical, sound in doctrine, and God gave him many seals to his ministry. He has gone to his reward, and left this last message to the conference, "Tell my brethren," said he, "that I died in the faith."

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

 The two following Memoirs belong to last year's Minutes, but were not furnished in time.—ED.

29. DAVID GARRISON, a superannuated minister, died at his residence in Franklin county, Ga., April 7th, 1842, in the sixty-sixth year of his age. A complication of diseases had, for several years past, been pulling down the tabernacle. For a few weeks before his death they seemed to have rallied all their forces against the frail tenement, already tottering to its fall by age and bodily toil; until feeble mortality sunk under their power, while doubtless the happy spirit fled swiftly to the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

The subject of this memoir was born in Orange county, N. C., on the 17th of February, 1777. He was blessed with religious parents, as both his father and mother were pious, exemplary members of the M. E. Church, in which communion they lived and died, ornaments to their profession, after having had the pleasure of seeing two of their sons useful ministers of the gospel. Although taught from childhood the principles of our holy religion, David Garrison never became acquainted with the joys of God's salvation until in the twentieth year of his age. His parents having removed to Greenville district, S. C., when he was about eleven years old, there he remained "in the world," "without God," until in the year 1797, under the ministry of the Rev. George Clark, he was awakened to a sense of his lost condition as a sinner. He conferred not with flesh and blood, but directly joined the M. E. Church, and in a short time found redemption, even the forgiveness of sins. In 1801 he was licensed as an exhorter, in which capacity he, however, laboured only about eighteen months, when his brethren believing, with himself, that God had called him to a higher work, gave him license to preach. In January, 1804, he removed to Franklin county, Ga., bringing with him a certificate of his official standing as a local preacher.

On the 31st of December, 1806, he was ordained a local deacon by Bishop Asbury. This local field of labour was too small for his ardent zeal; and he offered himself to, and was employed by, the presiding elder on Grove circuit to travel in 1814. In 1815

he arranged all his matters to take the itinerant field for life; and in 1816 joined the conference. In 1818 he was ordained elder. As a travelling preacher he laboured faithfully and usefully, as many in the uplands of Georgia and South Carolina can testify. He was the subject of several severe attacks of disease during his regular itinerant career, which greatly enfeebled him; yet he never yielded until ten years' regular toil, added to his age, and many afflictions, drove him to the necessity of asking of the conference a superannuated relation, which was granted in 1826; in which relation he continued until the day of his death, never having been able to resume his former labours, yet all the time preaching as extensively and as often as his health and other circumstances would admit.

Brother Garrison was a sober, pious, humble Christian; a plain, practical, spiritual, useful preacher, who never made any drawback on his usefulness by eccentricities or improprieties, such as sometimes subtract largely from the amount of good which might otherwise result from the labours of men of better opportunities and higher pretensions. He was an ardent lover of the doctrine, discipline, and usages of the M. E. Church; and from an intimate acquaintance with him I can safely say no set of men on earth shared so largely in his affections as did the itinerant ministers.

Our brother's last hours were such as we might have expected them to be. All was calm, resigned, peaceful. Undismayed, with firm, unwavering step, he walked down into the cold stream of death. A brother present during his last hours sung a hymn expressive of the triumph of a dying Christian, and asked him if he could now adopt the language and sentiment of the poet. Feeble nature was so far gone, that it required a mighty effort for him to speak; but with his dying voice he articulated, "Yes, yes." Another hymn was sung, and a similar question proposed, but he could speak no more. He was then requested to answer by raising his hand, which he did in token of victory. His passage was a hard one, so far as bodily suffering was concerned: the contest, however, soon ended, and victory closed the warfare.

An aged and afflicted widow feels the stroke heavily; so do children left behind; but these are all grown up and married, and I think all in the church; and though they and others "sorrow," yet they do not sorrow as those that have no hope. Doubtless, while I write, his happy spirit is sharing his triumph, to whom it is said, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

30. James J. Winn died at the house of Rev. Robert Hamilton, in Merriwether county, Ga., in the twenty-seventh year of his age, and fourth of his itinerant ministry. He was born of pious parents, in Jackson county, 6th February, 1815; but was principally brought up in Walton county. At thirteen years of age he was happily converted to God at a prayer meeting held in his father's barn. When he was fourteen or fifteen years of age he felt it to be his duty to call sinners to repentance; which impression he resisted, and by degrees declined in piety, until he finally apostatized, and for four years was out of the church. When he was twenty-three he was reawakened under the preaching of brother G. A. Chappell, and reclaimed in July, and in October following was licensed to preach, and recommended to the travelling connection. He was admitted, and laboured usefully for three and a half years; but the last two years of his life were especially marked for usefulness, particularly the last few weeks preceding his fatal illness, when scores were awakened and converted through his instrumentality. He lived greatly beloved, and died as universally lamented as almost any other man. He professed to have experienced the blessing of perfect love a week before his last illness occurred; and neither disease nor death could alarm him. He felt "for him to live was Christ, and to die was gain." His disease was a bilious fever, of a very malignant type, which finally assumed a typhoid cast, and from first to last defied the power of remedies. He spoke of death as of a familiar friend; selected the place of his burial; the text (Psa. cxxiv, 7,) from which he desired his funeral sermon preached; and gave the clearest possible evidences of his entire meetness for heaven. He is gone, but will long live in the affections of the people of his charge. It may be gratifying to his friends at a distance to be assured that he breathed his last in one of the kindest families in the country, where he had every attention that kindness could invent, or affection bestow. His case was confided to the management of one of the first physicians in the land, who did all he possibly could for his recovery. I have heard several persons say that they never witnessed such solicitude as Dr. Parks manifested in the case of brother Winn.

31. Daniel Bird.—No memoir.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

32. Morris Howe, of whose early history there is little known to us, was born in Philadelphia county, Pa., April, 1790. At the request of Bishop Asbury he left the bounds of this conference, to supply the lack of service in the state of North Carolina. Having proceeded on his way as far as Petersburg, he was detained by sickness till the session of the Virginia conference, which met in that place. At this conference brother Howe received his first appointment to East New-River circuit, which then embraced a circumference of five hundred miles in the low lands of North Carolina. In this section he travelled three years, sharing the toils and persecutions incident to those times; but the Holy Spirit confirmed the word by signs following, which demonstrated that his faith stood not in the wisdom of man, but in the power of God. From the General Conference in 1794 he was sent to the Eastern Shore of Md., and thence successively to Montgomery, Baltimore circuit, Carlisle, Fairfax, Stafford, Loudon, Lancaster, Rockingham, and Pendleton. In the last named his voice failed, and for a year and a half he was laid aside as a broken vessel. Recovering from this affliction, he was requested to fill a vacancy on Lyttleton circuit. He was next sent to Trough Creek, then to Wyoming, and finally to Alleghany, where he failed in the latter part of the second year; not, however, till three hundred and seventy persons had been gathered into the church as the fruits of labours more abundant. A few years after, becoming unable to do effective service, brother Howe removed to Shelby county, Ohio; and here, though in feeble health, he remained useful in the church, and zealous for God. On Christmas-day, 1843, he visited a son in his immediate vicinity; and having spent the day in communion with his children, returned home in the evening; but spent the night in great pain. The next morning he was attacked suddenly and violently with cramp cholic. The symptoms of dissolution soon became alarming. On being asked how he felt in view of the attack proving fatal, he replied, "Resigned!" This was among his last words. Thus armed with the panoply of God, this veteran soldier, with feet placed on the neck of his last enemy, calmly pillowed his head on the Captain of his salvation, and in his seventy-fifth year sweetly fell asleep; to rise not "till the heavens be no more."

33. John Kobler, the subject of this notice, was born in Culpepper county, Va., on the 29th of August, 1768, and died in Fredericksburg, July 26th, 1843.

Through the example and teachings of a pious mother, accompanied with the impressive and awakening influence of the Holy Spirit, at a very early period of his life he was led to see and feel the importance of religion, and induced to read his Bible with care, and to pray much in private. By thus improving the means of grace, he was preparing for that great moral change, which took place in his heart, in the nineteenth year of his age, and on the eve of the 24th of December, 1787.

Moved, as he believed he was by the Spirit of God, to assume the holy functions of the Christian ministry, in 1789, and the twenty-first year of his age, he entered upon the discharge of the difficult duties of an itinerating Methodist preacher, and soon after volunteered to be the pioneer to the North-western Territory.

Though possessed of a constitution naturally of more than ordinary strength, the privations and toil, with the necessary exposure of a Methodist missionary at that early period in the history of our country and church, gave to his constitution a shock from which it never recovered. Endowed with preaching abilities above mediocrity, and a zeal worthy his vocation, for eighteen years he laboured with great success in the itinerant field, and many souls were born to God through his instrumentality. In 1809, being completely prostrated by disease, he was induced to locate, and soon after married, and settled himself in the neighbourhood in which he was born. In 1836 the Baltimore annual conference, unsought by himself, placed his name on the list of its superannuated ministers.

Fond of meeting with the redeemed of the Lord to worship the Most High, as age grew upon him, and his ability to transport himself to the distant circuit appointments declined, he sought for a residence in a place where he could assemble with the people of God, and be useful. The highly-favoured spot of his selection was Fredericksburg, Virginia.

The saint-like spirit, the Christian conversation, the dignified and ministerial bearing, and the untiring labours, in preaching, exhorting, praying, visiting the sick and imprisoned, of John Kobler, have done more, under God, to give permanency to Methodism in Fredericksburg than any other instrumentality ever employed.

The church in this place being poor, and the house in which they worshipped ineligibly situated, and their prospect of success consequently small, in humble dependance upon almighty God, they determined to make an effort to build. When the measure was resolved on, brother Kobler was one of the most liberal subscribers, and feeling deeply interested in the success of the enterprise, though in the seventy-fourth year of his age, went on an excursion, appealing to the churches of the West, the field of his early toil. The result of his labour in this matter was the bringing of more than one thousand dollars into the hands of the building committee, the greater part of which he obtained by personal application in sums of one dollar and under.

For the completion and dedication of this house to the worship of God he seemed to wait like old Simeon. When the day arrived, and the Lord was invoked to take possession of the newly-erected temple,—while all the lovers of Methodism were joyful, this patriarch was transported:—the great object for which he had laboured and prayed was accomplished, and he was ready to say, "Now, Lord, lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation." But the Lord lengthened out his days to see in this new temple one of the most interesting revivals with which the church in Fredericksburg has ever been visited. Hardly had the work of God abated before disease laid its destroying hand upon him. While upon his bed of affliction he was perfectly happy:—his countenance always wore a smile that seemed heavenly. Without murmuring or complaining, and with lamb-like patience, he suffered his Master's will. The following are some of the remarks he made during his affliction:—"Living or dying, so God is glorified, and I a poor sinner saved, is all I want." Calling on his friends to engage in prayer, he was asked, "Is there any thing special for which you wish us to pray?" "Pray," said he, "for the church, that God would pour out his Spirit abundantly upon it, and take it into close keeping with himself." And again, "I have dug deep, and brought all the evidence to bear, and I find I have a strong confidence which nothing can shake; but all is through our Lord Jesus Christ." "Brother, I wish it to be known that the principles I have believed, and taught, and practised in life, I hold in death, and find that they sustain me." "I have tried all my life to make my ministry and life consistent." About half an hour before he expired he was asked, "Is Jesus precious?" "O yes," said he, "very precious, very precious!" and then added, "Come, Lord Jesus; come, Lord Jesus, in power; come quickly!"—and then, in a few minutes, breathed his last, in the seventy-fifth year of his age.

34. Tobias Riley, the subject of this memoir, was born in Westmoreland county, Penn., in the year 1789, and terminated his earthly existence in Cumberland, Md., on the 19th of April, 1843, aged fifty-five years.

He was favoured with pious parents, and received an early religious training, through which he was impressed with the inestimable value of true piety, and was led to seek, and found God as his personal Saviour, in the fourteenth year of his age.

Mercifully called from darkness to light, by the use of the means of grace, he grew in the knowledge and love of his Lord and Master, and finally resolved on devoting himself to the work of the Christian ministry, and connected himself with the Baltimore annual conference in 1810.

Brother Riley possessed an intellect above the ordinary grade, and was a sound theologian. His preaching was powerful, and often eloquent; and many souls were given as seals to his ministry.

For several years previous to his decease he had been a man of great affliction, but still continued to toil in the itinerant ranks. At the last session of the Baltimore conference he asked for and obtained a superannuated relation. In his letter making this request he says, "Much more than one-half of my whole earthly life has been spent in the labours, enjoyments, sufferings, and privations of the itinerant ministry. The usages, privileges, and labours of the conference, have grown with my growth, and strengthened with my strength, and are woven most intimately with all my feelings and habits,—even the very toil of an itinerant minister has become pleasant to me,—for to preach the unsearchable riches of Jesus Christ to a lost and ruined world is more delightful and satisfactory to my feelings than the possession of the world's most grand and glorious emoluments." In the communication from which the above extract is taken, he states his purpose, should the Lord spare him, and his health be restored, to enter the effective ranks again after the lapse of twelve months; but his hopes were doomed to disappointment. The combination of diseases which preyed upon his manly form became more inveterate, and complete prostration ensued.

While upon his bed of affliction the enemy thrust sore at him; but the truths which in health he had preached to others, and the great atonement which he had held out to men, formed for him an impenetrable shield, and enabled him with much comfort and great triumph to meet the final hour, bid farewell to earth's sorrows, and go to inherit the rest prepared for the people of God.

"Soldier of Christ, well done."

35. Zachariah Jordan, the subject of the following memoir, was born in Baltimore county, Md., on the 19th of January, 1796. In his early life he had the advantage of religious instruction and the godly example of Christian parents. In the twenty-seventh year of his age, through the instrumentality of the late Rev. Andrew Hemphill, he was awakened to a sense of his lost condition, and the absolute necessity of a change of heart by spiritual regeneration. After a severe struggle of several hours in the Wesley Chapel on Baltimore circuit, his soul was brought into spiritual light and life, to rejoice in the pardoning love of God. From this memorable period he gave evidence of the divine work which had been wrought in his heart. He was emphatically a man of prayer, and ready for every good word and work. He was useful as a class-leader and an exhorter in the church, and filled these offices until he entered upon the labours and duties of an itinerant minister.

He was received into the Baltimore annual conference in the spring of 1829, and continued his labours until arrested by disease in the Ebenezer station, Washington city, D. C. As a man, he was diffident in his manners; as a minister, plain in his preaching; and as a Christian, prudent in his intercourse, and remarkably exemplary in his life. In the early part of September he was taken with dysentery, when his public labour ceased.

From the commencement of his sickness to its termination his sufferings were great, but were borne with the patience and the resignation of the Christian believer. In the first part of his affliction he seemed to be oppressed with gloomy apprehensions; but grace was proportioned to his day. By faith in the divinely-appointed atonement, he not only struggled into the blessedness of Christian confidence, but waited patiently for the coming of his Lord. The sabbath before his death he remarked to a friend, "This day I hope my soul will be at rest." For ten days before his death he seemed as if he wished to die, but he was resigned to the divine will. At last, exhausted nature yielded to the claims of death, and his sufferings ended in the departure of his spirit to God who gave it, on the 3d of October, 1843.

36. John V. Rigdon was born in Georgetown, D. C., May 21, 1810. When very young he was taken to live with his grand-parents in Fredericktown, Md., where he embraced religion in March, 1826, in the sixteenth year of his age. About two years after his conversion he felt impressed that it was the will of God that he should become a preacher of the gospel; and after struggling with such exercises of mind for about one year, the Lord, in answer to prayer, so satisfactorily indicated his will in the case, as to leave no doubt on his mind that a dispensation of the gospel was committed to him.

With the exception of one month in filling a vacancy on Frederick circuit, the commencement of his itinerant career may be dated from the 21st of August, 1829, at which time he was employed by the presiding elder of Carlisle district as an assistant preacher on Great Falls circuit. In March, 1830, he was admitted on trial by the Baltimore annual conference, and appointed to Bedford circuit. In this, and other fields of labour assigned him, his ministrations evinced endowments of no ordinary character, which, in their maturer development, distinguished him as a workman that needeth not to be ashamed.

As a man, brother Rigdon possessed those qualities which are strikingly ornamental to the human character. To those who were not intimate with him his bearing sometimes had the appearance of austerity and a want of social feeling; but to those who were familiar with him he proved himself to be the social, accessible, meek, and warm-hearted friend. In the relation of husband and father he is said to have been peculiarly exemplary,—the Christian temper manifesting itself in all his domestic duties. Contemplated as a Christian, his piety was deep and consistent. Such was his fervour of spirit, and the strength of his faith, that he has been heard to say that he never left his closet devotions without receiving, in a greater or less degree, an answer to his prayers. Such being the healthful state of his religious experience, we are not surprised at the tranquillity and triumph with which he met his last foe. It is true he had a conflict;—the parting with wife and children, the relinquishment of his loved employ, connected with the efforts of the tempter to break the grasp of his faith, converted his heart for a season into a battle-ground with nature and with the powers of darkness; but being strengthened in that hour of trial, all-conquering faith rose to the decisive struggle,—the doubt-dispelling light of the Holy Ghost was given; and referring to the evidence of his acceptance with God, he exclaimed to a friend, a little before he died, "I've got it,—I've got it!"

Brother Rigdon's talents as a minister were confessedly of a superior order. In this respect it is believed he had few superiors:—an enlightened theologian, and well-informed in ecclesiastical history and in general science, few appeared to better advantage in the pulpit than he.

The health of our departed brother had been rather delicate for several years previous to his death. During the fall of 1843, his disease, which was a chronic affection of the throat, assumed a form that rendered the performance of his duties as a minister so difficult and painful, as to compel him, on the 31st of December, to relinquish them altogether. From this time until his death he lingered without suffering much pain, and with profound submission to the divine will, till, on the 31st of January, 1844, exhausted nature sinking beneath the power of disease, he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

37. John Nicholson was born in the town of Lewes, Del., Nov. 2, 1807. In early years he was left an orphan, and in his tenth year came with his widowed mother to reside in Philadelphia, the place of his spiritual birth; and here it pleased almighty God his life and labours should end, at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. John Wilmer, on the 11th of October, 1843, in the thirty-seventh year of his age.

Our departed brother was blest, in his tender years, with one of earth's most precious mercies, a pious and sensible mother, whose affectionate care and fervent prayers formed his mind for usefulness and heaven. From a child he knew the Holy Scriptures; and, like the pious king Josiah, while he was yet young he began to seek after God. In his twelfth year he experienced a gracious and heavenly change of heart and character, strongly marked, as one who knew him well says, "by deadness to the world, diligence in the discharge of his Christian duties, and an active zeal for the glory of God in the salvation of souls." When a mere youth, at the age of seventeen, such was the confidence his brethren had in his piety and understanding, that he was recommended as a proper person, and according to the order of the M. E. Church, which had nurtured him as a son of promise and a brother beloved, was authorized to improve the talents God had given him as a licensed exhorter. The confidence his brethren reposed in him was not misplaced. The buds of promise, in the appointed season, yielded the abundant, rich, ripe fruit of his evangelical ministry.

His parent designed him for a mechanical employment suited to his delicate and finely-moulded organism; but God had manifestly called him to the ministry of the Lord Jesus, and qualified him as an ambassador from the court of heaven to proclaim the terms of reconciliation to sinful men. He was accordingly advanced to more responsible stations in the church of God, and in each he magnified his office, made full proof of his ministry, and showed himself approved of God, a workman that needed not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

In the twenty-first year of his age he entered the itinerant ministry under the direction of the presiding elder, and was appointed to the Strasburg circuit; and in the spring of the following year, 1828, he was received on trial in the Philadelphia annual conference, and returned to the same charge. In 1829 he was stationed in West Philadelphia; in 1830, on the Cambridge circuit; in 1831, in Lancaster city; in 1832, in Germantown; and in 1833, on Bristol circuit. In 1834 he was appointed to the Bergen Neck mission; in 1835, to Rahway; and in 1836 and 1837 he was stationed in Newark, N. J. In 1838 he was transferred from the New-Jersey to the Philadelphia conference, and the four following years was stationed in this city;—in 1838, at St. John's; in 1839 and 1840, at the Nazareth; and in 1841, at the Eighth-street church. In 1842 and 1843 he was stationed at West Chester, where, on Sunday evening, Aug. 6th. 1843, he preached his last sermon from Psa. xxiii, 4,—"Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me." For some time after retiring that evening from the sacred desk, the joys of God's salvation filled his soul unutterably full, and banished sleep from his eyes His text was prophetic of his near triumph. God kept his faithful servant in perfect peace; and through his whole sickness, even when his mind wandered, all his expressions indicated the habitual religious tendencies of his soul.

The amiable and Christian deportment of our excellent brother Nicholson, in his various relations and intercourse with men, won for him a high place in the confidence and esteem of his brethren; and his constant piety, ministerial ability, and intelligent and holy zeal for the honour of God, and the prosperity of his cause, were crowned, especially in his later years, with glorious success. Many, many are the gems of immortal beauty that will deck his unfading crown!

Brother Nicholson was a man of study, of method, and of prayer. He gave all diligence to make his calling and election sure; and kept under his body, and brought it into subjection, lest that by any means, when he had preached to others, he himself should be a castaway; and as he endeavoured to imitate the apostle, so he obeyed his instruction, and gave attendance to reading, to exhortation, and to doctrine. His piety was never questioned, and his qualifications for the work of the ministry were beyond dispute. His literary acquirements were respectable, and his talents, though not showy, were real, solid, compact, and available. He was indeed an amiable man, a Christian gentleman, an able minister of the New Testament, a faithful pastor, an affectionate husband, a kind parent, and a true friend. He lived to honour his divine Master, and he fell asleep in Jesus, as a Christian warrior, fresh from the battle-field, with his laurels green upon him.

He has gone!—fallen in the prime of his life, and in the midst of his usefulness, beloved and lamented. He has left an afflicted widow, three orphan children, and a large circle of brethren and friends, to mourn his early and unexpected removal from them; but they mourn not without hope. We shall see our Nicholson again! He has gained the crown before us:—may we also be faithful unto death!

38. Isaac R. Willett was born in Accomac county, on the Eastern Shore of Virginia. The precise time of his birth we have not been able to ascertain, but presume he was between forty and forty-five years of age at the time of his decease. The greater part of his life was spent in his native county and the adjoining one of Northampton. In his second year he had so severe an attack of rheumatism as to be deprived to a great extent of the use of both his arms. He was early bereft of his father, and in consequence of this affliction his temporal circumstances were greatly reduced; but through the kindness of a gentleman, whose sympathy was excited by his helpless condition, he was sent to school until he obtained a tolerably good English education. Before he was twenty-one he commenced teaching school, and continued in this employment for a number of years. His diligence and success were such, that he not only contributed to the support of his mother in her later years, and several younger members of the family, but secured a considerable amount of money.

Although raised among the Calvinistic Baptists, he was indebted to the Methodist ministry for his awakening and conversion. It is not known at what time he began to exhort. Some time prior to 1829 he was licensed as a local preacher. In 1834 he supplied, for a few months, a vacancy in Dorchester circuit, and in 1836, having been recommended from Accomac circuit, he was elected and ordained a local deacon. Before the close of that year, a vacancy having occurred on Berlin circuit, the presiding elder called out brother Willett, who, having satisfied himself that he could endure the toil of an itinerant life, was recommended to the next session of the Philadelphia annual conference for admission on trial. His first appointment was to Lewes station, where he was well received, and had considerable success in his ministry. His next was to Salisbury circuit. In 1839 he was stationed at Haddington, Pa.; in 1840, on Accomac circuit; and in 1841 and 1842 he was placed in charge of the Indiantown mission. In all these appointments brother Willett conducted himself in an exemplary manner, and in his pulpit performances gave evidence of considerable acquaintance with the word of God and the standard writings of the M. E. Church.

During the fall of 1842 he suffered greatly from successive bilious attacks, from which he never fully recovered; and at the session of the conference in the following spring he was severely attacked with bilious pleurisy. The week after the conference, his health appearing to be somewhat improved, it was thought expedient for him to make an attempt to reach his home; but on arriving in Smyrna, at the house of brother Coombe, he was again confined to his bed, where his fever continued to rage until the following Thursday, when death released him from his toil and suffering.

Though the nature of the disease prevented him from saying much in his last hours, the correctness of his life for many years gives us the strongest ground to believe that his end was peace, and that he is now enjoying the reward of faithfulness in the presence of his God. He has left a companion and one child to mourn the loss of an affectionate husband and father.

NEW-JERSEY CONFERENCE.

39. William Lummis was born in Lower Penn's Neck, Salem county, N. J., May 4th, 1776, and died at his own residence in Gloucester county, N. J., Nov. 1st, 1843, in the sixty-eighth year of his age. He has left a widow and five children. His son Fletcher is a travelling minister in the New-Jersey conference.

He was awakened and converted to God about the thirty-first year of his age; and in the spring of 1814 was admitted in the Philadelphia annual conference, and appointed to Dover circuit, in the state of Delaware. He travelled on the following circuits successively, viz., Cambridge in 1815; Milford in 1816; and in the spring of 1817 was ordained deacon by Bishop George, and appointed to Annamessex circuit; the following spring to Accomac, and in the spring of 1819 was ordained by Bishop Roberts, and reappointed to Accomac; in 1820, to Snow Hill; in 1821, to Somerset; in 1822, to Cecil; in 1823, to Freehold, N. J.; in 1824, to Gloucester; in 1825 and 1826, to Cumberland; in 1827, again to Gloucester; in 1828 and 1829, to Caroline, Md.; in 1830, to Staten Island, N. Y.; in 1831 and 1832, to Tuckerton; in 1833, to Bargaintown; in 1834 and 1835, to Gloucester; and to Salem circuit in 1836.

In the spring of 1837, at which time the New-Jersey conference was formed, father Lummis took a supernumerary relation, and continued so till his death, labouring with zeal and usefulness in that capacity till the winter of 1843, at which time he had an attack of the rheumatism, from which he suffered much, but he bore it with Christian fortitude. He but partially recovered from this complaint when he was taken with the disease which terminated his life. He died in about ten days after he was taken.

Father Lummis had an excellent constitution,—scarcely ever ill from the commencement of his travelling up to the date of 1843. Perhaps no preacher in the connection attended to his appointments more punctually than he did,—never missing an appointment on account of sickness (with but one exception) in the whole of his twenty-three years' travel as an itinerant minister. His labours have been blessed by the great Head of the church to the conversion of many souls. According to his own statement, he took into the church while he travelled five thousand members.

The disease of which he died was an apoplectic affection. When he was first taken he seemed confident he should not live; and remarked with emphasis to the family, "I shall die; and I am ready and willing any time the Lord shall say the word, and call me to himself." He was composed and perfectly resigned to Heaven's decision; and, like the inspired apostle, his strongest desire was, "to depart and be with Christ, which is far better." The same unshaken confidence in God that he manifested through the whole of his ministerial life was now eminently displayed in his last moments. His faith was triumphant. To him death had entirely lost its sting, and he talked of dying with as much composure as one would talk of taking rest in sleep. His son Samuel, stepping into the room, (having just arrived at the house,) asked his father if he knew him. His speech then, from the nature of the disease, had so far failed him, that he could not be distinctly understood,—but he looked at him, and began to weep,—evidently because he was deprived of the privilege of conversing with him in this trying moment. His son told him not to weep; all would be well, for the kind hand of Providence had so ordered. He was composed in a moment, and then lay with a pleasant smile on his countenance.

At another time his son asked him if he could now say, "All is well." He answered in the affirmative with the motion of his head. He was in no pain through all his illness, and some hours previous to his death, to appearance, was not sensible to any thing around him. There was a sweet and heavenly smile on his countenance after the spirit had taken its flight into the paradise of God. Thus closed the life and labours of this aged and useful minister of Christ, who is now reaping his reward in heaven.

40 Wesley C. Hudson died in the city of New-Brunswick on the 2d of April, 1844, in the thirty-first year of his age, and tenth of his ministry.

Brother Hudson was converted to God in early life through the instrumentality of the M. E. Church, into which communion in the city of Philadelphia he afterward entered. About the close of the year 1833, or the early part of 1834, he was licensed as an exhorter, and afterward as a local preacher. After the session of the Philadelphia conference of 1834 he was taken into the itinerant field by the Rev. Manning Force, then presiding elder of Asbury district, and during the year travelled, in connection with brothers Baker and Badgely, Milford circuit, confining his labours mainly to the town of Milford. The following year he was received on trial in the conference, and appointed, with the Rev. Isaac Winner, to the Belvidere circuit. In 1836 he was appointed to Whippany circuit, but was afterward transferred to Rockaway station. In the spring of this year the Philadelphia conference was divided; hence his name thereafter is to be found in the Minutes of the New-Jersey conference.

In 1837 he was stationed in Jersey city, and in 1838 was appointed to Bloomfield, where he married Miss Margaret Wilde, a lady worthy of such a relation to the church of God. During this year he had an attack of hemorrhage of the lungs, which, with its attendants, so enfeebled him, that he, at the following conference, asked for and obtained a supernumerary relation. He continued thus, however, but for a single year. His soul was too much in the work to be bound by any thing less than sheer necessity. At the following conference, being somewhat improved in health, he entered as effective, and was appointed to Woodbury station, and returned to the same charge in 1841. About this time he was chosen secretary to the conference, which office he filled with universal acceptance. In 1842 he was stationed in the city of New-Brunswick, and was thereto reappointed in 1843. And here it was that our estimable brother "ceased at once to work and live."

Brother Hudson loved the Lord and Methodism. In his early ministry he laboured as an "evangelist," and gave continued proof of his "ministry." He had an intellect for thought, a heart for feeling, and a tongue for utterance. He was sincere in his profession of piety, ardent in his feelings, and preached usually in "the demonstration of the Spirit and with power." He was generally successful, always laborious. The past year, we doubt not, was one of more than ordinary religious interest to him, as though he was being specially prepared for the solemn issue. In a letter addressed to a friend, dated September 19th, 1843, he says, "Since I parted with you in the 'leafy dell' my song has been more of mercy than of judgment. I have been visited with some refreshings from the throne of grace, especially on last Sunday afternoon, preaching from Exodus xxxii, 9, 14. While on the last head God baptized us wonderfully. Your —— (speaking of himself) forgot his pains; (he had left his bed for the pulpit;) his tears flowed freely, and he felt to give God all the glory." Two of his last pulpit efforts, in the opinion of one, are likely never to be forgotten.

It was in January last our brother was attacked with the disease which resulted in his death. For eleven weeks he was confined to his bed, with but a slight exception, and until within a few days of his departure, in common with some of his friends, entertained hopes of his recovery; but in vain. His end was triumphant as well as peaceful. The afternoon previous to his death he called his sister-in-law to his bed, and said, "I think I am going." On being asked if he felt that Saviour he had preached to others supporting him now, he replied, "He is very precious to me now." Afterward he revived, and for some minutes seemed engaged in prayer. At about seven o'clock he broke forth in praises,—"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and magnify his holy name! Sweet Jesus! who would not live for Jesus? who would not suffer for Jesus?"—and then, clapping his hands, shouted, "Glory to his holy name!"

He was very happy during the night, and in the afternoon of the next day he said he thought he would get home before night. About two hours before his death his wife went to his bed, thinking he was asleep. He opened his eyes, and said, "I am thinking of a sermon I preached when I was very happy." Being asked, some five or ten minutes before his death, if Jesus was precious; he replied, "He is; he is." Just before he departed he said to his wife, "I am going home to glory, my love, and shall look for you daily." When he came to the moment of his departure he said, 'I am stepping over Jordan." And thus the useful minister, the affectionate father and husband, and the faithful friend, finished his course. Our departed brother has left behind him an affectionate companion and a sweet infant boy, (two sons having preceded him to heaven,) with a multitude of sorrowing friends.

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

41. Daniel Ostrander, an old soldier of the cross, long the senior minister among the effective members of the New-York annual conference, having fought the good fight and kept the faith, finished his course on the eighth day of December, 1843, and has entered into the joy of his Lord. His long and faithful services call for an extended notice in our obituary records.

He was born at Plattekill, in Ulster county in the state of New-York, on the 9th day of August, in the year 1772. His ancestors were Hollanders. He was converted to God when he was sixteen years of age, and from that time devoted himself wholly to the service of God, who counted him faithful, putting him into the ministry. Our records acknowledge his entrance into the travelling connection of the M. E. Church in the year 1793 as a probationary member of the New-York annual conference, and, after the usual trial of two years, his admission into full connection, and ordination to the deaconship; and so well was he esteemed by his brethren, that in the following year, 1796, he was ordained elder. From the year 1793 to the year 1843, a full term of fifty years, so remarkably did the Lord preserve him, that only three sabbaths in all that time was he disabled from pulpit service by sickness. Where, in the history of ministers, shall we find a parallel to this? To record his services in all the places of his labour might be more tedious than interesting; suffice it to say, that for fourteen years he was on circuits, and eight years in stations, (New-York, Brooklyn, and Albany,) and twenty-eight years in the weighty and responsible office of presiding elder. The districts of New-London, New-Haven, Saratoga, Hudson River, New-York, and Newburgh, remember him with affection. His high standing in the esteem of his brethren in conference appears from the fact, that since the establishment of the delegated General Conference in 1808, they always elected him a member of that highest judicatory in our church, down to the year 1840 inclusive; and never has his seat in an annual conference been vacant during the forty-eight years that the writer of this article has known him, till called to his reward. The same is thought to have been the case from the time of his admission as a member of this body, when Methodist preachers', "like angels' visits, were few and far between." His firm integrity, sound judgment, and solid piety, won the confidence of his brethren. He identified himself with all the interests of the church as a faithful and wise steward. Always at his post, and prompt to serve, whether on circuit, in a station, in quarterly meetings, in annual or general conferences, and on all suitable occasions, his clear voice, his manly eloquence, his decision of mind, his sound arguments and his ardent zeal, all showed that he preferred Jerusalem above his chief joy; yet it was in the pulpit that this preference shone the brightest—so warm in delivery, sound in doctrine, clear in preaching, pungent in warning, heavenly in comforting, and graceful in encouraging, that hard must be that heart in his audience that could sit unmoved, or go away unprofited; for a divine unction gave power to the word. Yea, I have heard him preach, with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, till the shouts of saints and cries of penitents mingled, completely drowned the highest strain of his stentorian voice.

Such was Daniel Ostrander. Firmly, faithfully, and wisely did he hold on to the plough, nor looked back till called into his heavenly rest. He was well schooled at an early day; for the first nine years of his itinerant life were spent principally among the sharp-eyed enemies of Methodism at that day in New-England, where the battles of controversy called into action all the heavenly armour, so essentially necessary as a panoply of a Methodist preacher. There in those days, in all his conflicts, he proved himself a workman that needed not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. It was there, too, that He, who gave Adam his Eve, gave our dear brother his excellent Mary Bowen, who had in 1793, in the bloom of her youth, believed in Jesus, and embraced Methodism perseveringly, in defiance of all the persecution which her choice of this people involved her in, till shielded by the protection of so worthy a husband of such an excellent wife. Such were Daniel and Mary Ostrander. Lovely in their lives, and in their death (almost) not divided; for in January, 1844, five weeks from the death of her husband, she triumphantly left the world and joined him in glory.

In the New-York annual conference of 1843 we for the last time saw his face, and heard his well-known voice. His fifty years' effective work was now done. We were not willing to lose him from the effective list. A committee from the conference waited on him, to know if he would try another year's voyage with us—but no: the same decision of mind which had characterized him through life, fixed him in his purpose to superannuate. The conference asked from him a semi-centennial sermon, to which he cheerfully consented. We heard it, in the presence of a numerous audience, in Allen-street church, in New-York.

As he had been, in a manner, the father of that charitable institution, "The Mutual Assistance Society of the New-York Annual Conference," he remained president of it until his death. With this exception, he wisely laid aside all the high responsibilities of church offices, and retired; but for how short a time! He preached occasionally on sabbaths until his last sickness; and on the 29th day of August, 1843, at a camp meeting near Newburgh, he preached his last sermon from Psa. cxlvi, 8,—"The Lord openeth the eyes of the blind," &c. It is said to have been an able discourse, and one of his happiest efforts.

Through the whole summer he seemed to be ripening for glory, and soon after this last message his health failed, and his patient, humble, tranquil mind seemed cheerfully to look forward to the approaching crisis to which he drew near with all that calm serenity that is common to the pure in heart, and died in perfect peace, in full prospect of his immortal crown; for when, in view of eternity, he was asked if he was ready and willing to go, he replied, "Yes! I know not any reason why I should not be." This was the last sentence that he spoke, so completely was his strength exhausted; yet when it was said to him that Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life," and that St. John saith, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord," this is a glorious truth, he, with joy glowing in his countenance, said, "Yes!" and when asked if Jesus was still precious, he, with his last and utmost effort, cried, "Yes!" and peacefully fell asleep in Jesus. So lived, so laboured, so suffered, and so died our beloved brother, Daniel Ostrander, literally worn out in the best cause; his whole life, from sixteen years of age to his seventy-second year, a living sacrifice to God. What thousands of his children shall rise up in the last day and call him blessed!

42. Eben Smith was born in the town of Lenox, Berkshire county, Mass., July 18th, 1774. His parents, however, removed with him to Kinderhook, Columbia county, N. Y., while he was yet very young, where he continued to reside until after his marriage. His parents were religious persons, strictly moral in their conduct, and members of the Baptist Church. This circumstance was undoubtedly the occasion of directing his attention to the subject of religion while he was yet a child.

At the age of thirteen years he was converted to God; and though the knowledge of sins forgiven was not professed by any person he knew, yet such was the evidence of this change in his own heart, that he boldly testified to all that God had pardoned his sins. He maintained this state of favour with God for the space of two or three years. Not finding any church to whose doctrines he could subscribe, he declined entering into visible communion with any; and as it frequently occurs in such cases that persons decline in their religious state, so this course terminated with him. For the period of about ten years he remained cold and comfortless.

While in this condition, he entered into married life; and being, in this relation, connected with the first Methodist with whom he had become acquainted, he was induced to attend Methodist preaching in Great Barrington, Mass. It was here, in a revival of religion in the summer of 1801, under the ministry of Allen Miller, a local preacher, that he recovered his forfeited peace. Out of this revival a class was formed, to which he was appointed leader. During this year he was licensed as an exhorter, and soon after obtained license to preach.

In the month of November, 1803, he commenced his itinerant labours in the Litchfield circuit, Conn., under the direction of the Rev. Daniel Ostrander, then presiding elder of the New-London district. He was admitted on trial in the New-York conference in the spring of 1804, and appointed to Litchfield circuit. He continued to fill appointments, on circuits and stations, until the year 1819, when he was made presiding elder of the Hudson River district. On this district he was continued four successive years, and was then appointed presiding elder on the Saratoga district, on which he was continued until the close of the conference year 1825. Difficulties now occurred in his history, which caused him to be left without an appointment during the year 1826. Six of the years between 1827 and 1840 brother Smith held an effective relation to the conference, and received appointments. Seven of these years he was a supernumerary; and from the year 1840 until his death, (May, 1844,) he was superannuated. Brother Smith was also a member of the General Conference in the years 1812, 1816, 1820, and 1824.

During the active part of his life, brother Smith was a man of much zeal, diligence, and usefulness. He was a great lover of Methodism, ardent in his friendship, and cautious in speaking of the character of absent persons.

It should be recollected that brother Smith entered upon the work of the ministry among us at a time when Methodism was in its beginnings; when our preachers were compelled to encounter great opposition at every step; when many professors of religion frowned and ridiculed, and sinners despised and persecuted; when our preachers travelled extensively, much of the time necessarily absent from home, and when their labours were more abundant; when their wants, also, and those of their families, were but partially supplied; and yet, in all these privations, labours, and sufferings, he never sought retirement from the arduous duties of our itinerancy, but went on rejoicing in his God and in the prosperity of his cause. As a preacher, brother Smith was acceptable and useful, especially during the early part of his ministry. In the year 1827 he asked and received a supernumerary relation to the conference.

In December, 1842, brother Smith was suddenly prostrated by that alarming disease, paralysis, and for a time his partial restoration, even, seemed doubtful. However, it pleased God to preserve him a while longer; but, during the winter of 1844, a complication of diseases developed themselves. Asthma and dropsy, combining with his already greatly debilitated condition, rendered it more than probable that he could not long survive. Under these accumulated afflictions he spent the last few months of his life; and though it was manifest to all that he was rapidly sinking, yet his sufferings were not extreme. God was merciful to him; not a murmur fell from his lips. He expected his end, and was fully prepared to meet it. Blessed with his reason, he took pleasure in conversing with his family on his approaching dissolution, and often expressed his "anxiety to go." While in hourly expectation of the event, he said to his son, he had always had a dread of the pains of death, however fully prepared to meet it; but now he could find no dread, no shrinking even of the flesh. And on the 18th of May, 1844, in the seventieth year of his age and the fortieth of his ministry, at his own residence in Milton, Ulster county, N. Y., he departed this life in great peace of mind, in full confidence and hope of eternal life, through the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ.

43. Reuben Harris was born in Canterbury, Windham county, Conn., the latter part of the year 1776, and was awakened and converted to God by the instrumentality of Methodist preachers in the autumn of 1800, and very soon united with the M. E. Church. He not only united with the Methodist people as the people of his choice, but he studied and became firmly attached to the entire system of Methodism, in its doctrines, discipline, usages, and government; from which he never swerved to the day of his death. He received his first license as a local preacher Nov. 26th, 1802, and was admitted on trial into the itinerant ranks at the New-York conference, held at Ashgrove, June, 1803, and offered himself a volunteer for Upper Canada, where he travelled two years. In 1805 he returned to the States, attended conference, was received into full connection, ordained deacon by Bishop Asbury, and stationed on Brandon circuit, Vt.; 1806, on Fletcher circuit; 1807 he was ordained elder, and stationed on Middletown circuit, in Connecticut.

He continued effective, and filled various appointments in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, on Long Island, and in Westchester county, New-York, until 1823, when he was returned supernumerary, which relation he held until 1829, at which time he took effective work. In 1834 he was again returned supernumerary, and in 1839 became finally superannuated, and moved with his family to Chardon, Geauga county, Ohio, where he laboured as health and opportunity permitted.

In the latter part of December he left his home with the intention to spend the winter further south, and return by the way of New-York, and be present at the conference. He travelled as far as Lancaster, Ohio, where, after preaching on sabbath, the 11th of Feb., he was taken with congestive fever, which closed his mortal career on Thursday, Feb. 15th, 1844, in the 68th year of his age. He died in peace and full assurance of hope.

Brother Harris, though of a peculiar mental constitution, was uniformly pious, a man of great patience and perseverance in labour; the Bible was to him the book of books. He was sound in doctrine, and a useful minister of the New Testament. He laboured long and suffered much in the cause of his Master, and has gone, we trust, to receive a crown of life from the Lord, the righteous Judge.

44. Lewis Pease was born in the town of Canaan, Columbia county, New-York, on the 7th of August, 1786. His parents were respectable and pious, and both members of the church of Christ. From early youth his mind was impressed by the Holy Spirit with a sense of his sin and danger, and this impression was deepened by his own reflections upon death and judgment. In the anxiety of his soul, he earnestly inquired what he must do to be saved. Having been educated in the peculiarities of Calvinism, he feared that an eternal decree had for ever excluded him from divine mercy; and his distress and despair on that account became so great, that he was strongly tempted to put an end to his own life to know the worst of his case. But God delivered him from that temptation, and directed him to the Methodists, by whom he was taught a general atonement and a free salvation. At length he was enabled to seek the Lord with all his heart; and in a prayer meeting on the 30th of January, 1805, God spoke peace to his soul. The next April he joined the M. E. Church; and soon after, at a quarterly meeting in the town of Cornwall, his doubts and fears were entirely removed, and he obtained a clear witness of his acceptance with God.

Shortly after this he was afflicted with a severe illness, from which he was not expected to recover. But he had no fears. He even "desired to depart and be with Christ, which is far better;" but he could say, "Not my will but thine be done." Upon that bed of sickness he first received the impression that he was called to the gospel ministry, and God raised him up to preach that gospel to listening thousands.

The impression that he was called to preach the gospel ripened to conviction, and brother Pease took the usual course for admission into the ministry. In the fall of 1806 he received authority from the church to labour for the good of souls, first as an exhorter, and soon after as a local preacher. His services were so acceptable to the church, that he was duly recommended to the annual conference held at Coeymans, New-York, in April, 1807, received on trial, and appointed to Brandon circuit. In 1808 he travelled Cambridge circuit, and at the close of the year was admitted to deacon's orders. In 1809 he travelled Buckland, and in 1810 Pownal circuit. In 1811 he was ordained elder, and appointed to the city of Albany. In 1812 and 1813 he was stationed in Brooklyn, L. I., but in June of the latter year his health failed. He was taken with bleeding at the lungs, which continued almost daily for fifteen months. In 1814 and 1815 he received a superannuated relation. In 1816 he was appointed to Pittsfield circuit, but after travelling two or three months his health failed, and in 1817 and 1818 he was superannuated. In 1819 and 1820 he was appointed to Otis, Mass. In 1821 and 1822 he was again stationed in Brooklyn. This was a severe trial to him, as his health was poor, and he had once failed on that station; but, for his relief, the church obtained the assistance of a local preacher the first year. Here the labours of brother Pease were abundantly blessed. A revival of religion commenced in August of the first year, and continued till the close of the last, and two hundred souls were added to the church. In 1823 and 1824 he was stationed in Hartford, Conn., and in 1825 and 1826 at the Union church, Philadelphia. In 1827 and 1828 he was appointed to Champlain district. At the close of the first year he attended the General Conference at Pittsburgh, and the next March he was again attacked with bleeding at the lungs, and obliged to retire from his district. In 1829 he received a supernumerary relation, and was attached to Lee and Lenox circuit; and in 1830 and 1831 he was stationed in the city of New-York. His health becoming more feeble, and his wife being in a decline, he took a supernumerary relation in 1832, which was continued in 1833, 1834, and 1835. During these four years he was attached to Lee and Lenox circuit, in the last of which he was called to part with his beloved wife. On the 17th of March the companion of his youth, the partner of his joys and sorrows through life, was removed from her earthly pilgrimage to the heavenly inheritance. In the following September he commenced his labours as chaplain to the New-York city hospital, and continued in that institution the ensuing year. In 1837, 1838, 1839, and 1840, he was appointed supernumerary to Richmond. In 1841, 1842, and 1843, he was superannuated, and continued to reside in Richmond. He was not idle during these years of infirmity and decline, but laboured in the cause of God as much as his health would allow.

On the 2d of December, 1835, he was united in marriage with Ann Eliza Wheeler, of Great Barrington, Mass., a worthy and pious member of the M. E. Church. With three children she survives him, to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father.

In 1840 he records the following serious and impressive reflections:—"Jan. 30th, 1840. It will be thirty-three years next April since I joined the travelling connection, and thirty-five years this day since God spoke peace to my soul. I hold this day in grateful remembrance as the day of my spiritual birth. I feel a degree of thankfulness and deep humility of soul for the goodness of God to me. I have had my trials and afflictions, my joys and sorrows, but I have no regrets for any sacrifice I have made in the cause of God. I have been too unfaithful, and of too little service to the church and to the world. I have some hope of heaven; and if I am spared, I mean to give up my life and my all more fully to the service of God."

In 1841 brother Pease had a severe return of his disease, and his ulcerated and bleeding lungs left feeble hope of his recovery; but his soul was happy in God. One day, when he was thought to be dying, many of his friends flocked to see him, as they thought, for the last time; but he was raised up once more to stand upon the walls of Zion, though only for a short time, and to sound the alarm to perishing sinners.

In January, 1843, he was sent for by the friends in Troy to supply the North Second-street church, while their pastor lay sick. There he preached with an unction from on high, and his labours were greatly blessed. Through his instrumentality and that of brother Marshall, two hundred and eight souls were added to the church in a few weeks; but these were the last labours of his life, and the last trophies he was ever to win for Christ. He had been feeble for a number of years, and his increasing infirmities admonished him that his toils and sufferings were drawing to a close. He had fought a good fight, he had kept the faith, he had finished his course, though at an humble distance from the triumphant apostle, and henceforth there was laid up for him a crown of glory that fadeth not away.

Brother Pease returned home from the last session of the Troy conference feeble and sick, and was compelled to take to his bed. His principal disease was scrofula, seated upon the lungs, stomach, and other internal organs, which were greatly impaired, or almost destroyed by ulcers. From that time months of pain were meted out to him. His sufferings were great, almost beyond human endurance; but he was wonderfully supported by the power of divine grace. The Good Shepherd was near, to attend him through the valley of the shadow of death; and on the borders of the grave, he was happy in prayer and singing praises to God. A friend was charged to bring this message from his dying lips: "Tell the conference that I died in the full faith of the gospel, as taught by the Methodists; yes, tell the bishops, the elders, and the preachers, I love them and I love the Discipline, and all the ordinances and articles of faith it contains; yes, tell them I die in peace with all the members." When his speech had failed, he gave his weeping wife a silent token that all was well. Soon after he fell asleep in Jesus without a motion or a struggle, on the 5th of September last, in the 58th year of his age.

Lewis Pease was a brother beloved, a man of deep humility and fervent prayer His early advantages were small; but by application to study, and diligence in his work, he became an efficient and useful minister of Jesus Christ. His manner was unaffected, solemn, and impressive, and at times pathetic, which rendered him always acceptable. He firmly believed the doctrines, and was strongly attached to the discipline of the M. E. Church; and by his faithful labours many souls were converted to God, who, in the great day, will rise up and call him blessed.

QUESTION 12.—WHO HAVE DIED THIS YEAR?

TROY CONFERENCE.

1. CHARLES SHERMAN.—Brother Sherman was born in Woodbury, Conn., October 20, 1803. He was converted to God in the seventeenth year of his age, was licensed as a local preacher in 1823, and joined the travelling connection in 1830. He laboured in the ministry in each of the following circuits and stations, viz., Stratford, Burlington, Albany, and Troy. The two former were in Connecticut, New-York conference; and the two latter in Troy conference, to which he was transferred in 1834. In 1838 he was appointed presiding elder on Albany district, on which he laboured four years. During the last year on the district his health failed him; and at the conference of 1842 he was appointed at Jonesville, a small station in Saratoga county, N. Y. At the ensuing conference, June, 1843, it was believed that his labours were much needed in North Second-street, Troy; and he was therefore removed from his quiet retreat, and again appointed in Troy. Here his labours were too much for his strength; and after an illness of about three weeks, he departed this life, in great peace. He died March 10, 1844, aged forty-one. He has left a widow and one daughter.

Brother Sherman was truly a man of God, and much beloved by all who knew him. His mind was of no ordinary grade. He was an excellent preacher, delighting to exhibit the great and leading doctrines and duties of the Bible. He had but little confidence in the traditions of men, but unbounded respect for the word of God. He was clear in his method, and very forcible in his manner of address. His eloquence consisted in his simplicity. His preaching was always attended, more or less, with a divine unction and heavenly influence. He was an affectionate and sympathizing friend. His liberality knew no bounds but his limited means. He was truly "a burning and a shining light."

2. DANIEL HOLMES.—Brother Holmes was born in Newburgh, N. Y., August 24, 1802. He was converted in 1816, and entered the travelling ministry in 1832. He first united with the New-York conference, but in the year 1837 he was transferred to the Troy conference. Three years after this transfer his health failed, and he was returned in the Minutes a supernumerary.

Brother Holmes' suffering was long, protracted, and of a somewhat peculiar nature. His mind as well as his body was deeply affected. He was to some extent mentally deranged. He suffered much in view of his past life, and especially in view of his prospects in the life to come. But it pleased God, about a year previous to his death, to visit him with peace of mind, after which the power of temptation seemed in a good degree broken, and the enemy in some measure beneath his feet. It is doubted, however, whether his mind was ever perfectly restored to its former state of soundness. He nevertheless died in peace, much to the comfort of his friends. His death took place in Lansingburgh, October 5, 1843. He has left a widow and four children.

3. WILLIAM D. STEAD.—Brother Stead was the son of Rev. Henry Stead, a member of Troy conference. He was born in 1799, in the parish of Brayton, Yorkshire, England; and was brought to this country by his parents when three years old. He experienced remission of sin in the city of Albany, in the nineteenth year of his age. Although he had long felt it his duty to give himself to the work of the ministry, he did not do it until nearly twelve years after his conversion. Brother Stead was admitted on trial, in the New-York conference, in the summer of 1832, and appointed on Johnstown circuit: since which he has filled the following appointments, viz., Lansingburgh and Waterford, Sand Lake, Pittstown, New-Lebanon, Chatham, and Chester. It was at this last place he finished his course. He died on the sixth day of January, 1844, in the forty-fifth year of his age, after a protracted and very painful suffering. His patience in suffering gave good evidence of his deep piety and entire resignation to the will of God his heavenly Father; and in his last moments he gave satisfactory tokens that his faith overcame his last enemy. He has left a widow and three children.

Brother Stead was characterized by great fidelity, ingenuousness, and sobriety. He was remarkably modest in his pretensions, generally esteeming others better than himself. In all his intercourse with his brethren he was very affectionate and agreeable. He was a good preacher, remarkable for simplicity and ardor; and he was a most excellent pastor. Our much beloved brother has finished his course, and now rests from his labours.

PROVIDENCE CONFERENCE.

4. Reuben Bowen.—Of the parents and early life of the departed we have but little information. Previous to his embracing religion, he was infidel in his opinions; and took much apparent satisfaction in conversing on the subject, and perplexing those who were not well prepared to give a reason for their hope, and defend the foundation of their religion. He finally concluded to read the Bible with care, to prepare himself for more successful opposition to its truths. The result was a full conviction of its divine authority. He sought the Lord with a penitent, broken heart, and found Christ to his inexpressible joy. In 1835 he was received in the New-England conference on trial as a preacher. He filled several appointments with acceptance and usefulness. His last appointment was at Truro, Mass. Here he laboured nearly two years, with success. Near the close of the year his health failed, and he removed to Hopkinton, where he closed his useful life and labours, June 28th, 1843. His last sickness was severe, which he endured with Christian fortitude and triumph. Brother Bowen was a man deeply devoted to God: studious, laborious, zealous for God and souls, and bid fair for extensive usefulness. He has left a widow to mourn his early departure.

5. Joel Knight was born at Sudbury, Mass., May 4th, 1804. He was happily converted to God at the age of twenty. Soon after he felt it his duty to call sinners to repentance. This led him to devote himself to preparation for the ministry. After labouring some years as a local preacher, he was received into the New-England conference, January, 1830; and was appointed to labour at Northampton, Mass. In 1831 he was stationed on Wales and Leicester circuit. In 1832 he was received into full connection, and appointed to Greenwich and Ware. He was married July 5th, of this year, to Miss Jane Gould, of Hull, Mass. In 1833 he was reappointed to the same circuit. In 1834 he was ordained an elder; and appointed, in company with Rev. T. W., to Harvard. In 1835 to Lunenburg; 1836, to Dorchester; 1837, to Charlestown; 1838 and 1839 to Ipswich; 1840 and 1841, to Elm-street, New-Bedford; 1842, to Newport, Rhode Island; and in 1843 to Chestnut-street, Providence. In all these appointments Brother Knight laboured with more or less usefulness, and in some of them with eminent success.

Brother Knight was a man of unbounded benevolence, untiring perseverance, and burning zeal. Hence in many of his appointments he met with glorious success. "The memory of the righteous is blessed." His last illness was very short, and very painful; but God was with him, and he triumphed gloriously, and now rests in the bosom of his God. Brother Knight has left a widow and four children to regret his sudden departure:—one of them has since died. May the surviving share in the prayers and sympathy of the church!

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

6. Aziel P. Brigham; 7. Michael Quimby; 8. Lyman Wing.—No memoirs.

PITTSBURG CONFERENCE.

9. Christopher Hodgson was born in Westmoreland, England, on the 12th of September, 1811. His parents were Wesleyan Methodists. When about seventeen years of age he was made a subject of justifying grace, and soon felt an impression that it was his duty to proclaim to others the unsearchable riches of Christ.

In the year 1835 he was received on probation in the Pittsburg conference, and appointed to Ligonier circuit, on which he remained till some time in the year 1837, when he was removed by the presiding elder to Williamsport station. At the conference in 1837 he was appointed to Braddocksfield circuit; in 1838, to Redstone; in 1839, to Brownsville station. Here his health entirely failed, and he was compelled to give up his charge. In 1841 he was granted a superannuated relation, and remained in it to the hour of his peaceful death, which took place on the 25th of March last, at his late residence, in Stewardsville, Westmoreland county, Pa., in the thirty-third year of his age, and ninth of his ministry.

Brother Hodgson's mind was above mediocrity; his pulpit services were always acceptable; and his conduct was uniformly dignified, and such as became his profession. As a theologian he was bold and accurate; and of few can it be said with more propriety, he was "mighty in the Scriptures." The remote cause of his death was hemorrhage from the lungs, the immediate cause the influenza. In his last illness he suffered much, and suffered to the end; but the hopes he had recommended to others were his abiding consolation. A widow and several small children in his death have lost much—a husband, a father—their earthly all; and the church one of her most promising ministers. But to these losses a more cheerful submission may be yielded, assured as we are that he has gained more.

10. Thomas M'Grath was a native of Beaver county, Pennsylvania, but the precise time of his birth has not been ascertained. It was probably about the year 1817. His parents were from Ireland, and were respectable and consistent members of the M. E. Church, and Thomas was their eldest son. Parental instruction exerted a favourable influence upon his mind at a very early period, and prepared the way for his conversion in the days of his youth.

He was received on trial at the Pittsburg conference, at its annual session in 1836, and appointed to Braddocksfield circuit. In 1837 he travelled on Hanover circuit. In 1838 he was sent to Johnstown, where he laboured with great success. In 1839 he was appointed to Kittanning. In 1840 and 1841 he was in the South Common charge, in Allegheny city. In 1842 he was appointed to Wellsville station, and was reappointed in 1843. Here he laboured beyond his strength; yet he could not be persuaded to desist from the duties of his office, until his physician assured him that if he did not his life would be the forfeiture. With great reluctance he left his little family—a wife and infant child—and a much beloved congregation, in the month of April last, to try what influence travelling in a southern climate, and a sea voyage, would have upon his health. This was a dernier resort, but proved ineffectual. The tour was accomplished, but hope had fled. He returned greatly emaciated, to spend the evening of life in the bosom of his family and friends, and died on the 10th of July, 1844, at the house of his father-in-law, in Martinsville, Ohio, aged about twenty-seven years.

"Tell my brethren," said he, "of the Pittsburg conference, that I am feeble in body, but comfortable in mind; and hope to meet them in heaven." May the hopes that cheered his dying moments be realized in a happy fruition in heaven!

MAINE CONFERENCE.

11. Levi S. Stockman died at Portland, Me., June 25th, 1844, of the pulmonary consumption, at about the age of thirty-two years. Brother S. was a native of East Poland, a son of pious parents, at the early age of fifteen years a disciple of Christ, and for nine years a successful minister of Christ in the Maine conference, of which body he was a member at the time of his departure. In preaching he was surpassed by few in originality, and in success in winning souls to Christ. Singleness of purpose, and conscientiousness, marked his Christian course. He died peacefully, in full hope of a blessed immortality. By this providence a widow and three children are commended to the sympathies and prayers of the church.

12. Martin Ward died of typhus fever, at the parsonage, in Winslow, Nov. 14, 1843, in the forty-second year of his age. Brother Ward was born in China, Me., in 1801; embraced religion in 1820; joined the M. E. Church, and entered the local ministry, soon after. Subsequently he joined the Maine conference, of which he was a member at the time of his death. For about twenty years he served the church as a minister. He was methodical in his preaching, devotional in his character, patient in his sufferings, and peaceful in death. He has left to the care of the church a wife and five children, who deeply feel their affliction.

NORTH OHIO CONFERENCE.

13. Nicholas Willis was born in Caroline county, Md., Feb. 18th, 1778. He embraced religion, in the city of Baltimore, in 1801; was received into the travelling connection, in the Baltimore conference, in 1803; and continued in his calling as a travelling minister until 1820, when, in consequence of affliction in his family, he located. He continued to labour as a local preacher until 1833, when, his wife having died, he commenced, to use his own language, the labours of "a voluntary missionary."

From 1833 to 1839 he travelled, at his own expense, over nearly all the United States and territories, the greater part of Texas, and spent some time in Mexico, preaching, wherever it was practicable, the gospel of the grace of God.

In the fall of 1840 he was readmitted into the travelling connection, in the North Ohio conference, where he laboured faithfully till death removed him from among us.

His last appointment was to Dresden station, where he laboured from early in September till near the 1st of January, when he was attacked with disease; and after suffering with Christian patience and resignation for some two weeks, he closed his earthly pilgrimage in great peace, January 15, 1844, in the sixty-sixth year of his age, and the forty-first year of his ministry.

Brother Willis was respectable as a preacher, dignified in his manners, faithful in the discharge of all his duties, extensively useful as a pastor, and much beloved by the people of his charge. In the midst of much usefulness he was called from labour and suffering on earth to reward in heaven.

14. James Brewster was born in Greene county, Ohio, on the 6th of May, 1809; and November 20th, 1826, being in his eighteenth year, he became the happy subject of converting grace, and the following year, on the 4th of January, joined the M. E. Church.

In 1833 he received license to preach; and was taken on trial the same year, by the Ohio conference, and had his first appointment to Elyria circuit. Here, being exposed to the bleak winds of the north, and his constitution being feeble, in the beginning of the winter his health failed, and he was under the necessity of returning home; but with the spring of the year his health recruited, and he filled a vacancy till conference on the Greenville circuit. In 1834 he was appointed to Millersburg circuit, and at the next conference he was taken into full connection. In 1835 he was appointed to Dalton circuit; 1836 and 1837, to Medina; 1838, he travelled Wellington circuit; in 1839, Elyria station; 1840, Clarksfield circuit; in 1841, Savannah; and in 1842 and 1843 he was appointed to West Liberty circuit, where his labours ended.

Brother Brewster was an acceptable and useful minister of Christ. The Lord, by whom he was called to the ministry, gave him souls for his reward; and many in the day of eternity will rise up and call him blessed.

As he approached near the eternal world the enemy made his last assault; but it was in vain, he triumphed through "the name high over all." His last end was peace. His last words were, "Precious Jesus!" which died away in a whisper on his lips.

He died on Tuesday, the 25th of June, 1844, aged thirty-five years, one month, and nineteen days.

15. Charles Reed died on the 5th of December, 1843, in Wabash county, Illinois, at the residence of his son, Rev. Jacob E. Reed, in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He was born in Cumberland county, New-Jersey, on the 12th of November, 1760. He was converted to God some time in the year 1785, and united with the M. E. Church. In the year 1800 he was licensed to preach as a local preacher. In 1808 he was admitted into the Philadelphia conference, and ordained deacon by Bishop Asbury. In that conference he travelled on the Cumberland, Gloucester, Asbury, Bristol, Freehold, Chester, Dover, Dorchester, and Cambridge circuits. In 1830 he was transferred to the Ohio conference, and travelled the Huron, Brunswick, Medina, and Ashland circuits. In 1837 he was superannuated, and removed to the state of Illinois, where he continued to live and labour with acceptability and usefulness, until his death. Our venerable father Reed died in great peace, having obtained a "good hope," through grace, and knowing that if his earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, he had a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. In answer to numerous questions by his friends during his last illness, and shortly before he closed his last sufferings, in reference to the doctrines of the M. E. Church, as he understood them, and had for many years preached them, he said, "I have nothing to retract." The love of God manifest in the gift of his Son for the salvation of a lost and ruined world, and the atonement made by Jesus Christ, were the themes on which he chiefly delighted to converse and preach. "He was a good man, full of faith and the Holy Ghost." He rests from his labours, and his works do follow him.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

16. David Corey was born in 1797, and was converted to God in 1814. He was reared under Baptist influence, and did not unite with the M. E. Church until about a year after his conversion. Shortly after he joined the church he was licensed to exhort, and soon afterward to preach; and was employed by the presiding elder to travel on a circuit in the northern part of Vermont. At the ensuing conference he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and was appointed to the circuit which he had travelled the year before. At the close of this year he married, located, and engaged in the farming business. After some lapse of time he removed to the Oneida country, and joined that conference, and travelled there three years. At the close of this time he emigrated to the state of Illinois, and joined the conference at its session in Rushville, and received an appointment. He then travelled several years, part of the time in much affliction; and some few years since he superannuated, and continued in this relation until he died.

A member of the conference says, "I visited him a number of times during his last illness, and always found him strong in faith, giving glory to God. The last sermon he preached was on the occasion of the funeral of my wife. It was an excellent discourse, and seemed to find way to the hearts of the people. This was but a few weeks before his death. At one time I said to him, 'Brother Corey, have you your FRIEND with you now?' Tears of holy joy flowed down his cheeks. He said, 'My feelings are indescribable. The Lord is MY friend; he sustains me now!' A short time before he breathed his last he desired to be raised up in the bed, and, addressing himself to an unconverted friend, said, 'There is a divine reality in religion. I am a dying man, and will not lie!' He pressed his friend, with all his remaining strength, to fly to the Lord Jesus, and prepare for death. It made a deep impression. A few minutes before he died, he shouted, 'O glory to God!' and soon fell asleep in the arms of Jesus." This was on the 23d of August, 1844.

17. JOSEPH EDMONSON was born May, 1798, in the state of Virginia, of Quaker parents. He was related to a Quaker writer of his name in England. He delivered his first exhortation at a camp-meeting in Missouri. The meeting was held by our late beloved brother S. H. Thompson, who said this exhortation was such a stream of holy eloquence as he scarcely ever heard poured forth. He entered the travelling connection in Missouri in 1823, and continued in that conference several years. He was presiding elder there one year, and was once a delegate to the General Conference. He located in Missouri, but removed to Illinois, and was readmitted into the travelling connection, and received into the Illinois annual conference, about seven years ago; and laboured with great acceptability in the Springfield station, on the Lebanon, Edwardsville, and Waterloo circuits, and Bellville station. He was returned to some of these fields of labour several times; and as he laboured with great faithfulness and ability, he was always welcomed by the people. He also received appointments to some other fields of gospel labour. At the last session of our conference he was appointed to Edwardsville circuit, on which he continued to labour until a few days before his death.

Brother Edmonson lived in the enjoyment of the great blessing of sanctification. He said to a member of this conference, who visited him on the Tuesday before his death, "My soul is stayed on God." At that time he was almost insensible. I saw him afterward, and he told me to tell the conference that he could not preach the funeral sermons of brothers Otwell, Benson, and others deceased, that were expected of him. When he received the appointment, at the last session of the conference, to preach the funeral sermons of all the members of the conference that might die in the work during the year, he remarked to me, that possibly it might be ominous of his own approaching dissolution.

He was a good citizen, and an honest, industrious man. As a friend he was constant and faithful. His affection for his family was remarkably strong; and no man made greater sacrifices of feeling in this respect in carrying out the convictions of his duty to itinerate. Brother Edmonson's piety was ardent, uniform, and constant. "He was a good man, and full of faith and the Holy Ghost." But brother E. was not only a good man, he was also a great man. He possessed a mind of the highest order. And it is rare indeed that so powerful an intellect is accompanied by feelings so strong, a fancy so delicate, and an imagination so exuberant and yet so chaste. His preaching was systematic and argumentative. It was rich and sublime in imagery; strong, clear, chaste, and beautiful in language; and eloquent, forcibly eloquent, in delivery. His matter was scriptural, and was breathed out under the mighty influence of the living Spirit of God. He was of course very useful.

Brother Edmonson was extremely diffident and unobtrusive; retiring and simple in his manners; and very sociable, frank, and cheerful in his intercourse with his fellowmen. Those who knew him best, loved him most. Yes, he lives in the hearts of his brethren of the Illinois conference, and will not soon be forgotten. He died on Sunday, September 1st, 1844. Beloved, amiable, excellent Edmonson, farewell! after a short separation soon shall we again meet thee in heaven, in the bosom of thy Father and thy God. Amen.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

18. John W. Kanaga, our beloved brother, and fellow-labourer in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, departed this life in the town of Lynchburgh, Highland county, Ohio, on the 14th day of February, 1844, in the twenty-sixth year of his age. He was the son of Christopher and Susan Kanaga, pious and worthy members of the M. E. Church. He was from a child taught to fear the Lord, and brought up in the strict observance of the duties of religion. These well-timed parental instructions were not lost on him:—in his eleventh year he was awakened to a sense of his fallen condition as a sinner, and the necessity of a change of heart. After a painful struggle he obtained the forgiveness of his sins, at a camp-meeting, near Urbana. He united with the church of which his parents were members, and in which he had been dedicated to God; and in which he continued a member until he was called to the church triumphant.

In the fall of 1840 he received a license to preach, and was immediately employed by the presiding elder of the district to fill a vacancy on Jamestown circuit. At the conference held in Urbana, in August, 1841, he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to the same circuit. At the next conference he was appointed to Franklinton circuit. At the conference in Chillicothe he was received into full connection, and ordained a deacon, and appointed to Clarkesville circuit. Brother Kanaga commenced his labours on this, his last circuit, with more than usual buoyancy of spirit; and laboured faithfully until the second quarterly meeting, which was held at Lynchburg. During the meeting he suffered from slight fever, and pain in his head. He preached at the meeting an instructive, scriptural, feeling sermon, on 2 Tim. iv, 6–8. He preached, indeed, as though it were his last sermon, as it proved to be. His disease was winter fever, which soon assumed a malignant form, and baffled the skill of several good physicians. When he was told that his end was nigh, it gave him no alarm, death had no terrors for him—he was calm and collected, and his mind was kept in peace. There were moments of partial gloom, but they were soon succeeded by ecstatic joy. He was rational to the last; gave directions concerning his effects, chose the text for his funeral sermon, and the hymn to be sung on the occasion, and read it with a strong and full voice. He sung, and talked, and praised his Redeemer aloud. To write the many expressions of joy and triumph would occupy more space than is allotted us in this brief memoir. His funeral sermon was preached from Rev. xiv, 13, in the Methodist meeting-house in Urbana, to a large and weeping congregation; and his remains deposited in full view of the place of his birth.

GENESEE CONFERENCE.

19. Seth Mattison; 20. Nelson Hoag.—No memoirs.

INDIANA CONFERENCE.

21. John A. Decker was born in West Tennessee, May 19, 1808. When but a small boy his father emigrated to Indiana, and settled in Harrison county, where the subject of this memoir, at the age of eighteen, was brought to the knowledge of salvation, we believe through the instrumentality of Rev. Geo. Lock. In the fall of 1828 he received his first license to preach, and in 1829 he was admitted on trial in the Illinois annual conference. From this time he filled different appointments, first in Illinois, and subsequently in Indiana conference, with general acceptability, and some usefulness, up to 1834, when the conference held at New-Albany granted him a location at his own request. During his location he resided some time in Rome, and afterward near Petersburg, in both of which places his standing was elevated for piety and usefulness.

In 1840 brother Decker was readmitted into the Indiana conference, and appointed to Boonville circuit, where he laboured, suffered, and will long live in the affections of many of his charge. In 1841 he was unable to take any appointment. In 1842 he was appointed to Brunville circuit, where he travelled until some time in July, when he suffered an attack of hemorrhage from the lungs. From this time he declined rapidly; and on the 25th of October, 1843, after commending his wife and children to Almighty God, he departed this life, triumphing in the grace of that gospel which he had preached to others. Brother Decker was a man of feeble constitution, but possessed a vigorous mind. His attainments in theology, and especially in Bible knowledge, were very respectable. As a Christian minister his deportment was dignified and commanding; and a vein of unmixed piety ran through his whole course of conduct. His public ministrations were always rich in instruction; and we doubt not but many will rise up in eternity and call him blessed.

22. Ebenezer Patrick was a native of Vermont, and was born in the year 1792. Very little is known of his early history. He came to Indiana some time previous to 1820, about which time he was awakened and converted to God. Not long after his conversion he was licensed to preach as a local preacher, which relation he sustained with great respectability and usefulness up to the year 1835, when he was admitted into the Indiana annual conference. He travelled various circuits, and filled several important appointments in the conference, with much acceptability and usefulness; and on some appointments where he travelled his labours were followed with extensive revivals of religion.

Brother Patrick's last appointment was to the Princeton circuit, in Evansville district, where he laboured indefatigably in preaching and pastoral service up to July, 1844, when he was seized with bilious fever, which continued to progress in its ravages on his frame until the 16th of August, when, in a state of delirium, he put an end to life by dividing the blood-vessels of his throat with a razor.

MISSOURI CONFERENCE.

23. Uriel Haw was the son of Rev. James Haw, who was perhaps the first Methodist missionary sent by the church to Kentucky. Uriel was born May 13, 1799. We know not the time of his conversion to God, but his early entrance into the gospel ministry proves that he remembered his Creator in the days of his youth. He graduated to the office of deacon in 1824, in the Kentucky conference. The Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us," was then heard from Missouri, and responded to by Uriel Haw. The charms of his native state, his attachment to kindred and friends, his prospect of advancement and usefulness there, did not deter him from seeking in the then wilds of Missouri the wandering sons of men. After labouring for years on different circuits and the Cape Girardeau district, his health failed, and he was superannuated, then located. But finding his health improving, he applied at the last session of the Missouri conference for readmission, was received, and appointed to Charleston circuit. There he continued faithfully to fulfil the duties assigned him, until about two weeks before his death, when he sunk under the power of the prevailing fever. Great were his sufferings; and inquiring of his medical attendant if he did not think the disease would prove fatal, the doctor seemed disposed to evade the question. "O, sir," said brother Haw, "you need not fear candidly to declare your mind, for I am not afraid to die," repeating with much emphasis, "I am not afraid to die: I have grace to sustain me." Two days before his death his friends thought him dying: one asked him what were his prospects then? "They are," said he, "as I told you before. There is not a cloud—all is bright and clear. Glory to God! All is well! All is well!" which he frequently repeated during his sickness. During a severe paroxysm, the sufferer turned his eyes to the doctor, and said, "Doctor, what do you think of that struggle: is it not death?" He intimated that it was. Brother Haw cried, "Lord, cut short thy work in righteousness. O blessed Saviour, how I love thee! I love thee, because thou hast redeemed me: I love thee, because thou hast preserved me. O, blessed Lord, thou hast delivered me from all fear of death." He endured deep sufferings without a murmur; and died on the 7th of September, 1844. His last words were, "Jesus, I come; Jesus—" he seemed in the act of repeating, "I come." Earth heard it not, but heaven did.

Brother Haw was a man of ardent and affectionate spirit, and of considerable theological attainments. A good sermonizer, rapidly (perhaps too much so) pouring a flood of truth upon his audience, arresting attention, and producing conviction; and whether in charge of a circuit or district he faithfully performed all his work.

HOLSTON CONFERENCE.

24. Ira Falls was born and raised in Greene county, Tenn. He embraced religion when he was young, joined the church, and sustained the reputation of a consistent and pious Christian till he finished his earthly career. He entered the travelling connection as a probationer, in the Holston conference, in the fall of 1832; filled up the term of his probation acceptably; and was ordained, according to the economy of the church, first a deacon, and then an elder. He laboured acceptably and profitably in various parts of the work. He was zealous, studious, and devoted. His talents as a preacher were rather above mediocrity, and his profiting was manifest to all who heard him.

In the fall of 1843 he received his appointment to the Newmarket circuit, entered upon his work in fine spirits, and inspired the people of his charge with sanguine hopes of his success; but in the midst of his usefulness he was cut off by the hand of the destroyer. Some time in the winter he was severely attacked with cold, which speedily fell upon his lungs, and induced a pulmonary disease, to which he was previously disposed. He lingered till some time in the following August, when, with the calmness and serenity which faith in Christ alone can inspire, he departed this life in joyous hope of a blissful immortality, leaving his dying testimony to the truth and excellency of the religion he had recommended to others. He has left an affectionate widow, and a circle of friends, with the church, to mourn their loss; but they sorrow not as those who have no hope.

ARKANSAS CONFERENCE.

25. Solomon Holford, a member of the Arkansas annual conference, triumphantly left the shores of time for a mansion in heaven on the 4th of September, 1844.

Brother Holford was a young man of moderate talent, but of ardent piety and burning zeal, which, added to an amiable disposition, rendered him both popular and useful as a preacher.

He has left behind him one or two children, and gone to meet his companion in a more perfect region, where sickness, sorrow, labour, and all the painful appendages of mortality are for ever done away.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE.

26. Willie Ledbetter, son of Charles and Francis Ledbetter, was born July 31st, 1803. He was converted in early life, licensed to preach in 1821, and joined the Tennessee conference in 1822. He travelled three years, and located; but re-joined in a short time, we think in 1827.

The situation of his family caused him to locate again. In this relation he remained several years: a pious, faithful, and useful minister in the country in which he resided. In 1842 he removed to Tishamingo county, Miss. So soon as he arranged his business, his attention was again directed to the itinerancy; and he was readmitted by the Memphis conference, at Paris, Nov. 11th, 1843, and appointed to Tishamingo circuit. He entered on his work immediately, and laboured faithfully day and night. He was truly a man of prayer and faith. He arose early to pray and search the Scriptures on his knees. He never entered the pulpit to deliver God's word only from his knees; and verily the great Head of the church attended the word with the Spirit. He closed his labours at Hopewell, on the 8th of August, 1844; and his sermon on that day will not be forgotten on earth until this generation shall pass away, and we trust never in heaven. On the 9th he left for home, to visit his sick family. He was indisposed; and on arriving at home took to his bed, not to rise again. During his confinement he was patient, resigned—full of faith and the Holy Ghost. He often exhorted his son, William Charles, then confined, to put his entire trust in God; and also advised his wife to look to the same great fountain in her distress and trial. Shouts of glory to God often burst forth from his happy and enraptured soul in this his final trial and victory here below. He died on the 17th of August, 1844, in his forty-first year, and twenty-third of his ministry. His last words were, "Glory to God."

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

27. Henry Speck.—No memoir.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

28. James A. Shockley was born in South Carolina, in the latter part of the year 1809, of religious parents; and departed this life Sept. 12, 1844. At the early age of ten or twelve years he was converted to God, and became an acceptable member of the

M. E. Church. In 1840 he obtained license to preach; and the following year was employed to travel in the Decatur circuit. At the Mississippi conference in 1841 he was received on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to the Paulding circuit; in 1842 to Decatur circuit; and at the last conference (1843) to Whitesand circuit; and ere he had finished his year's labour on that circuit he was called to his reward. The circumstances of his death are as follows:—He attended a camp meeting on the Paulding circuit, apparently in fine health; but was here attacked with the disease which terminated in his death. During the eighteen days of his illness, severe as it was, not a murmur escaped him. His family reached him five or six days before he died.

His death was a signal triumph, a glorious exhibition of the excellence of the religion of the Bible. He said that he was ready to go, adding, "I have lived for this hour! God is here! I'm in glory now! This is heaven! Tell my father, and my presiding elder, that I die at my post, at the feet of Jesus, in sight of glory." As he entered the vale of death, he said, "My work is done. Amen. Glory to God." And amid the songs and shoutings of Christian friends around him he left this world.

Thus lived and died this man of God. He has left a wife and three lovely children to mourn their loss.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

29. Abel Hoyle was born in Lincoln county, N. C., Jan. 21, 1811. Of his early life we have no account; but think it probable that he was favored to some extent with religious advantages, as he was raised in a German Reformed community. He, however, remained indifferent on the subject of religion until the year 1834, when he was aroused to a sense of his danger, under the ministry of the pious Thomas Neal, and connected himself with the M. E. Church. On the 9th of August, 1835, he was powerfully converted to God, at the Rockingham camp ground, in the Lincolnton circuit. It would seem that very shortly after he felt moved to testify the riches of saving grace to his dying fellow-men; for in June, 1836, he was licensed to exhort, and in August to preach. At the conference in Wilmington, in 1837, brother Hoyle was admitted into the travelling connection, and appointed to Centre circuit. In 1838, to Rutherford; 1839, to Centre; 1840, to Bladen; 1841, to Rockingham; 1842, to Cokesbury; 1843, to Chesterfield; and 1844, to Pleasant Grove, where he ended his labours and life, on the 8th of September. He was attacked on the 29th of August with congestive fever, and was called to severe suffering in making his exit from earth; but he bore all with Christian meekness and patience. Four days previous to his death he arranged his temporal matters with as much composure as if he were about starting for conference; after which, when his weeping wife inquired in reference to herself and their little boy, he only raised his hands and eyes to heaven, and said, "Look up: look up: the Lord has promised to provide." And whenever he spoke of death it was with perfect resignation to the will of God.

Brother Hoyle possessed respectable preaching talents, and was successful wherever he laboured—always much beloved by the people of his charge. His remains were deposited in the burying-ground near Union church, where they will rest until the last trump shall wake them to eternal life.

30. Jacob Nipper, of precious memory, was born in Richland district, S. C., September 8, 1812. It is to be presumed that his early advantages, both of a literary and religious character, were good, as he gave ample evidence in his subsequent life that his spirit and mind had been well trained. From data found in his Bible, we learn that our brother was happily converted to God at Mount Pleasant camp-ground, in the Winnsboro' circuit, August, 1835; licensed to preach September, 1838; and admitted into the S. C. conference, at its session in Cheraw, in 1839. He received his appointment for that year to the Darlington circuit; 1840 and 1841, to Wateree mission; 1842 and 1843, to St. James', Charleston; and in 1844 to Pee Dee mission, from which field his sanctified spirit was transferred to the church triumphant.

We cannot so fully, in a few words, give the character of our lamented brother as is expressed in the notice of his death which appeared in the S. C. Advocate, from which the following is extracted:—"Our brother is too well known to require at our hands any laboured eulogy. He won for himself golden opinions wherever he was known; and carried away the best wishes and kindest regards of the people. As a man, a Christian, and a Christian minister of the gospel, he was without reproach: few men were more pure and unblamable; few ministers more successful in securing the regard and warm affection of his people. As a preacher, ardour tempered with discretion, simplicity, and a deep concern for the souls of men, characterized his efforts. He was always instructive, and frequently powerful, in his pulpit efforts."

We could not but expect that the last end of such a man should be peace. None who were present can ever forget the expressions of deep humility and self-abasement, of patience and resignation, of love and gratitude to God, and of confidence and holy triumph that fell from his lips. Nearly the last word he uttered was "Glory!" and the last, in answer to some brethren who asked if he still felt his Saviour to be precious, was, "I do."

Thus lived, and thus died, Jacob Nipper: a man of God, "called and chosen, and faithful."

31. John N. Davis was born in Mecklenburg county, N. C., Nov. 11, 1804; and, being favoured with religious parentage, he doubtless in early life had those principles of the doctrine of Christ grafted into his mind which in after days proved the power of God to his salvation, and shone out conspicuously in his character as a Christian and a Christian minister. He was converted August 11, 1832; and licensed to preach January, 1834. At the conference in Charleston, in 1834, he was admitted into the travelling connection, and appointed to the Bladen circuit; 1835, to Brunswick; 1836, to Columbia circuit; 1837, to Charleston; and in 1838 to the Pocotaligo mission, where he was continued until April, 1840, when his health began to fail. He, however, continued to attend his appointments until the latter part of July, though frequently not able to preach, yet trying as a dying man to help the souls of his charge from the rice fields to a better country. At the ensuing conference he received a superannuated relation, which he sustained until his redeemed spirit took its departure from earth to its heavenly reward, in June, 1844.

Brother Davis was truly a man of God. His motto in preaching, and in all his intercourse with his fellow-men, was, "Holiness unto the Lord." How many will claim him as God's instrument in their salvation eternity alone will unfold; but we believe that he left a sweet gospel savour wherever he went. And when he could no longer go as a missionary himself, he gave liberally of his substance to further the glorious enterprise; and in his last will and testament devised liberal things for the Lord. As might have been expected, he died like a Christian victor. Many blessed things fell from his lips, which were full of consolation to all who heard them. May his mantle fall on those who are left! His remains, at his own request, were carried to Columbia, where they will rest until the resurrection morn.

EASTERN TEXAS CONFERENCE.

32. Daniel Poe was born in Columbiana county, Ohio, Nov. 12, 1809. He was blessed with a religious parentage, of the Presbyterian order, who impressed on his youthful mind the sacred obligations of religion. His pious education was not in vain. At the tender age of fifteen he was awakened, and powerfully converted to God, at a camp meeting held in Wayne county, Ohio; and soon after identified himself with the M. E. Church. When but eighteen years of age he was appointed to the charge of the class of which he had been for three years an acceptable member. From a rational conviction of his duty to call sinners to repentance, he applied himself to the acquisition of a literary and theological education, with his characteristic energy; and after having acquired an academic course, he completed his studies in Augusta College, under the charge of Dr. Ruter.

In the fall of 1832 he engaged in the ministry. He was recommended to the annual conference held in Dayton for admission into the travelling connection. He was received, and appointed to the Letharts Falls circuit. In 1833 he was appointed to Eaton circuit; 1834, to Hamilton circuit; 1835, to Oxford circuit; and in June, 1836, to Oneida mission "west," which field of sacrifice and suffering he cultivated for three years, with abundant success. While in the mission he was united in holy matrimony with Miss Jane West Ingram, who was at that time also engaged in the mission. In 1839 he was recalled to the Ohio conference, and appointed to Jackson circuit, which field he cultivated for two years. In 1841 he was appointed to Tarleton circuit; and in 1842 he was transferred to the Texas conference. He and his devoted companion bade adieu to friends and home, rending asunder the tender and sensitive ties of a long and sanctified friendship, and went to distant lands to tell the "news that was too good to keep," the story of the cross.

In less than two short years he fell a martyr to a cause for the prosperity of which he made every earthly sacrifice, "counting not even his life dear unto him that he might finish his course with joy." But the best of all is, God was with him. In the last moments of dissolving nature he was sustained by that gospel which had become the power of God to his salvation. Being interrogated on his preparedness for death, he answered, "All is well. All is well." His sun went down in immortal brilliancy ere it had attained its full meridian.

The companion of his toils remained not to lament her irreparable loss. In the language of sacred song,

"They ceased at once to work and live."

They fell victims to the congestive fever, after a slow and painful illness. Their kindred spirits left their earthly tenements within forty-five minutes of each other. They were both deposited in one coffin; and while we as a conference mourn our bereavement, they slumber on, the undisturbed guests of the grave,

"Waiting the voice to rouse their tomb,
With sweet salvation in the sound."

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

33. Robert A. Steele in very early life received some deep religious impressions through the instrumentality of a pious class-leader in the M. E. Church, to whom he was sent to school, which impressions, as he often declared, never left him. In early life he gave his heart up fully to God, found pardon, and joined the M. E. Church. For several years after he joined the church he was engaged in the practice of medicine, during a great portion of which time he was unhappy, and at times cold in religion, owing, as he acknowledged to his friends, to his disobeying the call of God to the ministry. Although Brother Steele was a man of good mind, and reputable attainments, yet he was a man of much modesty and excessive timidity, so that it is believed he never became settled in his purpose to give himself up fully to the work of the ministry until the year 1832, when he obtained the blessing of entire sanctification, and openly, but with meekness and fear, professed it. He was admitted as a probationer into the Georgia conference in 1833, and appointed as junior preacher to Alcovia circuit. For eleven years he continued his itinerant career, serving God and the church, as a circuit preacher, stationed preacher, and for several years as presiding elder. Brother Steele had but a feeble constitution, and for a considerable time during his itinerant career was much afflicted with dispepsia. Much of his labour was performed in great bodily pain and weakness. At the last Georgia conference he was superannuated, and very soon thereafter confined by affliction. For some weeks he suffered much bodily pain, with great Christian patience and resignation, and a soul stayed upon God. Before he died, the doctor who attended him informed him that his end was nigh, when he emphatically replied, "Thank God!" He died in peace, in February, 1844, at about forty years of age.

Brother Steele was a man of great worth to the church; deeply pious, prudent, and prayerful; of strong faith, and good preaching talents; much beloved wherever he laboured, and the instrument not only of turning many to righteousness, but also of stirring up many to seek for and obtain the blessing of perfect love. Perhaps few men ever possessed more true missionary zeal than did our deceased brother; and for years he only waited for, and most ardently desired, the opening of Providence, that he might offer his services as a missionary to Africa. In health Brother Steele walked with God; in affliction God made his bed; and truly the rod and staff of God were with him when he came to walk through the valley and shadow of death, for he feared no evil. He died matured in grace and meet for heaven.

FLORIDA CONFERENCE.

34. James Woody was born in Leesburgh, Virginia; and departed this life in the triumphs of faith, on Sunday evening, the 9th of June, 1844. He died at Brother William Hays, in Thomas county, Georgia, being about thirty-four years of age.

Brother Woody removed to Florida in 1838; and as a local preacher sustained himself well among all the people. In the year 1841 he was employed by the presiding elder on the Leon circuit; the year following he was received on trial in the Georgia conference, and appointed to the Thomasville circuit, where he soon found kind friends, who loved him the more the longer he stayed with them. In 1842 and 1843 he travelled the Gadsden circuit. The reason of his continuance the second year is to be found in the fact that he so endeared his charge to him the first year that many thought their circuit could hardly live without him. He has left many seals to his ministry in that part of the work. At Columbus, in January, 1844, he was ordained an elder, and appointed to the Leon circuit, where many a glad heart leaped at the sound of his voice whenever he lifted it in the defense of the gospel of Christ.

On the 5th of June, at his appointment, he preached one of his most efficient sermons, on the general rules of our society, which had been his custom all round his circuit. At night he was attacked very severely with a chill, succeeded by what the physicians called a high grade of bilious congestive fever, which soon baffled all their skill, and laid his strong frame in the grave.

In all the relations of life Brother Woody proved himself to be a strong man. As a preacher, he was sound in doctrine and powerful in argument; as a Christian, he was devoted and spiritual; as a man, he was kind and affectionate; and as a father and a husband he was much endeared to his family, and laboured constantly to make them a pattern of piety to others.

From the time of receiving his last appointment from the conference, he seemed to have had a presentiment that his end was nigh. He frequently spoke to his companion upon the subject, and expressed himself concerning his departure, believing the time drew nigh. During his short illness he spoke of death with great composure, and said to his friends and weeping companion, "My work is done;" and although prevented in some degree by the severity of his fever from talking rationally at all times, yet at lucid intervals he gave ample testimony, as he had done for many years past, that all was well.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

35. Andrew P. Harris was born in Madison, Georgia, July 24th, 1812; but brought up in Wellington, S. C. He was converted at a camp-meeting, in Pendleton district, and attached himself first to the Presbyterian Church. He remained in this communion but a short time, removing to Tennessee; and in September, 1834, was licensed to preach as a local preacher in the M. E. Church. In January, 1837, he was admitted on trial in this conference, and received into full connection at the end of two years; passed to elder's orders, and was ordained in due time. He was last employed on a mission to the coloured people. His health failed in the latter part of the year, and he died early in January, 1844. His last reply to the questions of his friends was, "All is well with me."

36. Seymour B. Sawyer was born in North Carolina, on the 8th of December, 1808. His parents removed to Indiana, where he was converted to God, on the 1st of October, 1821, under the ministry of the Cumberland Presbyterians, to which body of Christians he attached himself. In August, 1827, he was licensed to preach among them. After travelling six months, his health failed, and he located. Dissenting from some of their doctrines, he returned his license, and removed to Mississippi, where he joined the M. E. Church, in March, 1830, and was licensed as a local preacher the same year. In 1832 he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and stationed in Montgomery. He filled with great acceptability and usefulness many of the most important appointments, until 1843, when his health failed, in the station at Wetumpka, where he died.

Brother Sawyer was a man of mild and amiable disposition, greatly beloved by all who knew him. His sermons were remarkable for their simplicity and their spirituality. As a pastor, he was diligent and affectionate, visiting all his charge, administering instruction and comfort. The latter part of his life was one of almost unparalleled affliction. In feeble health himself, his wife, reduced to utter helplessness by disease, required his constant attention day and night; and when every other hope had failed, he supposed a change of climate might be beneficial, and accordingly made an attempt to reach his mother's, in Indiana. His wife died on the journey, in Nashville, Tenn. He immediately returned to Alabama, and on his homeward journey buried his son. On reaching Wetumpka, he was attacked with pneumonia, which terminated his race, after a most patient suffering of eleven months. Early in the morning of his last day, he called to his bedside the kind friend at whose house he suffered, and said to him, "This will be my last day." The doctor came into the room, and said, "How are you, brother Sawyer?" "Sit down, sir," said he, "and see." The following conversation then took place:—"Doctor, do you not think I am dying?" "No, sir, but you may be dying very soon." "Well, sir, you may not think I am dying; but I shall be in heaven to-day." On which day, September 23, 1844, about half-past twelve o'clock, he departed to be with Christ.

37. JOHN GILMORE.—No memoir.

38. HAMAN BAILEY was born in Tennessee, and from his earliest life trained in the doctrines and usages of Methodism. At a very early age he was converted to God, and became a member of the church, which he adorned by a most exemplary and blameless life. In 1840 he was received into the Alabama conference, and appointed to Wills Valley circuit. In 1841 and 1842 he travelled the Ashville mission; and in 1843 and 1844 Jacksonville circuit. On this last circuit he closed his earthly labours, and entered into the rest provided for the faithful minister. It is due to the memory of our deceased brother to say, that no man ever laboured with more usefulness and acceptability among his people than did Brother Bailey. His life was a practical comment upon the Biblical doctrine of sanctification. He preached it in the pulpit, and from house to house. Although his early opportunities were limited, yet such was his thorough acquaintance with the Bible that he was considered an able preacher of the New Testament. He departed this life January 11, 1845. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

39. HENRY T. HILL was born in Union district, S. C., September 8, 1812. He was blessed with pious parents; and, as might be expected, embraced religion when young, and lived a pious and devoted life, until his happy exit, which took place Feb. 12, 1845. He was licensed to preach in 1839; and in 1840 was admitted into the Alabama conference, and appointed to Athens circuit.

His piety and zeal were remarkable, and but for these his beginning was most unpromising; but he was called of God to the work, and his "profiting" soon appeared to all men. He was afflicted for some months; but bore it with Christian fortitude. His mind was calm and peaceful. Jesus, whom he had preached to others, was his strength, and comforted and supported him while the waves of Jordan were rolling round. Death had no terrors for him. His was a triumphant death. He wished it to be known that he was gone from this world of suffering and toil to one of rest and happiness. His last words were, "I am happy. All is well."

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

40. NATHANIEL B. MILLS, an aged and venerable servant of God, departed this life, in the confident hope of a blissful immortality, at the house of Mr. George Cassell, in Carroll county, state of Maryland, on the 20th of February, 1845, at the close of the seventy-ninth year of his age, and the fifty-eighth of his ministry.

The only information in relation to his early life, conversion, and call to the ministry, to which access was had was derived from a brief statement furnished by himself, a short time before his death, from which we collect the following facts.

He was born in Newcastle county, state of Delaware, on the 23d of February, 1766. Up to the fifteenth year of his age he indulged, as he himself admits, in the usual follies and vices of youth; not, however, without serious and frequent reproaches of conscience. At this early age, when just emerging from childhood, he was brought, chiefly through the instrumentality of Methodism, to the discovery of his lost condition as a sinner, and his need of salvation through the merits of our Lord Jesus Christ. He was not "disobedient unto the heavenly vision," but promptly, and with full purpose of heart, entered upon the important work of securing, through faith, an interest in the atonement of Christ. Or, to use his own language, he "became an habitually serious seeker of salvation." It was not, however, until two years subsequent to this remarkable event in his early history, that in the seventeenth year of his age, he found, what he had thus so long and assiduously sought, "redemption in the blood of Christ, even the forgiveness of sins." "Not long after," as he informs us, "by a singular circumstance," which, however, he does not name, "I was convinced of inbred sin," and induced to seek entire sanctification through the blood of Christ. "Which," to use his own language, "I trust I found, in some degree at least, about the twentieth year of my age." "Soon after my conversion," he continues, "I felt desires to warn my fellow-men to flee the wrath to come; which I did first in my own neighbourhood, and then at a distance, as Providence opened the way." After much prayer for divine direction, and careful self-examination, that he might not be deceived in a matter of so much importance to himself and others, he offered himself, and was received on probation in the Baltimore conference, in the spring of 1787. His first circuit was Trenton, in New-Jersey, and his first colleague the Rev. E. Cooper, whom he justly styles, "that eminent minister of Jesus Christ," and who, he adds, "was a father to me." In 1778 he travelled Salem circuit, West Jersey; in 1789, Newburg circuit, state of New-York; 1790, Hartford, Connecticut; 1791, Fairfield, in the same state; 1792, Dorchester, Eastern Shore of Maryland; 1793, Caroline; 1794, Lancaster, Va.; 1795, Federal, George Town, and Annapolis; 1796, Alleghany and Winchester; 1797 and 1798, Ohio; 1799, Prince George's; 1800, Pittsburg and Redstone; 1801, Huntingdon; 1802, Muskingum and Clarksburg; 1803, Alleghany; 1804, Baltimore; 1805, Monroe; 1806, Erie; 1807, Pendleton; 1808, Prince George's; 1809, Lancaster; 1810, Harford and Carlisle; 1811, Greenbriar and Great Falls; 1812, Redstone; 1813, Littleton; 1814, Chambersburg and Frederick; 1815, Lancster; 1816, Berkley; 1817, New-River; 1818, Harrison; 1819, Greenfield; 1820, Monongahela and Randolph; 1821, Harford; 1822, Juniatta and Auchwick; and in 1823, Lycoming. At the conference of 1824 he took a superannuated relation; but, not being satisfied with it, he, at the following conference, resumed an effective relation, and was appointed to South Branch; in 1826, to Hancock; 1827, Berkley; 1828, Bedford; and in 1829 a supernumerary relation was given him, and he was appointed to Rockingham; in 1830, Great Falls; 1831, Loudon and Fairfax; 1832, Baltimore circuit; 1833, Liberty; and in 1834, Frederick. At the conference of 1835 he was again placed on the superannuated list, in which relation he remained to his death. He, however, continued to labour, with untiring constancy, as he had strength and opportunity; and the last public act of his protracted ministry was performed on the last sabbath of his life. On the morning of that day he preached his last sermon, from Judges v, 31, "So let all thine enemies be scattered, O Lord; but let them that love him be as the sun when he goeth forth in his might."

On the following Thursday morning, the day on which he closed together his labours and his sufferings, he led the devotions of the family: so that, in his case, the pious wish of the venerable Wesley seemed to be fully realized:—

> "O that without a ling'ring groan
> I may the welcome word receive:
> My body with my charge lay down;
> And cease at once to work and live."

Without a "struggle or a groan" he made his triumphant exit to the paradise and presence of his God, and literally ceased at once "to work and live." His remains were interred in the family burial ground of Brother Cassel, at whose house he died. The solemn occasion was improved by a funeral sermon, preached by the Rev. Robert S. Vinton, of the Baltimore conference.

Father Mills was a holy man of God. And though we are not permitted to claim for him entire exemption from the ordinary infirmities and weaknesses inseparable from humanity, we are at least warranted in saying that these infirmities are seldom found associated with greater purity of purpose and innocency of life. He was also a sound, good, and practical preacher, of the primitive school of Methodist ministers. He was, indeed, one of the last of that highly-interesting class of men; to whom, under God, the church and the world are so deeply indebted. His death may, to some extent, be regarded as the severance of the last link—so far, at least, as the ministry of this conference is concerned—by which the past and the present have heretofore been united. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace."

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

41. Thomas Smith was born on the 3d of June, 1776, in Kent county, Maryland; and died in May, 1844, at Chestertown, in the county and state of his birth, and in the sixty-eighth year of his age.

We would long preserve the cherished memory of our aged and beloved brother in the gospel, not only on the page of our Minutes, but on the tablet of our hearts.

Brother Smith furnishes us with the following abridged account of his early religious awakening:—"When I was eight years of age, and going to school, one of my schoolmates, about my own age, asked me where I was going, to heaven or to hell! I asked him what he meant by heaven and hell, for I knew nothing of either. He then gave a description of heaven, awfully sublime! He spoke of the joys of heaven, and its duration; its inmates, and their employment, serving God day and night in his temple, giving glory, &c. He then gave the most appalling description of hell I ever heard, and said his father told him so. From that moment I felt a desire to obtain the former, and escape the latter." Thus he became a true penitent; and sought the Lord with many tears, fervent prayers, and covenants. He was unacquainted with the plan of salvation, discouraged by his relations, and was assailed by fierce and violent temptations from Satan—hence his penitential state was deeply painful and distressing. About a year after, and in the ninth year of his age, he was triumphantly delivered, by the grace of God, through faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, and realized, in great power, the salvation of the gospel.

He says: "I was eighteen years of age when I first felt the impression to call sinners to repentance." He resisted for a while; but at length, after overcoming various doubts, fears, temptations, and embarrassments, yielded to the call of the church, and was duly authorized to preach the gospel.

At the quarterly meeting of the circuit, in April, 1798, preachers being greatly needed, the late Bishop Whatcoat, then his presiding elder, desired him to take a recommendation to the annual conference, to travel. This he declined; but soon after conference he was called into the itinerant work, by Rev. C. Spry, P. E., and was placed on Caroline circuit, May 20th, 1798. He was subsequently appointed, and laboured as follows:—1799, Flanders circuit, New-Jersey; 1800, he was admitted into full connection, ordained deacon, and appointed to Northampton circuit, Va.; 1801, returned; 1802, Dover, Delaware; 1803, Annamessex, Md.; 1804, Talbot circuit; 1805, Seneca circuit, New-York; 1806, Burlington; 1807, Asbury, New-Jersey; 1808, Lewistown, Delaware; 1809, St. George's, Philadelphia; 1810, Cecil; 1811, Smyrna; 1812, Kent; 1813, Accomac; there his health failed, and he was released until conference. In 1814, 1815, and 1816, he was allowed a respite, on account of ill health. In 1817 his health was improved, and he was again appointed to Kent circuit; 1818, New-Brunswick; 1819, Kensington; 1820, Kent; 1821, continued; in August of this year his health failed; and, in the spring of 1822, he asked, with great reluctance and sorrow, a supernumerary relation, which was granted, and continued yearly to his death.

Brother Smith was a man of unquestioned piety, and great urbanity of manners; a kind friend, a superior pastor, and an acceptable and useful preacher. He preached the gospel plainly, purely, fully, and zealously. His sermons were short and fervent. He was the subject of many and great afflictions, and consequent depressions of mind, during the last years of his life.

A few days before his death, he sent for his colleague, Brother Foulks, and gave directions relative to his burial. He desired to be buried under the pulpit in the church at Chestertown; and that the attendants should walk in procession from his boarding-house with his remains, and sing the hymn commencing—

> "Children of the heavenly King,
> As we journey let us sing;
> Sing our Saviour's worthy praise,
> Glorious in his works and ways."

He also requested that no sermon should be preached, or other notice taken of his decease, except the reading of the burial service, and the insertion of his memoir in the Conference Minutes; and finally, he wished it to be said to his brethren of this conference, that, in full view of his near approach to the eternal world, he felt that all was well, and that he died in love with his brethren. All his wishes were cheerfully complied with. He was followed to the tomb by a large concourse of devoted friends and brethren. A marble slab, with an appropriate inscription, marks the spot where he sleeps. We have enjoyed happy communion and fellowship here; and we hope to meet him beyond the dominions of death, and share together the triumphs of the first resurrection.

42. William Connelly was born in Talbot co., Eastern Shore of Md., in the year 1793 or 1794. Of the time of his awakening and conversion to God we are not informed. Some time after he joined the church he felt the burden of the word of the Lord resting upon him, and was licensed as an exhorter, and then as a local preacher, in which relation he was ordained deacon. He was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia conference in the year 1829, and ordained elder in 1831; and continued busily engaged in his Master's work until stricken by the disease which brought him to the grave. In the different circuits to which he was appointed, he discharged his ministerial duties with fidelity and success; and doubtless many will appear in the day of eternity who were won to Christ by his instrumentality. At the conference of 1843 he was appointed to Denton circuit; in 1844 he was returned, and continued to labour with his usual zeal until the 12th of August, when, while on his way to attend a camp-meeting on a neighbouring circuit, he was attacked by bilious fever. He returned to his house, from which he was permitted to go out no more with God's sacramental host on earth. He bore his illness with Christian fortitude; and as he passed through the valley and shadow of death, his last expression was, "Glory to God." Thus triumphantly our brother departed from this world, August 8, 1844.

As a minister of Christ, Brother Connelly was plain, practical, and powerful in his preaching. The interests of the church, both temporal and spiritual, lay near his heart; and with untiring devotion he endeavoured to promote them. As a friend, he was warm and generous. Buoyant in spirit, he was always a cheerful companion and a pleasant colleague, and most loved by those who knew him best. In his death the church of God on earth has lost a valuable minister, his wife and child a kind husband and father, and the community a useful man. But he rests from his labours, and his works do follow him.

43. Shepherd Drain was born near Laurel, Sussex county, Delaware, in the year 1807, of poor and respectable parents. They were worthy members of the M. E. Church, and "trained up their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." Their labour was not lost upon Shepherd. While unconverted he was quite moral; and while yet a boy he was convinced by the word and Spirit of God of his lost condition, and sought and found "peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ." He joined the church of his parents soon after his conversion; and continued so diligent in all his duties, so punctual and fervent in the use of all the means of grace, that before he had reached manhood he was one of the most useful members in his native neighbourhood. About the time he became "of age," he was licensed to exhort; and notwithstanding his education had been very poor, and his information still was very limited, he spoke with such warmth and fervor, and laboured with such zeal and diligence, that he was very profitable to the societies of his own and the adjacent neighbourhood; and the impression began to be fixed, not only upon his own mind, but that of many others, that he would have to operate in a larger sphere. In the fall of 1839, at a camp-meeting near his father's residence, he experienced the blessing of perfect love, which it is not known that he ever lost. In the spring of 1830, having become fully convinced of his call to the ministry, at the request of the presiding elder he consented to travel Accomac circuit. He was well received by the people, and laboured diligently, and with some success; and by earnest application to reading and study, under the judicious instructions of his skilful colleague, Rev. M. Sorin, he made rapid and great improvement in knowledge and gifts. Having been duly recommended from Accomac circuit, he was received on trial by the Philadelphia conference, in April, 1831, and sent to Snow Hill circuit, with Brother Lambden. Here his labours were highly appreciated, and he was blessed with considerable fruit; and, at the earnest request of the principal members, he was re-appointed to this circuit in 1832, and served there a second year with popularity and success. In 1833 he was ordained deacon, and appointed to Cambridge circuit, as the junior preacher; and in 1834 he was sent to Lewistown circuit. In both these circuits he gave general satisfaction, and had some fruit. At the conference of 1835 he was ordained elder, and appointed to the charge of Delaware city circuit. Soon after he received this appointment, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Creighton, of Dorchester county, Md. During this first year of his married life his wife was frequently sick, and in consequence he was unable to render his usual amount of service, and failed of his usual success. The two following years he was in charge of Talbot circuit. In 1838 and 1839 Church Hill circuit was his field of labour. His success in these last two places was not very great, though he was well received in both. In 1840 and 1841 he laboured in Princess Ann circuit, and was favoured with a considerable revival, and added many to the church. He was appointed in 1842 and 1843 to Accomac circuit, the scene of his first year's itinerant labours. His old friends received him cordially, and these years were spent pleasantly and profitably. From thence he was sent, in 1844, to Caroline circuit, where, after a few months' service, he closed his toils and his life, on the 12th day of November, in his thirty-eighth year.

His constitution was naturally delicate, but he never spared himself when he could do good. A fire occurred in Greensborough, the place of his residence, and to his extraordinary exertions to save the property of his neighbours we may trace his last illness. He was confined to his bed about ten days, and bore his extreme sufferings with almost unparalleled patience and resignation. Though usually calm, he frequently rejoiced, and often exclaimed, "My work is done: I shall soon be at rest." In this happy, peaceful frame he died. A widow and two children have been left to mourn their loss. May the Lord abundantly comfort them!

Brother Drain was blessed with a naturally cheerful, even temper, which, when thoroughly refined by religion, made him a delightful companion. The influence which he was thus enabled to secure over others, he endeavoured always to render subservient to the interests of the gospel. As a preacher he was plain, practical, pointed, and experimental. He recommended to others only what he himself enjoyed, and hence his preaching was often highly profitable. As a pastor he was mild, sociable, and pleasant —easily winning his way to the hearts of the people. Though mild, and extremely tender of the feelings of others, he never hesitated to discharge his duty faithfully. He rests from his labours, and his works do follow him.

"O may I triumph so,
When all my warfare's past;
And dying, find my latest foe
Beneath my feet at last!"

44. Joseph Lybrand was born in Philadelphia, October 3, 1793. His parents, George and Elizabeth Lybrand, were members of the Lutheran Church. They endeavoured to instil into his mind the principles of piety. His mother took great care to teach him to pray, and restrained him from many evils. At a very early period of life he was sensible of divine impressions, which inclined him to seriousness and much study. When ten years of age, he heard the Rev. George Roberts preach an alarming sermon, under which he was convinced of sin, and resolved to amend his ways. His convictions were still further deepened by reading a book of sermons, which he informs us in his diary he did with much prayer for divine illumination. He received no comfort, however, until some time after, when he heard the Rev. Seeley Bunn preach, under whose warm and persuasive exhortations he was constrained to cast himself upon the mercy of God, and immediately obtained pardon, to the joy of his soul.

It was not long before he was made sensible of the necessity of entire sanctification. He attained this in answer to prayer, by a simple act of evangelical faith, after seeking it day and night for three years, on what he calls "the ever memorable night of August 22, 1810." During this year also he felt it to be his duty to exhort his fellowmen to flee from the wrath to come; and obtained license for this purpose from the late Rev. Truman Bishop, the Rev. William Hunter being presiding elder.

Believing it to be his duty to give himself wholly to the ministry, he received license to exercise his gifts as a local preacher, at a quarterly conference in Union Church, April 9, 1811. By the same conference he was also recommended to the annual conference held in Philadelphia the same month, was accordingly received on trial, and appointed to Annamessex circuit. In 1812 he travelled Snow Hill circuit; 1813, St. Martins; 1814, Burlington, N. J.; and in 1815 he was appointed to Union Church, Philadelphia. The year following he was induced from domestic considerations to locate; but resumed his labours in 1817, and was again appointed to Burlington; 1818, Bergen; 1819 and 1820, Newark, N. J.; 1821, Elizabethtown; and 1822 and 1823, Trenton. The next and three following years he was appointed presiding elder on the Philadelphia district. In 1829 he was appointed to East Jersey district, which appointment, in consequence of ill health, he was compelled to relinquish at the close of the year. In 1830 and 1831 he was stationed at Paterson, N. J.; 1832 and 1833, Wilmington, Del.; 1834 and 1835, Fifth-street, Philadelphia; 1836 and 1837, St. Johns; 1838, St. George's; 1839 and 1840, re-appointed to Wilmington; and in 1841 and 1842, Harrisburg, Pa.; thus making thirty-three years of active devotion to the work of an itinerant Methodist preacher. His health, which for some time had been declining, compelled him in the spring of 1843 to change his relation; and during that and the following year he was appointed supernumerary to Trinity Church, Philadelphia. The last sermon he ever preached was in Harrisburg, on the evening of April 2d, 1843. His text was, "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly. And I pray God your whole spirit, and soul, and body, be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." 1 Thess. v, 23. At the close of the sermon he administered the holy sacrament to a large, weeping, and sympathizing audience, many of whom then beheld his face for the last time.

After his removal to the city, his health gradually declined, until he sunk into the grave. It was not, however, until the sabbath prior to his death that his disease, a pulmonary affection, assumed an appearance immediately threatening. Excessive difficulty in breathing prevented his lying down for several nights, and his only sleep was at broken intervals, while seated in an easy chair. On Tuesday evening he requested his family to retire as early as possible, as he thought he might be able to obtain some rest. Turning to Mrs. Lybrand, whom he supposed must be wearied with her repeated night watchings, he tenderly and earnestly importuned her to lie down. "Lie down," said he, "I think I can sleep, and sleep will be precious to me." Thinking it would lessen his anxiety, and contribute to his repose, she consented, and was about to retire; but soon after he called her to him, and proceeded to relate his experience of the deep things of God, his fervent gratitude for his many mercies, and his perfect submission to the divine will; and closed by saying, "Last night I had such sweet and precious communion with God; and now I close my eyes to sleep, hoping that sleeping or waking my thoughts will be of him and with him." These were his last words. At the close of this conversation she retired, her bed being in the same room with him. Between midnight and morning she saw a change in his countenance—his lips were moving, and his hands were hanging down. She ran to him, spoke, and pressed his hand; but before the family could be summoned, the silver cord was loosed, and the golden bowl was broken. Thus, on Wednesday, April 24th, in the fifty-second year of his age, and thirty-fifth of his ministry, he calmly sunk to sleep in Jesus. With a single bound he passed over Jordan, and at once entered into the joy of his Lord.

We feel great difficulty, within such narrow limits, of doing full justice to the personal and ministerial character of this eminent servant of God. From his conversion to his death, his life was one continued manifestation of the purity, power, and excellence of our holy religion. No man ever questioned his deep fidelity to God, or his immovable integrity to man. In his relations as a husband and father he was peculiarly exemplary, and to his family his loss is wholly irreparable. In his intercourse with his brethren he was reserved without offending by austerity, and yet frank and manly without the semblance of guile or covering. He envied no man, spoke evil of no man—no bitter feelings toward any human being: his was the "charity that beareth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things"—the love unfeigned. Contemplated as a Christian, his piety was of the most elevated character. He inculcated holiness by his sermons and example. He maintained a daily communion with God—habitual fellowship with the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. His much-loved motto was, "Onward and upward." We have heard him ring out that battle cry, in by-gone years, with a power and effect that will never fade from our memory. To us, indeed, he has long seemed to dwell in the midst of the Beulah land, or on the heights of Nebo, from whence his soul was continually refreshed with the prospect before him. For the last few months of his life his sufferings were occasionally very severe, but never did they for a single moment disturb or destroy his calm and solid repose in God. He was always resigned, always cheerful, always happy: no regrets for the past, nor distrust of the future, ever entered into his experience. Death had no terror for him whatever—his feet were habitually placed upon the neck of his last enemy.

As a forcible and eloquent preacher, we perfectly agree with one who has honoured his memory with a passing tribute of respect and affection, in saying, that "he had but few equals in the American pulpit." No man could see him in that holy place without feeling that a man of God stood before him. His chaste, solemn, and dignified deportment; his clear, musical, and distinct enunciation; his strong yet perspicuous style; his simple but pathetic illustrations; together with his masterly arguments and powerful exhortations; and, most of all, his extraordinary gift in prayer—combined to make him one of our most popular and useful preachers: and long will his name remain a sweet savour to thousands of our Israel throughout the states of New-Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. His brethren in the ministry at all times delighted to honour him with evidences of their confidence and attachment; and his memory is embalmed in their hearts, as well as in those of the thousands who through his instrumentality have been brought home to God. Finally, he deeply loved the doctrines and government of the M. E. Church, and he loved them to the end. Thus another of our most favoured ministers has passed away. He stands no longer on the walls of Zion, to lift up his voice in the shout of conflict, or to mingle in the glorious strife which still engages the sacramental hosts of God's elect. With him the warfare's o'er, the conflict past; while older and younger brethren are still left to struggle and to win. May a double portion of his spirit rest upon his brethren!

TROY CONFERENCE.

45. James Covel, jr., was the son of Rev. Jas. Covel, formerly a travelling minister in the New-York conference. He was born in the town of Marblehead, Mass., Sept. 4, 1796; and was converted, and united with the M. E. Church, in 1813. About two years after this he received license as a local preacher, and was employed by the presiding elder to travel on Litchfield circuit, Conn. In June, 1816, he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection; and the two following years he travelled on Pittsfield circuit, Mass., and Brandon circuit, Vt. In the year 1818 he was admitted into full connection, and ordained a deacon; and was appointed to travel on Dunham circuit, Canada; and in the year following he was on St. Albans. In 1820 he was ordained an elder; and his appointments since have been as follows:—Ticonderoga, St. Albans, Grand Isle, Charlotte, Peru, Watervliet, Brooklyn, Newburgh, New-Windsor, and New-York.

In 1835 he was transferred to Troy conference, and appointed principal of the Troy Conference Academy. In this institution he remained three years, and was then appointed to travel on Fort Ann circuit. In 1842 he was stationed in the State-street charge, in the city of Troy, where he remained until his Master called for him. He died while the Troy conference was in session at Schenectady, in the forty-ninth year of his age, and the twenty-ninth of his ministry.

His health had been failing for more than a year, but he did not entirely cease from his labours until a few weeks before his death. He was afflicted with a disease of the spine, producing extreme pain in the face, throat, and arms, and paralysis of the lower parts of the body and limbs. It is believed that his disorder was greatly increased, and his death hastened, by going into the water to baptize several persons, by immersion, some time in February or March. His sufferings were great before he died, but he bore them with calm resignation to God's will, and died in much peace. He has left a widow and four children to lament their loss.

Brother Covel was generally regarded as a good man, a consistent Christian, and a man of sterling integrity. He possessed considerable strength of mind, and was of studious habits. His reading was very extensive, and his literary attainments respectable. As a preacher, his talents were above mediocrity. There was nothing splendid in his sermons, but they were listened to with pleasure and profit by all pious and thinking people. His deportment was grave, and his manner dignified. In private his conversation was generally very agreeable and edifying. He was a man of an excellent spirit; kind and affectionate; and much beloved by all who knew him.

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

46. Billy Hibbard was born in Norwich, Conn., February 24, 1771. He was the subject of frequent religious impressions from very early childhood. At the age of twelve years he appears to have been evangelically convinced of sin, and though at that time he had no earthly friend to direct him to Christ, yet, guided by the Holy Spirit, he sought and found an evidence of his acceptance with God. This he retained about three years; at the end of which, through inexperience, and perplexity of mind, arising from the bewildering subtleties of Calvinism, and the influence of bad example, he lost that evidence, and again wandered in the dark wilderness of sin. At the age of twenty-one, through the divine blessing upon the preaching of the Methodist ministers, he was awakened to a discovery of his backslidings, and of the deep and aggravated guilt in which they had involved him; and, after months of bitter repentance, he was enabled again to believe in Christ, and was again restored to divine favour.

Constrained by the love of Christ, he soon began to call sinners to repentance Having laboured awhile with success as an exhorter and local preacher, and thus furnishing hopeful evidence of his ability, with the divine blessing, to be useful in a more extensive field of labour, he was admitted on trial into the travelling connection, in the New-York conference, in 1798, and appointed to Dutchess circuit. The next year he laboured on Cambridge circuit. In 1800 he was ordained deacon, and travelled the Granville, and the following year the Long Island circuit. In 1802 he was admitted to the order of an elder; and from that time to 1821 continued effective, and travelled successively the Dutchess, Croton, New-Rochelle, Reading, Cortland, Rhinebeck, Pittsfield, Litchfield, Granville, Chatham, and New-York circuits. From 1821 to 1823, inclusive, he was superannuated. In 1824 he was again returned effective, and continued in that relation four years, labouring on the Petersburgh, Salisbury, and Tyringham circuits. In 1828 he again took a superannuated relation, and in this relation was continued until every relation to the church and the world was severed by his death. This event occurred on the 17th of August, 1844, in the seventy-fourth year of his age, and the forty-sixth of his itinerant ministry.

Brother Hibbard was much beloved, both by his brethren in the ministry and by those among whom he laboured. Some eccentricities he had, yet his disposition to do good to the bodies as well as the souls of men we believe will not be doubted by any who knew him. He was a faithful and zealous servant of Christ and of his church. His affection for that branch of the church with which he was more immediately connected had been manifested by years of sacrifice, toil, and suffering; but it was especially evinced in the anguish of spirit he felt and expressed during and after the late General Conference, on account of the threatened division of the church. It has been thought that this anguish of mind more rapidly wasted the current of life, already nearly exhausted, and hastened the flight of his spirit to a pure and more peaceful society above.

As might be expected from such a life, his death was calm and peaceful. When asked by a son in the gospel how he felt in view of death, he replied, "My mind is as calm as a summer's eve;" and when asked by a son in the flesh if death had any terror, he answered, "No, surely."

47. Elisha Andrews was born in the town of Queensbury, Warren county, state of New-York, in the year 1802. When about eighteen years of age he was converted to God, and joined the M. E. Church. Having previously obtained license to preach the gospel, in 1824 he was admitted on trial into the New-York conference, and in 1826 was ordained a deacon.

During the first three years of his itinerant ministry, Brother Andrews laboured in Durham, Sullivan, and Leyden circuits. In 1827 he was transferred to the Philadelphia conference, and stationed at St. George's, in the city of Philadelphia. In 1828 he was ordained an elder, and at the same time transferred to the New-York conference. The five following years he travelled Coeymans and Catskill, Kingston, and Whitehall and Castleton circuits. When the Troy conference was set off, in 1832, he was included in it; and was stationed successively at Fort Ann, St. Albans, and Saratoga Springs.

In 1837 Brother Andrews was transferred to the New-York conference, and appointed to Middletown, Conn., where he laboured two years. The two following years he was stationed at Matteawan. In 1841 he travelled Cortland and North Salem. In 1842 and 1843 he was appointed to New-Rochelle, where his labours were highly appreciated, and where he still lives in the kind remembrance of the people. While on this circuit he was called to one of the severest of human afflictions. After a short illness, his beloved wife died, in May, 1843, at their family residence, in the town of Rye, leaving her husband and children to mourn their loss. She was a devoted Christian.

In 1844 Brother Andrews was stationed at Rose Hill, in the city of New-York; and though he was soon removed from the people of his charge, yet as a Christian, a preacher, and a pastor, he had obtained a strong hold on their affectionate regards. The following account of his lamented death is taken from an interesting memoir, written by Rev. P. P. Sandford, and published in the Christian Advocate and Journal.

"On Tuesday morning, Sept. 3, Brother Andrews left home for the purpose of attending the camp-meeting at Sing Sing. He took passage in the steamer Columbus. There was a great press of passengers on board, among whom were many women and children. When the boat had arrived within a few miles of Tarrytown, some of the machinery attached to the blower of the furnace gave way: this caused a great rushing of steam from a small steam-pipe, which occasioned great alarm and confusion among the passengers. Some thought that the boat was on fire; and many rushed toward the stern of the boat, where Brother Andrews was sitting, reading the Christian Advocate and Journal. He was observed to rise from his seat, drop the paper, and proceed to the extremity of the stern of the boat. Some say that they saw him with one foot over the railing, as though he were attempting to get into the small boat; but it does not appear that any one saw him after this, till he was seen in the water. How he got overboard, therefore, in all probability, will never be known till the light of eternity shall reveal it. It is probable that the great rush of the passengers to that part of the boat pressed upon him to that degree that he lost his balance, and fell overboard. He was seen in the water struggling for life; but in the confusion of the moment, no effort was made to save him; and it is said that the captain of the boat knew nothing of the matter until his arrival at the wharf at Tarrytown."

The tidings of his sudden death produced a deep impression, especially at the camp-meeting, and in his own congregation. The arrangements called for by this mournful event were immediately made. His body was recovered; and on the following Saturday, in that very church where his voice had so recently been heard pleading with sinners, his own funeral services were performed, amidst weeping relatives and friends. His remains, attended by many of his brethren in the ministry, and a large procession of the laity, were then conveyed to the place of interment.

By the death of Brother Andrews, five children were bereaved of their only surviving parent. Their destitute and lonely condition called loudly for sympathy and aid. Accordingly, measures were adopted for their relief, but as yet the result has fallen short of the necessity of the case. It is to be hoped that the church to whose interests Brother Andrews devoted his life, and in whose service he died, will not forget his fatherless children.

Brother Andrews was a good preacher, useful in his labours, and firmly attached to the doctrine and discipline of the M. E. Church. That he was a sincere Christian, the uniform tenor of his life for more than twenty years is the best evidence. He "lived by the faith of the Son of God, who loved him, and gave himself for him." His conversation on the day of his death, both at home and on board the steamboat, evinced remarkable spirituality and peace of mind; and when taken from the water, his eyes were closed, and his hands folded on his breast, as though he had calmly resigned his spirit into the hands of his Creator.

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Lebanon, N. H., May 20, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

1. James Dow was born in Bath, N. H., October 27, 1802. He experienced religion at the age of twenty-one years, under the labors of Rev. E. W. Stickney. In 1832, feeling himself moved by the Holy Ghost to call sinners to repentance, he gave himself to the work of an itinerant minister, and joined the N. H. annual conference. During his connection with this conference, he filled the following appointments with acceptability and usefulness, viz., Colebrook, N. H., Bethlehem, N. H., Barton, Vt., Walden, Vt., Barton again, Bristol, Haverhill, Tuftonborough, Gilmanton, and Derry, all in N. H. At his last appointment, October, 1843, he was prostrated with a fever, from which he never recovered sufficiently to resume his labors to any considerable extent. It was soon apparent that consumption had selected him as a victim; and at the ensuing conference he found it necessary to ask for a superannuated relation. In a few weeks after this, his decline became more rapid, assuring him that the hour of his departure was at hand. But without alarm he marked the indications of his approaching dissolution, calmly arranged his worldly affairs, selected his funeral text, and, being graciously sustained by the consolations of that gospel he had proclaimed to others, he passed away to join the church triumphant, December 21, 1844, from the place of his last appointment, aged forty-two years.

Brother Dow was emphatically a good man, and ardently devoted to the interests of the cause of God. His preaching talents were of a respectable order. His deportment was humble and unassuming, his disposition mild and affectionate, and he was much endeared to the people in his different fields of labor. But his work is done, he rests from his toil, having fallen at his post in the midst of his days. May we who survive follow him as he followed Christ!

2. William Padman was born in Great Gidding, Huntingdonshire, England, in the year of our Lord 1800. He was converted, through the instrumentality of the Wesleyan Methodists, in 1814. He fell, for a season, from his steadfastness, but was reclaimed in the following singular manner. Approaching a theatre one evening, as he was occasionally wont to do in his backslidden state, the brilliant lights flashing through the windows of the building, forcibly suggested to his mind that this was a representation of the fires of the bottomless pit. He gazed a moment, greatly agitated:

then hastily left the unhallowed place, never to revisit it. In great anguish of spirit, he immediately sought again reconciliation to God, and a place among his people, whom he had forsaken. The Lord soon blessed him with peace; and the way seemed providentially opened for him to preach the gospel of Christ. He was licensed by the society in England, preached four years in Nova Scotia, and then came to the United States. He labored for a season within the bounds of the N. E. conference, and in 1839 joined the N. H. conference, in connection with which he finished his course, after having been appointed successively to the following places, viz., Hampton and South Newmarket, one year each; Newington, two years; Strafford, one year; and Tuftenboro' and Wakefield, which was his last appointment.

Brother Padman was warmly attached to the doctrines and usages of the M. E. Church; sound and zealous as a preacher, delighting particularly to dwell on the doctrine of full redemption; and was a living witness and example of the glorious truth, that the blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin. The Lord owned his labors in the edification of his people, and the salvation of souls, in the different places where he labored.

As might be expected, the closing scene with him was not only tranquil, but victorious, affording another evidence that "death has no sting since the Saviour has died." His disease was consumption, under the influence of which he closed his career, at Dover, N. H., whither he had gone for medical aid, February 28th, 1845, aged forty-five years.

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Norwich, Conn., June 3, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

Otis Wilder was born in Concord, Vt., August 1, 1804. He was the third son of Nathan and Mercy Wilder. At the age of six years he was bound during the term of his minority to a Mr. Goss, who was by occupation a farmer, with whom he lived until he was twenty-one years old. At a very early period of his life he was made the subject of serious impressions; but, being destitute of early religious instruction, as neither his parents nor the family with whom he resided made any profession of religion, and thus, enjoying but few religious privileges, he resisted the strivings of the Holy Spirit, and continued unreconciled to God until he arrived at the age of twenty-two. In the fall of 1826 he attended a camp-meeting, in Concord, Vt., where he was induced to give his heart to Christ, and was accepted, and adopted into the household of God. He connected himself with the M. E. Church in the spring of 1827. About this time, feeling deeply impressed that he was called of God to preach the gospel, he entered the Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, where he continued some part of each year until the spring of 1831, when he was licensed to preach, and recommended to the traveling connection. At the ensuing New-England conference he was admitted on trial, and appointed to Northampton circuit; in 1832 to Franklin circuit; 1833 and 1834 he traveled Northfield circuit; in 1834 he was admitted into full connection, and ordained deacon; in 1835 he traveled Philipston circuit; in 1836 he was united in marriage with Miss Lucy Chapman, of Springfield, Mass., was ordained elder, and was appointed to South Wilbraham circuit; 1837, to Middleborough and Rochester; 1838, to Falmouth; and in 1839 to Chilmark. In 1840 the New-England conference was divided, when he became a member of the Providence conference, and was appointed to East Abington; 1841, to North Fairhaven; 1842, to Westport; 1843, to Cumberland; and in 1844 to Marston's Mills, Barnstable, where, on the 13th of the September following, he ended his labors, and fell asleep in Jesus, in full and blessed hope of a glorious immortality. The disease that terminated his earthly existence was typhus fever.

Brother Wilder was a good man, "full of faith and of the Holy Ghost;" and in regard to several of his appointments it might with great propriety be said, that "much people were added unto the Lord." Though not possessed of very brilliant talents, yet he gave proof of his ministry in every place, never, as is believed, leaving an appointment but in as good or better condition than he found it. If there was any one topic in his pulpit ministrations more prominent or common than another, it was that of entire sanctification. Nor was it with him merely a topic, but an abiding blessing, to the enjoyment of which he gave frequent testimony, both in public and in the social circle, and that by his godly life as well as holy conversation.

He left a wife and one infant child, the latter of whom soon followed him to the land of rest, and she is left to mourn alone, and to be attracted upward by a family in heaven.

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

In Broomfield-street M. E. Church, Boston, April 29, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

1. Timothy Merritt.—This venerable man, who so long filled a prominent post in our New-England Methodism, has, in a good old age, ripe in religious experience, and having performed more than ordinary labor for the church, gone down to the grave. Few men have left so pure a character as a legacy to his family and the church.

He was born in Barkhamstead, Conn., October, 1775. About the year 1792 he became the subject of renewing grace, and from that period till old age closed a useful life he was a pattern of unwavering, deep, and unaffected piety. He entered the traveling connection in 1796, and was stationed on New-London circuit, which at that time was about three hundred miles in extent. His next field of labor was the new county of the Penobscot, Maine, where he threaded his way among the new settlements, often by marked trees—swimming rivers and fording passes. In 1798 and 1799 he was stationed at Portland; in 1800 and 1801 on Bath and Union circuit; and in 1802 on Bath station. In 1803 he located, to ease the infant churches of the burden of supporting him and his growing family, and that they might have no excuse for not taking good care of their regular stationed preachers. The fourteen years of his location were years of great labor, toil, and hardship. Besides supporting his family, he preached regularly on the sabbath, and part of the time on week days, administering the ordinances when few of the preachers were ordained, and frequently held quarterly meetings for the presiding elders. In 1817 and 1818 he was stationed in Boston; 1819, at Nantucket; 1820 and 1821, at Lynn, Wood End; 1822, at Providence, R. I.; 1823 and 1824, at Bristol, R. I.; 1825 and 1826, in Boston again; 1827 and 1828, in Springfield; and 1829 and 1830, in New-Bedford. In 1831 he was stationed at Malden, and devoted much of his time to the editorship of Zion's Herald. From 1832 he was four years assistant editor of the Christian Advocate and Journal, at New-York. Thence he returned to Lynn, and labored as pastor of the South-street station two years. Here he remained until transferred to the general conference of true believers in Paradise.

He was distinguished as a powerful polemic writer; and was always ready to defend the church of his choice, both in her doctrines and her polity. The church in New-England owes a debt of gratitude to his memory for the services he rendered her in placing her before the religious community in her true light.

He was marked as a preacher by the frequency and thorough manner in which he proclaimed the doctrine of Christian perfection. He exhibited a consistent profession of that blessing for many years till the close of his life.

He being dead yet speaketh; he lives in the memory of surviving friends; and his name is like ointment poured forth.

2. Edmund Murphy Beebe, the son of Robert and Louisa Beebe, was born in Springfield, Mass., April 24, 1805. He received the pardon of his sins when about eighteen years of age; and, from that time, it is believed he lived a life of prayer. He commenced preaching the gospel in 1829, entering in May of that year on his probation for membership in the New-England conference. He was first appointed to East Windsor circuit, next to Hebron, then to Mansfield, and again to East Windsor, all in the state of Connecticut. His next appointment was Northampton circuit, Mass., which then included Williamsburg. He was successively appointed to Ipswich, Gloucester, East Cambridge, Lynn, South-street, and Chelsea stations. At the last place he was attacked with hemorrhage from the throat and lungs. He long flattered himself that he should recover. He removed to Williamsburg, where he closed his life, March 19, 1845, in sure and certain hope of eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Saviour. He died in peace, with a strong confidence in God, and a sweet assurance of his acceptance through the atonement.

Our departed brother was a good man. His life and ministerial deportment commended him to every man's conscience, in the sight of God, as a good Christian and a useful minister. The Lord help us all to live as blameless lives!

3. JAMES O. DEAN was born in Burlington, N. Y., December 31, 1810. He received the forgiveness of his sins, and a change of heart, when twenty-one years of age, at Greenfield, Mass., March 10, 1832. In 1835 he joined the New-England conference on probation, and was stationed at Ware Village. In 1836 he was appointed to Wales and South Wilbraham; 1837 and 1838, to Pelham; 1839, to Gill and Leyden circuit; 1840 and 1841, to Savoy; 1842, to Belchertown; and in 1843 and 1844, to Pelham again, where he died.

Brother Dean was a man of decision of character. From the time of his conversion till his death he was a stable Christian. Soon after he devoted himself to the ministry, he sought and gained the blessing of a clean heart; and retained, we believe, this great preparation for usefulness till he had finished his work. His end was peace.

4. JASON LEE, who is extensively known as one of the pioneers in the Oregon mission, was born in Stanstead, Lower Canada, 1803. He was converted to God under the labors of the Rev. R. V. Pope, Wesleyan missionary; and five years after, having passed through many mental struggles, and feeling "Wo is me, if I preach not the gospel!" he commenced publicly calling sinners to repentance. He labored with the Wesleyan missionaries in Stanstead and its vicinity till 1833, when he obeyed the indications of Providence, and engaged in the Oregon mission. The same year, preparatory to his missionary work, he was ordained; and he remained a member of the New-England conference till his death.

Brother Lee buried his first wife in 1838, in Oregon; and in 1842 his second wife also died there, leaving a little daughter, about three weeks old, who is now a lonely orphan in that distant country. He returned to the States, reaching New-York city in May, 1844. He was appointed by the New-England conference Agent for the Oregon Institute, for the benefit of which he intended to travel extensively for one or two years, and then return to Oregon.

After suffering for more than seven months, he died, in strong confidence in the Lord, on the 12th March, 1845, in the forty-second year of his age. He expired on his own home pillow, 'mid the scenes where in childhood he played, and the soothing, kind sympathy of loving relatives and friends.

His monument is written in the history of the Oregon mission and territory. "His record is on high."

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Uniontown, July 1, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

Thomas Baker was born in Monongalia county, Va., on the 6th of December, 1808. He became a subject of converting grace on the 20th of March, 1828. Soon after his conversion he felt it to be his duty to call sinners to repentance; and accordingly he was licensed to preach the gospel, in the M. E. Church, in July, 1832. He was received on trial in the Pittsburg annual conference, at its session in 1833, and appointed to Monongalia circuit. In 1834 and 1835 he was appointed to Brandonville mission; 1836 and 1837, to Lewis circuit; 1838 and 1839, to Greensborough; 1840 and 1841, to Redstone; 1842, to Brownsville station; and 1843 and 1844, to Ohio circuit. Here he ended his ministerial and earthly career. He went to his appointment in his usual state of health, and pursued his work until the 18th of February, when he was attacked with a hemorrhage of the lungs. This continued, with some intermissions, for several days; and was so abundant as to indicate that his dissolution was fast approaching. For this event, however, he felt himself prepared. His language was, "I am safe. Whichever way it may terminate, I feel that I am safe. If I am called away now, God will take me to himself." He bore his affliction with patience and resignation to the divine will; and though Satan sometimes thrust sore at him, he was still enabled to triumph through Christ. On several occasions, as he advanced toward life's closing scene, he became exceedingly happy, calling upon those around him to unite in singing the praises of God. At one time, on being asked what he wished to have sung, he replied, "Sing anything, but sing about Jesus and heaven." A short time before his spirit took its flight, he said, "O what a sight of heaven have I had! My soul is so happy, my poor body can hardly contain it." Thus passed away our beloved brother, on the 4th day of April, 1845.

Brother Baker was a man of great meekness, deep humility, and solid piety. He usually gained the confidence and affections of all with whom he became acquainted; and those who knew him best loved him most. His manners were plain and unaffected: his words were few, well chosen, and such as tended to edification. He possessed a remarkably clear understanding and sound judgment in the Holy Scriptures. As a preacher he was plain, pointed, and practical; "a workman that needed not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." As a husband and father, he was mild and affectionate. But he has gone to meet his everlasting reward, which we doubt not will be a crown of life.

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

Lowville, Lewis co., N. Y., June 17, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

1. Chandley Lambert was born in Alford, Mass., March 27, 1781, of Methodist parents. Though he possessed not the advantages of a thorough classical training, yet his education was sufficiently literary to give his mind a studious cast, and sufficiently moral to sanctify his thirst for knowledge. From early youth to manhood, previous to his conversion, he delighted much in reading the Bible, and frequently attended to secret prayer. While engaged in school teaching, in Lansingburg, in 1804, through the instrumentality of Rev. Laban Clark and Rev. Martin Ruter, he was induced to seek religion with all his heart, which resulted in the undoubted conversion of his soul. In 1808 he joined the Genesee conference. On the division of the Genesee conference, he fell into the Oneida conference; and on the division of the Oneida, he fell into the Black River conference, where he remained till his death. His slender constitution was but ill adapted to the exposures and fatigues of a Methodist preacher, at a period when the pecuniary and numerical strength of our church were alike feeble, the country new, circuits large, and conveniences rare; still he labored with efficiency for some twenty years, when his name was returned on the superannuated list, where it has since remained. Our excellent brother was not free from trials in the latter period of his life. He was not rich in this world's goods; consequently the limited allowance of a superannuated preacher being so inadequate to meet the wants of his family, it subjected him to afflictions, which tried his soul, at a period when the infirmities of age seek a release from the oppressive cares of life; but out of all the Lord delivered him. Few men have evinced a stronger and more uniform attachment to the M. E. Church than the deceased: few have possessed such uniform zeal to promote holiness in the membership. It would seem to one unacquainted with his peculiarities, that he observed the law with the scrupulousness of a legalist. If he did, it was not to merit salvation, but to be able to walk more consistently with the gracious state into which he had been introduced by faith in the blood of Christ. His hope was abiding to the last. The fatal disease which released his spirit was an epidemic: but three short days of sickness brought the weary wheels of life to a solemn pause. When asked if all was well, he calmly replied, "I know nothing to the contrary." Again, touching his realization of the divine presence, he was asked, "Is that Jesus whom you have preached to others now your comfort in this last conflict?" To which he replied, "It is the same Jesus whom I have preached to others." Soon after, the flickering lamp of life was extinguished. He died March 16, 1845, aged 64.

2. HEZEKIAH FIELD was born in Mansfield, Conn.; and born again, under the labors of Rev. Martin Ruter and John Nichols, in Woodstock, Vt., in 1801. He immediately connected himself with the M. E. Church, and remained a faithful member of the same till his death. Soon after his conversion he received license to preach; and in 1805 was received into the New-England conference, and was appointed to Ashburnham circuit, Mass.; in 1806, to Unity circuit, N. H.; in 1807, to Sandwich, N. H.; and in 1812 he located, and removed into the state of New-York, and soon joined the Genesee conference, and held an effective relation for four or five years only, when his health failed, and he was made a supernumerary, in which relation he did much service to the church. He was a good preacher—preached plain truth in a plain way, and with great success. As a Christian he sustained an unblemished character. He experienced the blessing of perfect love in 1807, and never lost the witness. He lived it and preached it to the end. In benevolence he excelled. His end, as might be expected, was peaceful. He said a few days before his death, "I am ready to go—to live is Christ, but to die is gain." He died January 2, 1845, aged 71.

3. W. W. NINDE was born at Lyons, Wayne co., N. Y., December, 1809. His paternal and maternal grandfathers were Methodists; both, we believe, local preachers. His mother was devotedly pious. From infancy our deceased brother was taught the fear of God, and he could not recollect the time when he did not maintain the form of prayer. He dated his experience of religion at about sixteen years of age, while attending school at Cazenovia. In 1828, being then in his nineteenth year, he was licensed to preach, and recommended to the Genesee conference, by whom he was received on trial at their next session. The conference was divided that year, and his appointment was in the Oneida conference, on Oswego circuit, with brother George Densmore. He was next year stationed at Adams, Jefferson co., where he remained two years. At the close of the latter year he was united in marriage with Miss Mary M. Moore, of Lowville, N. Y. The following year he was appointed to Cortlandville charge; the following two years at Pulaski; then again to Adams, where he remained two years. During his stay at Adams, the conference was again divided, and he fell into the Black River conference. He was next stationed at Oswego two years, at Syracuse two years, and at Lowville one year; from which place he was appointed to Rome. After serving this station two years, he was appointed to the Herkimer (now Rome) district. The former part of the year his health remained as good as usual; but during the month of February or March it began to fail. While attending the General Conference at New-York, of which he was a member, he seemed better; and after his return he preached several times. We think he preached his last sermon in June, having exercised his ministry sixteen years.

He started for conference, which held its session in Potsdam, St. Lawrence co., N. Y., July 31st, 1844; but his illness increasing, he was detained at Lowville. At this conference he was placed on the superannuated list. After his return to his residence, at Delta, his health continued to decline. His disease had been considered bronchial only; but as winter approached, symptoms of deep-seated pulmonary affection developed themselves. He lingered till Feb. 27, 1845, when he fell asleep, aged 35.

A few extracts from his diary will disclose his state of soul as death approached.

"Oct. 13. Sabbath morning. Rose some time before the family, and enjoyed almost Jacob's vision, without his long and laborious wrestling. The last doubt is gone. I am in the will of God. I am now holy here. Victory! Victory! I can now say with rapture, 'Thy will be done;' and the principle and feeling that sustain me is faith, and faith is both. O how it rests on God!"

"November 1. My soul is awaking on the subject of holiness. I find I must look up to God every moment, before every word and act—indeed, pray without ceasing—if I would retain my relation to the sanctified."

For several weeks before his death, he was unable to make any note in his diary; but he frequently expressed his confidence in Christ. On the Monday of the week in which he died, as his wife in her sympathy with every expression of his countenance remarked that he did not seem as cheerful as formerly, he replied, "O I feel cheerful! Do you not know my soul is ripening for glory?" He then shouted, "Glory! Glory!"

When he perceived himself dying, he requested that some one should pray. When one had prayed, he said, "Pray on;" and in a few moments, without a struggle he fell asleep. Thus died one of our most eloquent, popular, and efficient preachers: a most ardent friend of humanity, and a devoted Christian. His memory is engraved in the hearts of tens of thousands.

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Auburn, N. Y., July 8, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

John Griffin.—Brother Griffin was among the cherished and honored fathers of the conference: loved for his virtues, and respected for his successful services. He was converted at the age of twenty-four, under the labors of the Rev P. Cook; and the genuineness of the work was evinced by the great change apparent in his conduct. It is believed by those who knew him best, that his piety, from the time of his conversion up to the hour of his death, was an ever-growing expansion—deepening, growing, widening, and rolling on with increasing grandeur, as a mighty river moving toward the ocean.

His call to the ministry was by the Holy Ghost. This was evinced by those invariable marks set forth in our excellent book of Discipline—gifts, grace, and usefulness.

He was admitted on trial in the Genesee conference in 1814, several years before the organization of the Oneida conference. At the end of two years he was ordained a deacon by Bishop George, and two years after he was ordained an elder by Bishop Roberts. His ministerial course was marked by a holy, apostolic zeal. A generous, yearning sympathy for his fellow-men always dwelt in his heart, manifested by labors and anxieties evinced in the history of few men in any age of the church. Aside from the ardent toils upon the respective charges he served, the preachers who have labored at Owego and other charges in that portion of our work will call to mind his hearty co-operation in helping forward the work of God. Though in love with all good people, he was an ardent friend of the church of his choice: all her doctrines, usages, and peculiarities, he loved, and defended with ability and success.

In his last sickness, which was protracted and painful, he was sustained by the spirit of that gospel he so long preached. He was taken unwell the evening conference closed—came home—went to his work—preached but a few times—then returned to his family, as he said, "to die."

Some weeks before his death he observed, "I think I shall not get well. I have been an unprofitable servant." He then added, "My hope is in God. I am willing to live, and labor, and suffer, if it be his will." "But still," said he, "I am ready to go. I feel that all will be well." He then proceeded to give directions in regard to his funeral; and observed, as to the notice of his death, he wanted but little said. The day before he died he was able to converse but little; but he appeared to be "quite on the verge of heaven," from the expression of his countenance and the waving of his hand, and the signs he gave in answer to questions like the following: "Is Jesus precious?" "Is your way clear?" On the morning of his death, being sensible that his time had come, reviving a little, he addressed his weeping companion and family thus: "Farewell! I am going! Farewell, neighbors! All is well! All is well!" He fell asleep in Jesus, December 22, 1844, aged sixty years.

Thus closed the career of this amiable, useful, and honored minister of Christ. For more than thirty years he had labored and suffered, rejoiced and wept, as a Methodist itinerant preacher. He has gone! May we, his sons in the gospel, catch his mantle of zeal and holiness!

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Lyons, Wayne co., N. Y., September 2, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

Clark A. Smith was born in Salem, Washington co., N. Y., Dec. 3, 1810; was converted in Loraine, Jefferson co., Sept. 14, 1828; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church the January following; was licensed to exhort in 1830; was licensed a local preacher in 1835; and was received to travel soon after. He was ordained a deacon, by Bishop Hedding, in 1837; an elder, by the same, in 1839; and traveled Lawrenceville, Loyalsock, Chemung, Towanda, Fairport, and Millmont circuits. He died in Williamson, Wayne co., Sept. 13, 1844. That brother Smith died in the faith, and has gone to his rest in heaven, none can doubt who knew how he lived.

The two following memoirs should have been inserted in last year's Minutes, but were not received.

1. Seth Mattison was born in Shaftsbury, Vermont, Feb. 22, 1788. From his own account he was a subject of very early religious impressions, and at the age of fifteen was brought to the knowledge of God through faith in Christ. In July, 1805, he was received into the M. E. Church, in Onondaga, N. Y., by Rev. George Lane; and was shortly after licensed to exhort by Rev. Amos Jenks, who has long since gone to his rest. In 1807 brother Mattison obtained his first license, as a local preacher; and in 1810 he was received on trial to travel in the Genesee conference.

This year the Genesee conference appears for the first time on the Minutes, so that our departed brother has been identified with it from the beginning. Within this field he performed effective service for thirty years, having been supernumerary four years.

After preaching on the last sabbath in May, 1843, he baptized sixteen persons, several of whom were immersed. Shortly after, he was seized with a paralysis, which quite prostrated him, and so affected his optic nerve that he was nearly deprived of sight. While in this state he went, with his companion, to visit their children in Perry, in the hope that it might have a favorable effect upon him. But our heavenly Father ordered otherwise. Here, on the 18th of October, he closed his earthly pilgrimage, in the glorious hope of an endless life.

For two or three years before his death, it appeared to his most intimate friends that he was ripening for the heavenly kingdom. The state of mind which he enjoyed during this period, and which continued to the end, may be inferred from the following extract of a letter to his most confidential brother and bosom friend, Rev. Israel Chamberlayne, after he had been seized by the partial blindness occasioned by the paralysis with which he was attacked :—

"But glory be to God, the Father of lights," he says, "I am for the most part happy and resigned. The chastening of his rod affords me peculiar satisfaction, as it is a demonstration of his love to my unworthy soul. Yes, I feel that God is love both in darkness and in light! Hallelujah! Again, glory to God and the Lamb! I feel an assurance that I shall be saved from the great corruptions of the fall, and live where I shall no more need the light of the sun, moon, or stars."

The religious character of our departed brother was marked especially by his contemplation of the divine perfections. Upon these he was wont to dwell in his public discourses, as well as in his social intercourse, until he seemed overwhelmed with a sense of his own vileness and unworthiness, seen in the light reflected from the moral image of God. From this cause, probably, he was accustomed to speak with great diffidence of his own attainments in holiness, though all the graces of that high state of religious enjoyment shone eminently in his life and spirit.

Brother Mattison was an able and useful minister of the New Testament, and eminently endowed with the most amiable qualities of mind and heart. He possessed a kind and conciliating spirit; was a true and faithful friend; and exemplified in an eminent degree that charity which thinketh no evil, envieth not, is not puffed up.

2. Nelson Hoag was born in Oswegatchie, St. Lawrence co., N. Y., June 24th, 1811; and converted to God under the pious labors of Rev. D. Brayton, in Milton, Saratoga co., in 1832 or 1833, when he united with the M. E. Church. He was received on probation, as a traveling preacher, in Genesee conference, in October, 1836; graduated in the regular way to the office of an elder; and continued to labor as a faithful and successful minister of our Lord Jesus Christ until he was disabled by his last sickness. This was of short duration, only a few weeks, when it terminated in death, at Akron, Erie co., August 10th, 1844. He fell at his post, with his armor on. He died as he lived, trusting in God, in the enjoyment of a glorious and well-founded hope of eternal life.

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Piqua, Ohio, September 2, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

1. John Collins was a native of the state of New-Jersey, and was brought up in the faith of the Society of Friends. His conversion to God was through the instrumentality of the M. E. Church; and through his influence nearly, if not entirely, all his father's family were brought to God. He was licensed to preach as a local preacher in his native state, where he soon became a bright and shining light. He traveled extensively to sow the precious seed of the kingdom through West Jersey, and great was the increase God gave to the word of his servant. In the year 1804 brother Collins removed to the state of Ohio, purchased land, and settled on the Horse-Shoe Bottom, in Clermont county, twenty-five miles above Cincinnati. Here he commenced the business of farming; but God soon convinced him that he had a wider field for him to cultivate. Cobler, Bowman, Hunt, and others, had just opened "the new dispensation," (for so Methodism was then called, in ridicule, by the people of the West;) and brother Collins became convinced that God had a more fruitful soil for him to cultivate than the Horse-Shoe Bottom. In 1807 he entered the Western conference, when five circuits —namely, Miami, Mad River, Scioto, Hockhocking, and Muskingum—embraced the entire territory of the then settled parts of Ohio. His first circuit was Miami, and his first colleague was Benjamin Lakin, in charge, who is still with us, gracing our conference with his presence, and blessing us with his prayers. Brother Collins's next appointment was in charge of Scioto circuit, where God gave witness to the word of his grace, and great were the accessions to the church. In 1809 he traveled Deer Creek circuit. The following year he was returned to Deer Creek circuit. In 1811 he was appointed to Union circuit, which still bears the name. In 1812 he traveled Mad River and Xenia circuit, with Moses Crume. In 1813 he traveled Limestone circuit, in Kentucky. At the close of this year brother Collins located, believing his domestic obligations made such a step his duty. Although he had narrowed his field of labor, he did not withhold his hand, but preached extensively as a local preacher, occupying all his sabbaths in his Master's vineyard. This did not satisfy his conscience. God gave him clearly to see that he must "give himself wholly to these things;" and, in 1818, we find him on the Scioto district, where he remained as presiding elder for three years. In 1821 brother Collins was appointed in charge of Cincinnati station, where he was returned in 1822. In 1823 he was stationed in Chillicothe. In 1824 he was placed on the Lebanon district; and the next year on the Miami district, embracing the same territory, the district having only changed its name. In this work brother Collins continued four years, pleading his Master's cause with great power and effect. The four following years he presided on the Scioto district: then two years on New-Richmond circuit, in the neighborhood of home. In 1834 he was stationed in Cincinnati: in 1835 on New-Richmond circuit: the next year on White Oak circuit. Here brother Collins closed his itinerant life. His health had so far declined that he was compelled to take a superannuated relation, which he held until his death, which took place August 21st, 1845, in the seventy-sixth year of his age, having worn himself out in the work.

The last moments of this man of God were truly interesting. His death was as peaceful as his long life was pious. His setting sun was without a cloud. His last words were, "Happy! happy! happy!" and all was still. The spirit joined its convoy, and is now safely arrived in the abodes of the just.

The long and eventful life of brother Collins is made up of many important and interesting events. His history is identified with the history of the West. His usefulness as a preacher is unsurpassed in Western Ohio. As a successful pastor, we never knew his superior. His philosophic turn of mind eminently qualified him to meet the objections of skeptical minds; and many of this class have reason to rejoice that they were blessed with his instructions.

Brother Collins possessed a strong and vigorous intellect—a quick and clear perception; his lively imagination enabled him to employ the whole field of nature to illustrate the truths of grace.

This sweet-spirited minister was born in 1769, and died in Maysville, Ky., with a full prospect of a peaceful immortality.

2. Greenberry R. Jones was born near Brownsville, Fayette co., Pennsylvania, April 7, 1784. He was brought up under religious influence. His father was converted to God under the ministry of Rev. Robert Wooster, and became a member of the first class that was formed in what is now Uniontown. Little is known of the childhood and youth of the subject of this memoir. It may be supposed, however, from the well-known moral and religious character of his father, that he was blessed with the fostering care which flows from paternal solicitude and affection. Under such culture he received the rudiments of a good English education, and early moral and religious impressions. His strength of intellect, sweetness of disposition, and urbanity of manners, gained the affections, and excited the esteem and admiration, of his associates and acquaintance.

In August, 1803, he was clearly and soundly converted to God. The evidence of this great change was bright as the day. He shouted aloud, and said, "I am happy, happy!" From that time he doubted not, but formed a decidedly religious character. In 1810 he was licensed as a local preacher. In 1818 he was admitted on trial as an itinerant preacher, at the conference held in Steubenville, having moved to Ohio. (The Minutes are dated 1819, as they were printed at the close of the conference year.) His first appointment was to Salt Creek circuit. In 1819 and 1820 he was placed in charge of Scioto circuit. In 1821 he was appointed presiding elder, and placed on Scioto district, where he remained four years. In 1825 and 1826 he was in charge of White Oak circuit. In 1827 he was again appointed presiding elder, and was placed on Miama district, where he remained four years. In 1831 he traveled Hamilton circuit. In 1832 he was appointed to the charge of Portland district, as presiding elder. At the close of this year he was superannuated, and continued in that relation until 1839, when he was made effective, and appointed to New-Richmond circuit, where he was continued a second year. In 1841 and 1842 he was in charge of Batavia circuit. In 1843 he labored on White Oak circuit.

On this circuit he preached his last sermon, in the town of Moscow, where he joined a company of more than fifty of his brethren, the members of the conference, on board the steamboat bound for Marietta, the seat of the conference. He was apparently in good health, and enjoyed the society of his brethren with great satisfaction. He was cheerful and happy all the way until he reached the place where the conference had entered upon the business. Soon after he had engaged in his duties, as a member of the conference, he was attacked with cholic, a disease which had frequently brought him near to the gates of death. If the kindness and attentions of several eminent physicians could have saved him, he would not have died; but their united wisdom and remedies were all baffled by the ravages of the disease, which was every hour increasing its strength, and by every stroke hastening its victim to the cold grave. He was aware that his end was nigh, but it gave him no alarm. To him it was a time of great interest, but it was a peaceful time. He bore his extreme suffering with all that meekness and fortitude which become the Christian. His peace and joy were uninterrupted. In this state of mind, the approach of death did not alarm him. He had made it a subject of thought and deep reflection for many years, and had been living in reference to its realities. When the conference had adjourned, and the preachers were taking affectionate leave of him, he spoke of his future prospects with an unwavering confidence, and in sure and certain hope of immortality; a preparation for which he had not left to be made in the dying hour. He said, "There is not, and there has not been a cloud on my mind for more than a year. O that I had strength to express my feelings! I am overwhelmed with the goodness of God." He gave his dying blessing to his companion. Placing his hands on her head, he said, "The God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob bless thee!" As he approached nearer to his end, his joy increased, and his confidence became more and more firmly grounded on the immutable promises of God. During a few of the last hours of his stay, he spoke but seldom. The outward man was fast perishing, and he was sinking rapidly in the cold embraces of death. One who was present asked him, "Is all peace?" He raised his hand, his voice was heard but once more to fall on mortal ears: "All is peace, peace." He lost the power of utterance; the last conflict was in stillness; but it was not to be doubted that it was victorious. The messenger arrived, and his blood-washed spirit was released to enter its better and unchanging abode on September 20, 1844.

Brother Jones was esteemed as a zealous and faithful minister of Jesus Christ. He was full of good works, and abundant in efforts for the salvation of souls, and the prosperity of the church. In his hands, no enterprise of the church was suffered to languish. At the conference held at Marietta, where his remains now lie, he received full and renewed evidence that the estimate which his brethren had formerly placed on his worth had not depreciated. He was appointed on three of the most important committees. He was a good penman, and a ready accountant; and possessed correct and enlarged views of church polity. He was always relied on as a safe business man. He was several times secretary of the Ohio Conference, twice he was chosen a delegate to the General Conference, and served nine years in the office of presiding elder. In all these places he acquitted himself as a faithful, able, and trustworthy minister of the New Testament, and servant of Jesus Christ.

3. Henry S. Fernandes was born December 1st, 1793, in Loudon co., Va.; and was brought up in the Church of England. At an early period of his life he was brought to see his lost and ruined condition. He cried to God until in mercy he was heard, and delivered from his distress, and made joyful in the Lord. While young he emigrated to Ohio. Having become particularly acquainted with the doctrines and discipline of the M. E. Church, he joined it in 1812. Feeling that it was his duty to preach, and Providence opening his way, on the 16th of January, 1819, he was licensed by Rev. J. Collins; and in August of the same year was received on trial into the traveling connection, and appointed to Lawrenceburg circuit. At the ensuing conference he was discontinued, at his own request, in order to settle some temporal business. In 1821 he was again admitted on trial, and successively received the following appointments: Scioto circuit, Columbus, Granville, Logan, Charleston, Athens (two years,) Chillicothe, Granville (two years,) Putnam, Norwich (two years,) and Summerset (two years.) At the close of his last appointment he was superannuated. He then settled in Rushville, and continued to do all that he could for and in the church. From the shocks which his constitution had received, he never recovered, but seemed gradually to wear away under a combination of spinal disease and hepatic derangement. In the spring of 1845 it began to assume a character which showed that his death was not far distant. But as he had lived a Christian, so like one he met his dissolution. To a friend he said, "I never felt such communion with God before. O how deep! O how sweet!" To Rev. W. R. Davis he said, "Tell the Ohio Annual Conference, Henry S. Fernandes loves them all with a perfect love." Brother Davis asked, "Shall I tell them that you have gone to heaven?" He replied, "Yes: to heaven, to God, to Mount Zion. O will they all meet me there?" On another occasion he said, "Brother Finley, I am going straight home—straight home to glory." Being asked by his wife, a short time before his death, whether he had any doubts or fears, he answered, "No: not any. I have conversed so long with death, that it has no terrors in it." On the 17th of May, 1845, in the 53d year of his age, in his own house, surrounded by his family and friends, thus fell asleep this man of God.

In stature Brother Fernandes was rather below the middle size. He possessed a manly and noble spirit, happily blending dignity and gravity with sweetness and gentleness of manners. As a preacher, his talents were respectable; and as an ambassador of God, he aimed to bring his message home to the understanding and conscience of his hearers. By this, and his faithful and courteous manner in private, he became the instrument of turning many from sin unto righteousness, and from the power of Satan unto God. Possessing a calm, clear, ard discriminating mind, he administered the discipline of the church with prudence and stability. In business he was diligent, just and honorable. As a neighbor, humane and peaceable. As a husband and father, kind, affectionate, and provident. O that God would raise up and send forth into his vineyard many such laborers as Henry S. Fernandes!

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Laporte, September 23, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

1. Burrows Westlake died on the 17th day of April last, at his own residence, in Logansport, Indiana. Of the parentage, education, and early history of our beloved brother, we are not now informed. Our first authentic information in relation to him is from the regular Minutes, from which we learn that in the year 1814 he was received into the Ohio conference, then sitting in Cincinnati. The last nine years of his life and labors were in connection with the Indiana conference, and several of the last years as presiding elder. His disease was epidemic erysipelas. It was rapid in its progress, and for some twelve hours deprived him of the power of speech. The last act of his life was to rise from his bed, kneel at its side, and commend his spirit to God: after which he laid down, and calmly expired. A few days more brought his beloved companion to her grave, with the same disease. Thus doubly bereft, his eldest daughter in a few brief months followed her parents to the tomb. But we fondly indulge the belief that they all "sleep in Jesus."

Our deceased brother possessed a strong intellect, well stored with useful knowledge, a heart long subdued and chastened by the influence of grace—in short, endowments of head and heart which constituted him a "minister that needed not to be ashamed." He seems to have possessed a presentiment of his approaching end, and spoke repeatedly in reference to it to his friends. His last sermon, which was attended with peculiar unction, was from Ephesians v, 16: "Redeeming the time because the days are evil." Ominous words! The Lord imprint them on every heart! Several children in tender years were left by him. They desire the sympathies and prayers of the church. May the God of the orphan protect and bless them, preserve them amid the snares of the world, and bring them safe to the home of their parents in heaven!

2. Zechariah Games was born August 8th, 1797, in Charlestown, Jefferson co., Virginia. About the seventeenth year of his age he sought and obtained the pardon of his sins through faith in Christ Jesus; and at the age of about twenty-three years was licensed to preach the gospel. In the year 1832 he was admitted on trial into the Ohio conference, and transferred the same year to Indiana. For some years he labored in the southern portion of Indiana conference, filling with acceptability and usefulness several different circuits and stations. In 1836, under the pressure of pecuniary embarrassment, he temporarily located. Dissatisfied with this relation, he, in 1838, was readmitted, served the conference one year in the capacity of agent for the university, and subsequently in the regular work, in various fields of labor, up to the day of his death, which occurred on the 11th day of December last, at the house of Jacob Early, in Laporte, Indiana, before he had reached the field of labor assigned him for the past year. The later fields filled by our deceased brother were all in the northern section of the work. Here was the scene of his greatest success and usefulness in the ministry. God owned and blessed his labors, and many will long cherish his memory. Brother Games was blessed with good personal appearance, commanding voice, clear intellect, extensive acquaintance with the human character, and, above all, (especially in the later years of his life and ministry, as we have reason to believe,) with much of the life and power of godliness. His end was "great peace." A bereaved and desolate companion is left behind him, still longer to encounter the storms of life. May God's richest blessings rest upon her for this world and for that which is to come!

Quest. 18. Where and when shall our next Conference be held?

At Paris, Edgar county, Illinois, Sept. 23, 1846.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

1. Jesse Haile.—Of our brother's birth and education we have not been able to learn anything; and the first definite knowledge we have of him is his admission on trial in the Tennessee conference, in 1813, and his appointment to the Missouri circuit. From that time brother Haile was identified with the history of Methodism in the west until the day of his death; and, as we learn from the bound Minutes, occupied the following fields of labor:—In 1814 he was continued on the Missouri circuit; 1815, Livingston circuit; 1816, Cape Girardeau circuit; 1817, Illinois circuit, Missouri conference; 1818, Illinois circuit; 1819, Illinois district; 1820, Missouri district; 1821, New Madrid circuit; 1822, Shoal Creek circuit; 1823, Illinois circuit; 1824, Indianopolis circuit; 1825, Missouri district; 1826 to 1829, Arkansas district; 1830, Bloomington circuit; 1831, Sangamon circuit; 1832, Paris circuit; 1833, Pekin circuit; 1834, having lost his health, he was superannuated; 1835, having regained his health in some measure, he was appointed to the Carrolton circuit; 1836, he was again superannuated; 1837, he was appointed to the Carlyle circuit in a supernumerary relation; 1838, Hillsboro' circuit; 1839, Big Creek mission; 1840, Shelbyville circuit; 1841, Okaw circuit; 1842, Newhaven circuit; 1843, Livingston circuit; and 1844, Paris circuit. On all the above fields, we believe, brother Haile labored faithfully and usefully, and we know not that any wrong was ever charged against him. He was a good, plain, pointed, and practical preacher and minister; and studied to do everything by rule, and at the time. The circuits he traveled in the early part of his itinerancy embraced extensive territory, thinly populated, on which he endured much fatigue and exposure, but was never known to say, "My work is hard."

Brother Haile died at Nashville, Ill., the seat of our last annual conference, where he came to give an account of his work in the Lord's vineyard on the Paris circuit, and to take a new appointment; but his work was done. We are told by a brother, who was with him when he died, that "for his end he was entirely prepared, and seemed all absorbed in praising God for his goodness; and that the uniform state of his mind was peace." He left this for the world of spirits a few days after the close of the conference; and now he rests in peace, until the voice of the trump of God shall bid him rise and receive a crown of life.

2. Edward Troy was born in Hamilton co., Ohio, August 15, 1819. In January, 1836, he was born again, in Perry, Pike co., Ill. In April, 1838, he was licensed to exhort, by Rev. M. Clampet. In 1838 he was licensed to preach on the Jacksonville circuit, and at the ensuing Illinois conference was admitted on trial, and appointed to travel on the Griggsville circuit, the next year to Macomb circuit, and the year after to the Carthage circuit; thence to Hadley Creek circuit, where he remained two years; the year following to Equality station; and at our last conference he was appointed to Pulaski circuit. He sent part of his household furniture to the circuit, and an appointment for an early commencement, but did not live to fill it. An intimate acquaintance of our deceased brother says, "I heard him preach his first sermon, and deliver his last exhortation; and during an acquaintance of eight years I can remember nothing in his course incompatible with the gospel of Christ."

About three years before his death, going to an appointment in the Hadley Creek circuit, a short distance from his father-in-law's, his horse took fright, threw him off, and fell on him, which broke his thigh, and left him helpless, some distance from a public road or human habitation. Here he endured for seven hours the pain of a broken limb, and the burning heat of a July sun, and the temptation that he had served God for naught, and that he should die unpitied and alone. He took his Bible, and on its blank leaves wrote his will; and then, as his pain would permit, perused its sacred pages, and felt his faith strengthened in God. He prayed earnestly that his mother-in-law might, in the providence of God, follow him. She said, that suddenly at home she became uneasy, quit her work; and, still finding no relief, she left, with some of the smaller children, to gather blackerries, not knowing which way brother Troy had gone in the morning. She took a blind path very seldom traveled, and after wandering for some time heard his groaning, and, hastening to the spot, found him in a piteous condition. He was confined to his bed forty days, with resignation of spirit. A few days before his last illness, while standing with a friend on a very high bluff of the Mississippi river, he said, "I feel like preaching till the last sinner on the last tributary of that stream is converted to God."

Brother Troy was a good preacher; and his studious habits and pious deportment, connected with his great usefulness, led the church to hope that at no distant day he would be found among the first and great men of Israel. In his last illness he could exultingly say, "All is ready! all is ready!" Thus he fell asleep in Jesus, in October last. Peace to his memory!

3. Isaac G. Barr was born in Tennessee, in 1811. He subsequently emigrated with his parents to Illinois, and settled in Marion county, where he was converted to God during the winter of 1831. After having exercised his gifts, first as an exhorter, and then as a local preacher, he was regularly admitted on trial in the Illinois conference, in the fall of 1835, and appointed to Brownsville mission. In 1836 he was appointed in charge of Shawneetown circuit. In 1837 he was returned to the same appointment. In 1838 he was removed to Salem; 1839, M'Clainsborough; 1840, Palestine; 1841, Big Creek mission; 1842, Carlyle; and 1843 to Mackinaw, where he closed his itinerant labors. On his way to conference, which was held this year at Nashville, he visited, with his family, his father-in-law, at Salem, about a day's travel from the seat of conference; and, though in feeble health, he started to be in attendance, but advanced only a few miles when he was taken violently ill. He was taken back to his father-in law's, brother John C. Houts, where he lingered in much pain till the day, and about the same hour, that conference adjourned, when his spirit took its flight for its home in heaven. He retained his Christian confidence unshaken in the last trying conflict. When death appeared in view, he manifested some uneasy solicitude on account of his unsettled business, and for his wife and two little children; but as it drew near, he was enabled calmly to resign all into the hands of his God, and triumph in the prospect of resting from his labors.

Brother Barr was a sincere Christian, a kind husband, a tender father, a diligent man, a hard student, and a good preacher. He was a man of a slender constitution; and, sooner than many of us, he has worn out in his Master's work, and sooner entered upon his reward.

Quest. 12. Who have died this year?

1. Peter R. Guthrie was born in Alleghany co., Penn., Dec. 14, 1819. His parents were pious members of the Presbyterian Church, who brought him up in the fear of God. In early life he was remarkable for kindness and gentleness of disposition. His fondness of singing led him to attend Methodist meetings, where he became convinced of sin, and the necessity of a change of heart. On the 4th of March, 1839, in the act of joining the church, he experienced the blessing of pardon, and obtained the witness of his acceptance with God. He soon felt that a dispensation of the gospel was committed unto him, and determined to give himself wholly to the work of the Christian ministry. He was received on trial in the Indiana conference, in October, 1839, and appointed to Rising Sun circuit, and the following year to Lexington circuit. At the conference of 1841 he was ordained deacon, and appointed to Bedford. In 1842 he was in charge of Paoli circuit. At the following conference he was ordained elder, and reappointed to Paoli circuit. In all these fields, brother Guthrie's labors were much blessed; and many souls, converted through his instrumentality, will be stars in the crown of his rejoicing in the day of the Lord Jesus. At the conference of 1844 he was appointed to Salem station, where he had but just commenced his labors with bright prospects of extended usefulness, when he was attacked with congestive fever; and although skill and friendship did all that could be done to arrest its progress, he gradually sunk, until the 30th of November, when he sweetly fell asleep in the embraces of his Saviour. In all his sickness he was patient and resigned. When suffering severely, he remarked to a friend, "These light afflictions shall work out for me a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." To another, who inquired what were his prospects for the better land, he replied, "All is well."

Brother Guthrie was a young man of much promise. By a systematic and close application to study, he was enabled "to show himself a workman that needed not to be ashamed." He set the standard of ministerial qualification high, and bid fair to attain to it. His sermons evinced much thought, were highly instructive, and listened to at all times with interest. And though "gone to the grave," he still lives in the affections of his brethren and the people among whom he labored.

2. DANIEL S. ELDER was born in the state of Virginia, Sept. 6, 1818. When a youth his widowed mother removed to the West, and settled at Petersburg, Pike co., Indiana. Having received that kind of mental and moral training which is ever given by an intelligent and pious mother, Daniel was converted to God at the early age of fourteen. Shortly after his conversion he left home, and entered upon the study of medicine in the city of Vincennes. While pursuing his studies, he became concerned upon the subject of preaching; and being satisfied that it was his duty to go forth as a herald of the cross, he turned his attention to the study of theology, and having evinced to the church that he possessed gifts and graces for the work of the ministry, he was licensed to preach, and recommended to the itinerant connection the 17th of August, 1840. He was received on trial in the Indiana Conference in October following, and appointed to Mount Vernon circuit. The second year he was appointed to Rockport circuit. At the close of this year he was received into full connection, and reappointed to Rockport circuit. The fourth year he was appointed to Corydon circuit, and at the close of this year to Elizabeth circuit. Here he entered upon his duties in the spirit of his Master, and continued to prosecute them until the 24th of February, when he was attacked with bilious fever, which was followed by convulsions, and continued with but little intermission until the 28th day of February, 1845, when he was released from his sufferings by death, leaving consoling evidence that he has gone to his reward at God's right hand, leaving a wife to mourn the loss of an affectionate companion, and two little children to feel the want of a kind and indulgent father.

As a man brother Elder possessed an unusual degree of urbanity and kindness. As a minister he possessed talent above mediocrity. His sermons bore the marks of fair literary attainments, careful research, and prayerful thought. In the arrangement of his subjects he observed system, but was not so rigid as to destroy the beauty and force of his sermons. His style in the pulpit was decidedly refined and eloquent; and had he lived till his mind became matured by study, he would have taken his position among the ministers of Christ as a star of no inferior magnitude. But he has gone, for God hath taken him; and though the providence that removed him from the walls of Zion before he had attained the summit level of life, and while he promised so much usefulness to the church, is dark and mysterious, we repine not, for we know that our God is too wise to err.
